Governor Signs 14 Bills, Vetoes Technical Measure

DENVER (AP)—Fourteen bills, including one which makes major malicious destruction punishable by imprisonment in the State Penitentiary, were signed Friday by Gov. John A Love. He vetoed one measure.

Love now has signed 54 bills and has vetoed 2.

Principal sponsor of the malicious destruction bill was Rep. Bill Gassard, R-Craig. It is aimed primarily at wanton destruction in schools, churches and public buildings but applies to all types of vandalism.

It makes any deliberate destruction causing damage of less than $500 a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or jail sentence, and any destruction of property worth more than $500 a felony, punishable by one to 10 years in the State Penitentiary.

The bill vetoed was House Bill 67 by Rep. Frank Evans, D-Pueblo, entitled "Concerning Claims to Land Under Color of Title." The measure, a technical one, was vetoed, Love said, because "it might endanger certain rights of way for roads, ditches and utilities by removing the requirement of possession."

He said he acted after consulting title experts of the Colorado Bar Association.

Most of the other bills repealed dead-letter laws.

The other bills signed, all House bills, were Nos. 59, 86, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 110 and 111.

Red China Says Nikita's Talks Are 'Drivel'

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China, pressing its "hard line" attack on Kremlin policies, Friday accused Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and other "self-styled Leninists" of talking "drivel on the question of war and peace."

The Peking Communists, spurning recent Soviet peace overtures, sarcastically charged that Khrushchev and his fellow critics of China's tough communism consider themselves to be the sole "reincarnations of Lenin."

Bobby Says He Does Not Seek Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy whipped out an "emphatically not" when asked if he is planning to run for president in 1968.

But the consenus among Washington politicians Friday is that time possibly could change what most of them feel is about the only reply the President's brother could make to such an inquiry at this point.

Interviewed during a limousine ride from a hotel speaking engagement to his Justice Department office, Kennedy tried to scotch some other rumors that

Mrs. P. Grant Gets Probation

Phyllis Grant was given a suspended sentence of one to three years in the state penitentiary and placed on probation by District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman Friday for forgery.

Mrs. Grant, 22, of 232 Esther Dr. was accused of giving a $7.50 check to Duckwalls Stores, Jan. 29. She pleaded guilty Feb. 6 and told the judge, Friday that she was undergoing psychiatric treatment. She was represented by lawyer Ray Duitch.

Merel L. Harris, 26, of 133½ E. Colorado Ave. pleaded guilty to no account check and had March 15 set for pre-sentence investigation and taking of testimony.

Information states the defendant gave a $20 check Dec. 29 to Millers Super Market Inc. drawn on the First National Bank of Burlington, Colo.

The people were represented by Deputy District Attorney Jack Rosner.

Doug's 2, But Signs Own Name

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Douglas Wood ambled into the Richmond Public Library the other day and picked up his personal library card. And for him, it was a real event.

Doug is 2.

To meet library regulations, Doug had to sign his name on the application form for the library lending card.

He did, in childish block letters easily recognizable.

Reading and writing words are almost old hat to him. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Wood Jr., said he could recite the alphabet when he was 20-months-old. His literary bent sometimes interferes with meals.

They said he's been reading and writing words for the past 8 months.

"He's just interested in spelling," his mother said, "and he continually is asking me how to spell different words." She spells them and he writes down the letters.

But he still has to master reading or writing complete sentences.

"Sometimes he'll pretend," Mrs. Wood said, "but he's just memorized a story that has been read to him over and over."

Doug has two sisters, Kimberlee, 17 months, and Sharon, 2 months.

Bids Asked For Carson Air Field Work

Bids have been advertised by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Omaha District, for the first step construction toward the ultimate development of Butts Army Air Field at Ft. Carson, it was announced by Col. H. G. Woodbury Jr., district engineer.

The approximately two million dollar construction was placed for bids on February 15 and the resulting bids will be opened on March 19 at Omaha and the apparent low bidder will be announced at that time.

Following an administrative appraisal and approval of the apparent low bid, it is expected

FAA Planning Tower Work Here

The Federal Aviation Agency will spend $174,220 at the Colorado Springs control tower for an air traffic control radar beacon system it was reported Friday in Washington by Senators Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick.

The Colorado Republicans reported the FAA will spend in all $370,000 on air safety facilities in the state.

Other expenditures will include $81,000 worth of increased facilities at the flight service center at Denver, and $28,000 for VHF-UHF direction finding equipment.

Influenza Epidemic Spreading

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The influenza epidemic continued its steady spread Friday but there were hopeful developments in widely separated areas. Overall, it appeared to be worse than last year's influenza outbreak but milder than the 1960 epidemic of the Asian type.

The U.S. Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta reported that the 7-week-old outbreak of flu-like illness has spread to 31 states with Asian confirmed in 16. Latest official additions to the general list are Louisiana and Rhode Island.

The center said that while the steady westward encroachment continues, major areas of many states still are not affected. West Coast and Rocky Mountain states, it added, report only the usual incidence of colds and acute respiratory ailments.

In a summary of 108 cities from which it receives reports, the center said excess deaths this year among persons 65 and older total 4,218. For the last four weeks, the excess was 2,574 which, while much greater than the 772 for the comparative period of 1962, was much less than the 1960 total of 3,320.

New Jersey health officials reported that respiratory infections are beginning to slacken and the pressure is off in Asian flu outbreaks.

West Germany's Parliament Okays French Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's upper house of Parliament approved Friday the treaty signed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Charles de Gaulle to end four centuries of enmity between Germany and France.

Adenauer made a personal appeal in the three-hour debate to support the treaty, signed in Paris on Jan. 22.

The treaty of friendship and cooperation still requires ratification by the lower house of Parliament. It will be taken up there later this month and Adenauer will have to do some hard bargaining to win approval.

Seven members of the upper house voted in favor and three abstained. The house is made up of representatives of the 10 federal states.

"We are determined to end once and for all the 400 years of rivalry between France and Germany," Adenauer said. "European union cannot come about unless the two central powers, France and Germany, reach agreement."

The 87-year-old chancellor insisted that the treaty does not interfere with West Germany's other international obligations or force it to side with De Gaulle in all matters.

The upper house was not fully reassured, however. It simultaneously voted for a resolution asking the government to make sure that the application of the treaty does not hurt West Germany's re

Shoeshine for Russian Stirs British Public

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet general visiting the British Rhine army in West Germany saw a British officer getting a shoeshine from a corporal and asked if he could have one too.

A photo of the 6-foot-3, 224-pound soldier polishing the Russian's boots hit British front pages Friday. Headlines cried in anguish.

"Military Protocol Gone Mad," said the Daily Sketch.

Said the soldier's wife, Mrs. Arthur Bradley: "This is an insult not only to my husband but to the entire British army."

But the War Office said the shoeshine was quite a normal courtesy to the visiting officer, Lt. Gen. I. I. Pstygo, commander of the Soviet air force in the East zone.

The tradition of the batman, a military servant a cut below the orderly of non-British armies, lies deep in British military history.

A storm sped across the Midwest and into the East Friday, tossing a treacherous coating of snow and freezing rain on streets and roads.

The storm center moved rapidly across parts of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and headed northeastward toward New England.

Heavy snow threatened traffic tie-ups in Indiana. Martinsville schools closed before noon while the snow approached the one-foot mark.

Schools also suspended classes

Carson Receives Approval to Rent 300 Houses Here

Maj. Gen. John A. Heintges, commander of Ft. Carson and the 5th Infantry Division, announced today that authority has been granted by Department of the Army to lease 300 houses in the Colorado Springs area.

Public Law 161, 84th Congress, as amended, authorizes leasing for occupancy by military personnel at installations where there is a shortage of adequate on - post housing.

Since the activation of the Army Training Center at Ft. Carson in August, 1961, and then the 5th Infantry Division in February 1962, the military population of the post has grown substantially.

With only 998 units of family housing, Ft. Carson cannot meet the demand for quarters by assigned personnel.

The leased housing program is similar to the one which has been conducted in this area by the Army for Army Air Defense Command personnel for a number of years and the one which the Air Force Air Defense Command is presently undertaking.

It is designed to alleviate the problems incurred by soldiers attempting to find adequate housing within the range of their basic allowance for quarters.

Because of their frequent changes of station and the relatively short time they have to search for housing, soldiers often live in units which are either

Motel Burns At Leadville

LEADVILLE (UPI) — A fire caused by an overheated flue destroyed a 12-unit motel and an adjacent service station - garage Friday in downtown Leadville's third major fire within the past six months.

The fire, which raged during a near blizzard in 10-degree cold, caused damage estimated at $70,000 to $100,000.

Authorities said a flue leading from a coal furnace in the Mountain Peaks Motel apparently was to blame. The flames broke out in the roof of the motel. There were no injuries.

Five of the motel units were occupied by tenants who had checked in a short time before. All escaped with their belongings.

A witness said volunteers were able to save many furnishings from the motel, but that the buildings were a total loss.

The fire broke out about 3:50 p.m. and was controlled by about 6 p.m.

Tony Anastasia, Dock Boss, Dies

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dock boss Anthony (Tough Tony) Anastasia died Friday of a heart ailment and 12,000 dockworkers stayed away from their jobs, idling the Brooklyn waterfront in silent tribute.

The swarthy dock boss was a brother of Albert Anastasia, reputed "lord high executioner" of the Murder, Inc., who was executed himself gangland fashion in a Manhattan barbershop in 1957.

Traveling Particle Hits Atmosphere, Causes Shower

By JOHN A. BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tiny superpowered invader from distant space penetrated our solar system last month and crashed into the earth's atmosphere, setting off a cosmic ray shower over New Mexico.

The invader was a mere nucleus of an atom, but physicists say its energy was so great it must have come from some distant galaxy, outside our own Milky Way.

The event was reported in the current issue of Physical Review Letters by John Linsley of the Laboratory for Nuclear Science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Linsley detected the shower at the Volcano Ranch recording station near Albuquerque, N.M.

Physicists reason that the atomic nucleus that invaded the

China Finishes Troop Pullback, Threatens India

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China claimed Friday its promised troop withdrawal along the Sino-Indian border was complete. It warned new fighting could flare if Indian troops move into vacated areas.

A statement issued by the Communist Chinese Defense Ministry said: "The eased border situation will not become tense again provided the Indian side refrains from making provocations again and from re-entering the four areas where there is a dispute about the cease-fire arrangement."

It warned India not to move into these areas, which it described as the Che Dong and Longju zones in the eastern sector, Wuje in the middle sector, and "the area in the western sector where India once established 43 military strongpoints and where China had set up additional frontier posts in order to resist Indian invasion."

The statement reiterated charges that India, "far from taking any corresponding measures, has kept sending military personnel and military aircraft to intrude into our territory and air space for provocation and harassment."

Sanchez Sent To Reformatory

Bennie Phillip Sanchez was sent to the state reformatory Friday by District Judge David W. Enoch for burglary. The second count of larceny was dismissed after the defendant pleaded guilty to count one.

Sanchez, 18, of Route 3 was accused of breaking into the Ute Drive-In Liquors, Sept. 22, and stealing 13 bottles of vodka worth $52. Testimony was heard Friday from Police Officer James Caldwell who said he had obtained a signed statement from the defendant.

Macy's Says Will Boycott New York Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Macy's big department store announced Friday night an advertising boycott against the New York Post, which broke publishers' ranks and prepared to resume publication Monday.

In a statement, Macy's said: "Macy's takes no position with respect to the merits of the current labor dispute. This is already in the hands of federal and city mediators and we hope that a wise solution can be found.

"We do feel, however, that to support one newspaper with our advertising when the others are not available might put undue pressure on them to settle regardless of merit.

"We prefer not to do this."

Peace talks in the 84-day printers strike resumed Friday and Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he would keep both sides at the bargaining table "as long as their physical endurance can stand it."

Wagner set up the renewed negotiations as a final alternative to proposing his own nonbinding settlement terms. He said the decision of the Post's publisher, Dorothy Schiff, to reopen her afternoon tabloid would not affect the talks.

The Post was preparing to return to the streets the first of next week to ease the city's newspaper blackout.

Publishers of the remaining eight major dailies were jolted by

People Make Difference in Locks of City

The people of the community spell the difference between success and failure in any municipal development program, two visiting city planners told the Springs Area Beautiful Association Friday.

More than 100 persons attended the annual meeting of the SPABA held at Bemis Hall at Colorado College and unanimously re-elected Dr. John Monteith as president of the association.

Others officers elected were Mrs. Tor Hylbom, first vice president; Col. Louis T. Vickers, second vice president; Donald Higginbotham, third vice president; Mrs. Marshall Cross, secretary, and Gerald Jones, treasurer.

Guest speakers were C. Alan Blomquist, director of the Pueblo Regional Planning Commission, and Don Warner, development director for Grand Junction.

Both men outlined community development programs in their cities and pointed to the importance of popular support of such programs.

"You must go to the PTA's and other such groups — to the grass roots of the community — and not just to the leaders of the civic clubs and organizations if your program is to be a success," Blomquist said.

Both he and Warner pointed out that all planning and development programs must be sold to the community and in order to be sold they must first be presented in an attractive manner to the people who will pay for it.

Blomquist likened this selling program to a political campaign. He said every city needs precinct workers for development programs as well as elections.

"Community planning involves the total of the community," Blomquist said. "We must remember that we do - gooders are often not completely informed about the needs of the people."

He said this lack of knowledge

Mollenkopf Gets 2 Years For Marijuana Possession

Kenneth L. Mollenkopf, 23, of Route 1, Pikeview, was sentenced to two to four years in the state penitentiary and a suspended $100 fine Friday for being in possession of a narcotic drug.

The defendant orginally pleaded innocent but changed his plea Feb. 5 when the words "for sale" were struck from the information. Mollenkopf was found with marijuana in his possession Oct. 14.

Six people appeared as character witnesses. Dean Smith, manager of the Valley - Hi Country Club said he had known Mollenkopf for eight years and that the defendant had worked for him. He was an excellent worker. Smith testified and he would not hesitate to employ him again.

John Abrahamson, part - owner of Moses Restaurant and Bill Peyser, proprietor of the Gables Restaurant gave similar testimony as did Edith Bjorklun, a waitress at the Gables, and Sylvia Emerson, a college student, who described Mollenkopf as "a very likeable person and very polite." Noel Mollenkopf, the defendant's father also testified.

Peyser told the court that Mollenkopf, who was currently employed by him, was earning $100 a week, and court appointed attorney Howard Kunstle said he was appointed Oct. 1962 to act on behalf of the defendant. Kunstle had requested that the $5,000 bond might be reduced, so he could get out of jail to find a job and employ his own counsel. The motion for reduction of bond was denied and his client was finally released Dec. 5 upon payment of $500 to a local bondsman. Since then, said Kunstle, Mollenkopf

Secret Testimony Is Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's intelligence director says a dangerous, widespread, highly organized Communist subversion apparatus is being built around Latin Americans trained in Cuba.

Despite the gravity of the threat to hemisphere governments as described by John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, a Republican critic charged the administration "is not leveling with us."

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a member of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, complained McCone "was not very lucid on a lot of this stuff" when he appeared before the subcommittee Feb. 19. His censored testimony was released Friday.

Gross claimed McCone's appearance was part of a pattern of "coverup of what has happened and then build up a case for giving more money to the Alliance for Progress."

President Kennedy insists that the threat of Communist subversion in Latin America never can be effectively overcome until there are effective economic and political reforms to meet the poverty and discontent on which the Reds trade. The Alliance for Progress is the administration's chief weapon in this fight.

Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala., the subcommittee chairman, released the testimony which appeared to consist of McCone's prepared statement and did not include the question-and-answer exchanges between him and subcommittee members.

McCone testified that at least 1,000 to 1,500 "students" from all except one Latin-American country went to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba in 1962 to receive practical training in guerrilla warfare, sabotage and terrorism. The flow is continuing

Nikita Endorses Awarding Peace Prize to Pope

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss-Italian Balzan Foundation, with the warm approval of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, awarded its first peace prize Friday to Pope John XXIII. It is worth $51,000.

The foundation, modeled after the Swedish Nobel Prize Foundation, awarded another $51,000 prize to retired Rear Adm. Samuel Eliot Morison of Boston, U.S. Navy historian of World War II, for his 15-volume naval history.

Pope John was cited for what the foundation called his unceasing efforts for peace, brotherhood and understanding among peoples and religions of the world. It mentioned his calling of the Vatican Ecumenical Council and his invitations to other religions to observe it.

Sources in the Vatican said the 81-year-old Pontiff would probably turn his prize money over to charity.

The prize was established from a fortune left by the late Italian publisher, Eugenio Balzan, who fled to Switzerland in Mussolini's time.

Check Writer Ordered to Pen

District Judge G. Russell Miller revoked the probation of John O. Miller Friday and re-imposed a suspended sentence of two to five years in the state penitentiary.

Miller, 39, of Peyton, received the suspended sentence Feb. 10 from Judge Miller, after the defendant pleaded guilty to no account check. Since then he violated the terms of his probation by passing a fictitious check for $10 which he gave to Kenny's Liquors, 319 S. Hancock St.

Bobby Says He Does Not Seek Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy whipped out an "emphatically not" when asked if he is planning to run for president in 1968.

But the consenus among Washington politicians Friday is that time possibly could change what most of them feel is about the only reply the President's brother could make to such an inquiry at this point.

Interviewed during a limousine ride from a hotel speaking engagement to his Justice Department office, Kennedy tried to scotch some other rumors that

Mrs. P. Grant Gets Probation

Phyllis Grant was given a suspended sentence of one to three years in the state penitentiary and placed on probation by District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman Friday for forgery.

Mrs. Grant, 22, of 232 Esther Dr. was accused of giving a $7.50 check to Duckwalls Stores, Jan. 29. She pleaded guilty Feb. 6 and told the judge, Friday that she was undergoing psychiatric treatment. She was represented by lawyer Ray Duitch.

Merel L. Harris, 26, of 133½ E. Colorado Ave. pleaded guilty to no account check and had March 15 set for pre-sentence investigation and taking of testimony.

Information states the defendant gave a $20 check Dec. 29 to Millers Super Market Inc. drawn on the First National Bank of Burlington, Colo.

The people were represented by Deputy District Attorney Jack Roesser.

Doug's 2, But Signs Own Name

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Douglas Wood ambled into the Richmond Public Library the other day and picked up his personal library card. And for him, it was a real event.

Doug is 2.

To meet library regulations, Doug had to sign his name on the application form for the library lending card.

He did, in childish block letters easily recognizable.

Reading and writing words are almost old hat to him. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Wood Jr., said he could recite the alphabet when he was 20-months-old. His literary bent sometimes interferes with meals.

They said he's been reading and writing words for the past 8 months.

"He's just interested in spelling," his mother said, "and he continually is asking me how to spell different words." She spells them and he writes down the letters.

But he still has to master reading or writing complete sentences.

"Sometimes he'll pretend," Mrs. Wood said, "but he's just memorized a story that has been read to him over and over."

Doug has two sisters, Kimberlee, 17 months, and Sharon, 2 months.

Bids Asked For Carson Air Field Work

Bids have been advertised by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Omaha District, for the first step construction toward the ultimate development of Butts Army Air Field at Ft. Carson, it was announced by Col. H. G. Woodbury Jr., district engineer.

The approximately two million dollar construction was placed for bids on February 15 and the resulting bids will be opened on March 19 at Omaha and the apparent low bidder will be announced at that time.

Following an administrative appraisal and approval of the apparent low bid, it is expected

FAA Planning Tower Work Here

The Federal Aviation Agency will spend $174,220 at the Colorado Springs control tower for an air traffic control radar beacon system it was reported Friday in Washington by Senators Gordon Allott and Peter Dominick.

The Colorado Republicans reported the FAA will spend in all $370,000 on air safety facilities in the state.

Other expenditures will include $81,000 worth of increased facilities at the flight service center at Denver, and $28,000 for VHF-UHF direction finding equipment.

Influenza Epidemic Spreading

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The influenza epidemic continued its steady spread Friday but there were hopeful developments in widely separated areas. Overall, it appeared to be worse than last year's influenza outbreak but milder than the 1960 epidemic of the Asian type.

The U.S. Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta reported that the 7-week-old outbreak of flu-like illness has spread to 31 states with Asian confirmed in 16. Latest official additions to the general list are Louisiana and Rhode Island.

The center said that while the steady westward encroachment continues, major areas of many states still are not affected. West Coast and Rocky Mountain states, it added, report only the usual incidence of colds and acute respiratory ailments.

In a summary of 108 cities from which it receives reports, the center said excess deaths this year among persons 65 and older total 4,218. For the last four weeks, the excess was 2,574 which, while much greater than the 772 for the comparative period of 1962, was much less than the 1960 total of 3,320.

New Jersey health officials reported that respiratory infections are beginning to slacken and the pressure is off in Asian flu outbreaks.

West Germany's Parliament Okays French Treaty

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's upper house of Parliament approved Friday the treaty signed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Charles de Gaulle to end four centuries of enmity between Germany and France.

Adenauer made a personal appeal in the three-hour debate to support the treaty, signed in Paris on Jan. 22.

The treaty of friendship and cooperation still requires ratification by the lower house of Parliament. It will be taken up there later this month and Adenauer will have to do some hard bargaining to win approval.

Seven members of the upper house voted in favor and three abstained. The house is made up of representatives of the 10 federal states.

"We are determined to end once and for all the 400 years of rivalry between France and Germany," Adenauer said. "European union cannot come about unless the two central powers, France and Germany, reach agreement."

The 87-year-old chancellor insisted that the treaty does not interfere with West Germany's other international obligations or force it to side with De Gaulle in all matters.

The upper house was not fully reassured, however. It simultaneously voted for a resolution asking the government to make sure that the application of the treaty does not hurt West Germany's re-

Shoeshine for Russian Stirs British Public

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet general visiting the British Rhine army in West Germany saw a British officer getting a shoeshine from a corporal and asked if he could have one too.

A photo of the 6-foot-3, 224-pound soldier polishing the Russian's boots hit British front pages Friday. Headlines cried in anguish.

"Military Protocol Gone Mad," said the Daily Sketch.

Said the soldier's wife, Mrs. Arthur Bradley: "This is an insult not only to my husband but to the entire British army."

But the War Office said the shoeshine was quite a normal courtesy to the visiting officer, Lt. Gen. I. I. Pstgyo, commander of the Soviet air force in the East zone.

The tradition of the batman, a military servant a cut below the orderly of non-British armies, lies deep in British military history.

Carson Receives Approval to Rent 300 Houses Here

Maj. Gen. John A. Heintges, commander of Ft. Carson and the 5th Infantry Division, announced today that authority has been granted by Department of the Army to lease 300 houses in the Colorado Springs area.

Public Law 161, 84th Congress, as amended, authorizes leasing for occupancy by military personnel at installations where there is a shortage of adequate on - post housing.

Since the activation of the Army Training Center at Ft. Carson in August, 1961, and then the 5th Infantry Division in February 1962, the military population of the post has grown substantially.

With only 998 units of family housing, Ft. Carson cannot meet the demand for quarters by assigned personnel.

The leased housing program is similar to the one which has been conducted in this area by the Army for Army Air Defense Command personnel for a number of years and the one which the Air Force Air Defense Command is presently undertaking.

It is designed to alleviate the problems incurred by soldiers attempting to find adequate housing within the range of their basic allowance for quarters.

Because of their frequent changes of station and the relatively short time they have to search for housing, soldiers often live in units which are either

Motel Burns At Leadville

LEADVILLE (UPI) — A fire caused by an overheated flue destroyed a 12-unit motel and an adjacent service station - garage Friday in downtown Leadville's third major fire within the past six months.

The fire, which raged during a near blizzard in 10-degree cold, caused damage estimated at $70,000 to $100,000.

Authorities said a flue leading from a coal furnace in the Mountain Peaks Motel apparently was to blame. The flames broke out in the roof of the motel. There were no injuries.

Five of the motel units were occupied by tenants who had checked in a short time before. All escaped with their belongings.

A witness said volunteers were able to save many furnishings from the motel, but that the buildings were a total loss.

The fire broke out about 3:50 p.m. and was controlled by about 6 p.m.

Traveling Particle Hits Atmosphere, Causes Shower

By JOHN A. BARBOUR

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tiny superpowered invader from distant space penetrated our solar system last month and crashed into the earth's atmosphere, setting off a cosmic ray shower over New Mexico.

The invader was a mere nucleus of an atom, but physicists say its energy was so great it must have come from some distant galaxy, outside our own Milky Way.

The event was reported in the current issue of Physical Review Letters by John Linsley of the Laboratory for Nuclear Science, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Linsley detected the shower at the Volcano Ranch recording station near Albuquerque, N.M.

China Finishes Troop Pullback, Threatens India

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China claimed Friday its promised troop withdrawal along the Sino-Indian border was complete. It warned new fighting could flare if Indian troops move into vacated areas.

A statement issued by the Communist Chinese Defense Ministry said: "The eased border situation will not become tense again provided the Indian side refrains from making provocations again and from re-entering the four areas where there is a dispute about the cease-fire arrangement."

It warned India not to move into these areas, which it described as the Che Dong and Longju zones in the eastern sector, Wuje in the middle sector, and "the area in the western sector where India once established 43 military strongpoints and where China had set up additional frontier posts in order to resist Indian invasion."

The statement reiterated charges that India, "far from taking any corresponding measures, has kept sending military personnel and military aircraft to intrude into our territory and air space for provocation and harassment."

Macy's Says Will Boycott New York Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Macy's big department store announced Friday night an advertising boycott against the New York Post, which broke publishers' ranks and prepared to resume publication Monday.

In a statement, Macy's said: "Macy's takes no position with respect to the merits of the current labor dispute. This is already in the hands of federal and city mediators and we hope that a wise solution can be found.

"We do feel, however, that to support one newspaper with our advertising when the others are not available might put undue pressure on them to settle regardless of merit.

"We prefer not to do this."

Peace talks in the 84-day printers strike resumed Friday and Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he would keep both sides at the bargaining table "as long as their physical endurance can stand it."

Wagner set up the renewed negotiations as a final alternative to proposing his own nonbinding settlement terms. He said the decision of the Post's publisher, Dorothy Schiff, to reopen her afternoon tabloid would not affect the talks.

The Post was preparing to return to the streets the first of next week to ease the city's newspaper blackout.

People Make Difference in Locks of City

The people of the community spell the difference between success and failure in any municipal development program, two visiting city planners told the Springs Area Beautiful Association Friday.

More than 100 persons attended the annual meeting of the SPABA held at Bemis Hall at Colorado College and unanimously re-elected Dr. John Monteith as president of the association.

Others officers elected were Mrs. Tor Hylbom, first vice president; Col. Louis T. Vickers, second vice president; Donald Higginbotham, third vice president; Mrs. Marshall Cross, secretary, and Gerald Jones, treasurer.

Guest speakers were C. Alan Blomquist, director of the Pueblo Regional Planning Commission, and Don Warner, development director for Grand Junction.

Both men outlined community development programs in their cities and pointed to the importance of popular support of such programs.

"You must go to the PTA's and other such groups — to the grass roots of the community — and not just to the leaders of the civic clubs and organizations if your program is to be a success," Blomquist said.

Both he and Warner pointed out that all planning and development programs must be sold to the community and in order to be sold they must first be presented in an attractive manner to the people who will pay for it.

Blomquist likened this selling program to a political campaign. He said every city needs precinct workers for development programs as well as elections.

"Community planning involves the total of the community," Blomquist said. "We must remember that we do - gooders are often not completely informed about the needs of the people."

He said this lack of knowledge

Mollenkopf Gets 2 Years For Marijuana Possession

Kenneth L. Mollenkopf, 23, of Route 1, Pikeview, was sentenced to two to four years in the state penitentiary and a suspended $100 fine Friday for being in possession of a narcotic drug.

The defendant orginally pleaded innocent but changed his plea Feb. 5 when the words "for sale" were struck from the information. Mollenkopf was found with marijuana in his possession Oct. 14.

Six people appeared as character witnesses. Dean Smith, manager of the Valley - Hi Country Club said he had known Mollenkopf for eight years and that the defendant had worked for him. He was an excellent worker, Smith testified and he would not hesitate to employ him again.

John Abrahamson, part - owner of Mosers Restaurant and Bill Peyser, proprietor of the Gables Restaurant gave similar testimony as did Edith Bjorklun, a waitress at the Gables, and Sylvia Emerson, a college student, who described Mollenkopf as "a very likeable person and very polite." Noel Mollenkopf, the defendant's father also testified.

Peyser told the court that Mollenkopf, who was currently employed by him, was earning $100 a week, and court appointed attorney Howard Kunstle said he was appointed Oct. 1962 to act on behalf of the defendant. Kunstle had requested that the $5,000 bond might be reduced, so he could get out of jail to find a job and employ his own counsel. The motion for reduction of bond was denied and his client was finally released Dec. 3 upon payment of $500 to a local bondsman. Since then, said Kunstle, Mollenkopf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's intelligence director says a dangerous, widespread, highly organized Communist subversion apparatus is being built around Latin Americans trained in Cuba.

Despite the gravity of the threat to hemisphere governments as described by John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, a Republican critic charged the administration "is not leveling with us."

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, a member of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee, complained McCone "was not very lucid on a lot of this stuff" when he appeared before the subcommittee Feb. 19. His censored testimony was released Friday.

Gross claimed McCone's appearance was part of a pattern of "coverup of what has happened and then build up a case for giving more money to the Alliance for Progress."

President Kennedy insists that the threat of Communist subversion in Latin America never can be effectively overcome until there are effective economic and political reforms to meet the poverty and discontent on which the Reds trade. The Alliance for Progress is the administration's chief weapon in this fight.

Rep. Armistead Selden, D-Ala., the subcommittee chairman, released the testimony which appeared to consist of McCone's prepared statement and did not include the question-and-answer exchanges between him and subcommittee members.

McCone testified that at least 1,000 to 1,500 "students" from all except one Latin-American country went to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Communist Cuba in 1962 to receive practical training in guerrilla warfare, sabotage and terrorism. The flow is continuing

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss-Italian Balzan Foundation, with the warm approval of Soviet Premier Khrushchev, awarded its first peace prize Friday to Pope John XXIII. It is worth $51,000.

The foundation, modeled after the Swedish Nobel Prize Foundation, awarded another $51,000 prize to retired Rear Adm. Samuel Eliot Morison of Boston, U.S. Navy historian of World War II, for his 15-volume naval history.

Pope John was cited for what the foundation called his unceasing efforts for peace, brotherhood and understanding among peoples and religions of the world. It mentioned his calling of the Vatican Ecumenical Council and his invitations to other religions to observe it.

Sources in the Vatican said the 81-year-old Pontiff would probably turn his prize money over to charity.

The prize was established from a fortune left by the late Italian publisher, Eugenio Balzan, who fled to Switzerland in Mussolini's time.

Khrushchev's approval of the Pope's prize was conveyed by the foundation's Soviet committee member, Prof. Norair M. Sissaskian after the announcement.

District Judge G. Russell Miller revoked the probation of John O. Miller Friday and re-imposed a suspended sentence of two to five years in the state penitentiary.

What Does 'Government' Mean

Some people like to conclude that we view the word "government" as a bad word. Not at all. But the problem here is a large one and relates to the various backgrounds we all have when it comes to understanding what is meant by a given word.

Government is a general term. To some it means one thing; to some, another.

For instance, if we were to come out and say that our government is positively the greatest thing that ever occurred, and continue in this vein with fulsome praise, and it so happened that you had just finished making out your Form 1040, and had been served with papers by the sheriff indicating that you had not made the correct return three years ago and that legal action was pending because your government thought you were a cheat and a crook, and you knew you were not a cheat and a crook and that, also, you could hardly afford to take the time and the money to prove that you were not a cheat and a crook, you would view our paeans of adoration in the most dismal light possible.

On the other hand, if we were to announce that our government was engaged in some pretty shoddy undertakings, was wasting money, was throwing its weight around unnecessarily and was refusing to take a firm stand where firmness seemed to be necessary, and at the same time we made these critical observations you were thinking of Valley Forge, and Old Glory, and your own son who died in service to his country, and of freedom and the Declaration of Independence, and our noble heritage, and so on, you might be willing to denounce us as something less than loyal.

So, what is meant when the word government is used, anyway? Is "government" good or is it bad? It depends on what we mean when we use the word, and on what you think we mean when you hear us or read what we say.

Now, there is one usage for the word "government" about which we are enthusiastic. This is when the word is coupled with self. Self-government. That we like.

We think there are few things quite so fine as the self-determination a man can show in respect to self-control — self-government. So, to say that we oppose the word government because government is bad, is to misunderstand us.

Here's something else. When we say government, many people think we are talking about law and order. And again, if we are critical of government, they construe that we mean to be critical of law and order. The next thing you know they are saying that we favor chaos and anarchy because we are opposed to law and order. Nothing could be further from the truth.

We favor law and order. And by law we do not mean the paltry ambitions of men set down in writing to further their own political fortunes. We are referring to universal and natural law which we may not, any of us, break with impunity. And, when we speak of order, we are speaking of something that is the opposite of chaos. It relates to the way men can and do work together and live together for their own mutual benefit and well being.

The fact is that the laws men write frequently create disorder. And the "order" brought into existence by guns and bayonets creates an almost automatic yearning for enough disorder to break the chains of force and compulsion.

So, we are against those actions of men whereby disorder is created in the name of order, and where laws are broken in the name of law.

Now, if some mean by government the right of some men to manage and control the lives and fortunes of other men by force and violence, such a "right" does not exist so far as we are concerned; and such a government does not create law and order, but lawlessness and disorder. And much of what is called government today is of this latter sort.

We prefer self-government to this. In fact, we prefer self-government to any other kind. Is something wrong with this?

The man who surrenders, permits time to master him. The man who will not surrender will master time in the end.

Commitment to Democracy

Robert Hutchins, president of the "Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions," itself an outgrowth of the Fund for the Republic, which is an outgrowth of the Ford Foundation, has possibly summed up the problem about as well as anyone.

In a recent booklet, "Power of Reason," Hutchins comments: "The Center is committed to the proposition that democracy is the most just form of government."

It is understandable that the Center would be "committed to the proposition" but it is difficult to harmonize this commitment with the "power of reason," which is the thing Mr. Hutchins wishes to stress.

But in a very real sense, this is what the argument is all about.

It seems to us that this willingness, not only on the part of Mr. Hutchins and his organization, but on the part of many other persons who like to consider themselves as thought leaders, to defend democracy against all comers is precisely why we are in the difficulties we are in today.

Now, in favor of democratic forms of government it is incumbent upon us to point out that any form of government which extends a franchise to a large electorate is, at a certain stage of its development, far to be preferred to any other form of government which does not do this.

Entrenched government, wherein the people have no voice, is obviously an invitation to tyranny. And democratic institutions, which permit the ordinary person to object to what has been done to him, or what is about to be done to him, are certainly worthy of some applause at this point.

Thus, at a transitional point from autocracy or from monarchy, or from dictatorship, democracy offers a system of checks upon the unbridled powers and passions of one - man rule. And as such, it serves a splendid function.

But when the people themselves become organized into political parties and pressure groups; and when these people thus organized, besiege the government in order to obtain subsidies, favors, hand-outs, patronage, or largesse of any and all kinds, then the transitional place has been passed. At this point, democracy offers no more safeguard than any other kind of government. For the voice of the people can become a tyrant as firm and powerful as any named monarch who ever wore a crown.

When the voice of the people is raised in anguish against the unbridled taxing power of a Louis XIV or a George III, democracy appears most attractive. But when that same voice is heard crying from the sanctity of some minority group organization seeking privilege or patronage, the merits of the democratic process begin to wane.

Instead of taking the position which Hutchins takes, that the question of the primacy of democracy, per se, is established, we should appeal to the power of reason and open the doors to full and unbiased discussion, even of democracy.

If it can be demonstrated, and surely there is some evidence available, that democracy can lead to a situation in which might makes right, then the subject should not be forbidden. Rather than taking the position that the democratic system is the best available, we should be willing to find all its flaws, the more so since we are dealing with it at the moment.

It could well be that a future in which the market comes into its own will so reduce the apparent requirement for government, that democracy as such will be unthinkable.

Rather than committing ourselves to a belief in democracy as the "best of all possible governments," it would serve as well to consider morality and moral law, rather than democracy and democratic law, as the base of our society. If democracy has certain inherent weaknesses, it is better for us to known them than to discountenance discussion of them.

UNBALANCED VERSE

Why are balanced budgets so great?
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
In spite of pro and con debate,
Each generation should pay its freight
And leave the next a solvent state,
That's why they're great, my Lad.

But politicians lie, you know.
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
Our politicans tell us so,
But Politicians lie, you know.
We may not live to see the woe
Our children suffer, Lad.

If balanced budgets are so nice
Why don't we have them, Dad?
Because we heed unsound advice,
Because we will not pay the price,
Because we are not men but mice.
Please think no more, my Lad.

There is one way the government could cut down expenses without straining itself too much. It could cut out the budget-formulating department. It must cost quite a few million dollars per year to run the budget department. All that figuring, all that planning, all that paper work, all that paper, all the typewriters and calculating machines that are worn out, the millions of figures and ciphers that could be used to better purpose, they could all be saved without affecting the government one iota. It pays not the slightest attention to the budget after all that figuring. Budget figuring is simply a waste of time, effort, material and money; why not cut it out? Who do they think they're kidding?

Another thing, since the "debt limit" has become a joke, but a mighty expensive one and unfunny, and since we all know there is no limit, why doesn't Congress just say, "The sky's the limit" and let it go at that? This would save Congress the time of arguing and debating over the next raise, and the next, and the next. There would be a saving of time at least that would give Congress more time to pass more harassing, ham-stringing, hurtful laws and we wouldn't know whether they were running up a big deficit or a small one. And if a small one is "good for the economy," why isn't a bigger one better?

One thing the New Frontiersmen have given us, that's bigger and better deficits. If they give us nothing else to be proud of, we can still point with pride to them.

Adam Lyre has figured out a simple way to balance the budget that may be what we've all been waiting for. He says the annual pages and paper is heavy stuff. His idea is to put whoever is president on one side of a balance and the budget on the other side, then keep adding pages or tearing them off, as the case may be until the president's weight exactly balances the weight of the budget.

The only drawback to this scheme I can find is that the president would keep trying to gain weight from one year to the next so he could have a bigger budget. And when he walked down the street with his stomach in front of him people would know he expected a bigger budget next year, but it would be balanced so they wouldn't have to worry.

I learned a thing or two about labor elections a while back. A friend of mine, who belongs to a union, was cussing because the union election didn't go to suit him. "It never does," he said. "We can't ever get a change of officials, no matter how rotten they are."

"But I thought you could vote 'em out," I said.

"The members present voted four to one against them the last time," he said.

"That certainly was a majority, wasn't it?" I said.

"No," he said. "The majority stayed home and didn't vote."

Then he went on to explain that all non - voters are always counted as voting for a certain measure or for those already in office. If 49 per cent of the members come out and vote against something and 51 per cent do not even show up, the vote will be 51 per cent for to 49 per cent against, or vice versa, depending on whichever way the bosses want the election to go. This would be the same as counting all the eligible voters in America who didn't go to the polls, a goodly number, as having voted for the incumbents. Think of it, we'd be saddled with the Kennedys forever. My gosh, I hope they don't hear about this.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 154: "Is it possible under a free and unhampered market to have an excessive or unfair profit?"

Answer: In order to answer that question we would have to define what "excessive" or "unfair" mean. If they mean profits arrived at by the use of force or the threats of same by the government or any other group, it would be possible to have an unfair or excessive profit.

However, to the degree that we have a free market does it become less and less likely to have an excessive or unfair profit. Our trouble comes from the fact that we have never had a completely laissez faire free economy where the government did not intervene. Any monopoly group would be very helpless if it was not supported by the government. Our real trouble comes from the government initiating force to interfere with the free and natural division of labor and with all people being equally free to help establish values. When all people are equally free to help establish values, it will then be impossible to have an excessive or unfair profit.

And if we didn't have an excessive or unfair profit and had a free market where people respected the rights of property belonging to others, we wouldn't be in one war after another, wouldn't have unemployment other than seasonal, and our standard of living would be very, very much higher than it is at present, because then there would be more production. And there would be more production because men will work harder when they believe they are getting all they produce and the more they produce, the more they will get.

The solution for unfair profits is to keep the government from issuing licenses and giving monopolies. The only purpose of the government is to attempt to protect the equal rights of all men to help establish values.

The Gazette Telegraph will attempt to answer all questions, signed or unsigned, on what will improve the welfare of all mankind on the earth. Everyone should be interested in that, so send in your questions.

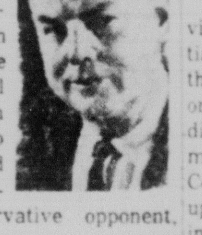
Irony North of the Border

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN



Lester B. — or "Mike" — Pearson, the Canadian Liberal party leader who may be the next prime minister of his country, will, in effect, be basing his campaign for high office in the coming general election on friendship for the United States. For, unlike his Conservative opponent, John G. Diefenbaker, Pearson thinks the Canadians should accept U. S. nuclear warheads for their rockets. He does not, of course, go so far as to condone U. S. "meddling" in Canadian affairs, but if Diefenbaker's party is defeated because it raised the meddling charge in the first place "Mike" Pearson will not be one to weep over it.

This, for people with fairly long memories, is a most ironical turn of events. For just ten years ago it was Pearson, then serving as Canadian secretary for external affairs, who was telling the United States for the first time to keep its nose out of Canada's business. Pearson followed this up a few years later with still another blast at our intrusiveness about something which, to him, seemed to be none of our affair. Thus the beleaguered Diefenbaker, if he were so disposed, might remind the Canadian voters this coming April that the precedents on his side were originally established by no less a person than Mr. Pearson himself.

DEFECTOR

Mike Pearson drew his first bead on Washington in 1953, when the U.S., in its search for information bearing on Soviet espionage, wanted to question Igor Gouzenko, a talented Russian novelist who had defected from his job as code clerk in the Soviet Embassy in Canada. Gouzenko purportedly had hard evidence of undercover Russian shenanigans which our State Departmant thought might be pertinent to the inquiry then being conducted by the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security. For reasons best known to himself, Mr. Pearson wanted to keep Gouzenko quiet — and he told Washington off in no uncertain terms.

The ruckus led to accusations that Pearson was trying to cover up the trails that might lead to a full exposure of Soviet dirty work. So fast and furious did the charges and counter-charges fly that Canadians in Parliament, backing their foreign minister, called upon President Eisenhower himself to offer apologies for slurs on Pearson's character.

Four years later there was a virtual replay of the same essential drama. In testimony before the U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security a Canadian diplomat, Herbert Egerton Norman, was alleged to have had Communist connections. Whereupon Mr. Norman, who was serving as Canadian ambassador to Egypt at the time, jumped to his death out of a seven-story window in Cairo. Mr. Pearson promptly told the Canadian Parliament that U. S. investigators had, in effect, caused Norman's death by raking up "old charges affecting his loyalty" that had been "disposed of years ago."

PROTESTOR

Anti-Communists in 1953 and 1957 made one deduction from Mr. Pearson's unwillingness to cooperate in the business of ferreting out evidence of subversion. They were not mollified when Pearson, protesting that he was just as much against communism as anyone, said that every free nation should be permitted to handle the Reds in its own way. The charge that Pearson was a "no win" and a "soft on communism" man was made all over again when he received the Nobel Peace Prize for his backstage work in arranging a truce at Suez and in bringing the Korean War to a conclusion in a "peace without victory."

In recent years Pearson's career has more or less paralleled that of Dean Acheson in the United States. Though accused of being too lenient vis-a-vis the Soviets, Pearson has been one of the strongest advocates of a beefed-up NATO. He has also insisted that North America must be defended as a unit.

Well, what are anti-Communists to make of the Pearson political pattern? When I suggested, in a recent column, that Dean Acheson's call for a tough stand on Cuba and on Berlin had earned him "forgiveness" for earlier softness, I was roundly denounced by some people on my own anti-Communist side. One man in Mobile, Ala., invited me to commit suicide. Well, I certainly don't feel like risking a second invitation to self-destruction by asking "forgiveness" for Pearson. Nevertheless I am happy to see that he wants Canada to accept nuclear arms.

EXTREMISTS

To the Editor:

The A. A. U. W. has now joined the merry throng warning us that "rightist extremists" are more dangerous to our freedom than the Communists. Perhaps, then, the clever ladies can answer a question for me. Where do these "rightist extremists" have their missile bases?

FASHION

To the Editor:

Would you kindly print the following answer to the article published in your newspaper on February 19, under the title "German Woman Still Haunted, Parisienne Says" (by Rosette Hargrove)?

Having lived and travelled most of my life in Western Europe, I feel I am qualified to make a statement regarding the above mentioned article.

Not too long ago I returned from a one and a half year stay in Orleans, France. Orleans being the sister city to Paris, fashion capital of the world, and within easy and quick reach by bus, train or automobile, I found very little of the so well publicized French chic. I was fortunate enough to meet the well-to-do and not so well-to-do French women.

Being also a woman I was a keen observer. I am sure the French woman is not haunted by Hitler's rantings against vanity and fleshpots, but also France's ladies now on the threshold of middle age do not seem to be of the slim, trim, and well preserved type. Having been so close to Paris, I spent many days there, and also found among the very elegant, the solid, but drab-looking citizens there as well. Sometimes I wondered whether they had ever heard of underarm deodorant. Many lovely girls, after having had a nice French lunch of assorted cheeses, or maybe some good salami with wine, could not recapture their sex appeal for hours, and all the eau de cologne or perfume did not help this situation much.

On many occasions I observed church goers in France. They did not seem to me any different than anywhere else in Western Europe. Some were charming, some chic, some so-so, some drab, and some non - descriptive. I have purchased several Paris fashions while there, and they are so lovely that I do hope they will not be out of style several seasons from now.

Having been a secretary in this country for some time, I fail to see where especially the American secretary is more outstanding than her sister in Europe. It is indeed a lovely sight to watch the young and not so young career girls in any West German city go to work in the morning, freshly "scrubbed," tastefully made up and dressed. When a woman is in her thirties, she most probably is married, has children, a family to take care of, and in many cases a working girl as well, then sometimes it can happen that a woman does not have enough time or will power to keep after her appearance as well as she should. This I have observed in many countries and cities, not only in Bonn, Germany.

Thank you for your efforts.

SELF-DISCIPLINE

To the Editor:

Good democracy means more rights to every citizen — but also demands more, not less, responsibility and morality from each and every citizen. This, in turn, is a matter of both individual and collective beliefs; also, both individual and collective conscience. The answer to this is self - discipline. This, of course, means proper environment and upbringing. Often the same people who create yesterday's cute rascals — that is, parents, relatives, teachers, friends, nonfriends, etc. — look in disbelief at today's uncute monsters. Without explaining — I believe all of us know the type of cute rascal to which I refer. It should be equally obvious that we all share the blame to some degree. Frankenstein was not as much the victime of his monster as the other way around.

SCHOOL TAXES

To the Editor:

In reply to Mattie Miller:

You are wrong about tax-supported schools. I for one think, and not a one-track mind, that if you want children, have them. But don't have people who could not afford to have children pay for their education. No one paid for mine. I say our school taxes on car, mobile homes and land are terrible, while the people that have all these children get out of paying income tax and make people that don't have any children raise theirs. Every time I turn around it is to pay tax on schools.

Maybe some people are not as smart but at least they like a say when it comes to paying so much out all the time, and can't do anything but pay.

Of course you will think I don't like children. Well, I do, but many of us without children think the people that want so many and can't afford to send them to school shouldn't have them. How can they afford to have them if they have no money? Why bring these babies in the world without a thought."

Allen-Scott Report

Federal School Aid

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Washington —There are several reasons for the marked lack of enthusiasm in Congress for President Kennedy's multi-billion dollar school-aid plan.

Chief of these is the startling discovery by a House Education Subcommittee that the federal government already is spending $1.8 billion yearly to support a number of educational programs.

This little-known but costly hodge-podge system of dispensing funds through at least seven different government agencies has reached the point where it is causing increasing concern among the educational measure's chief congressional supporters.

These and other details of the size and scope of federal educational aid will highlight a report by a committee headed by Representative Edith Green, D-Ore., a top school-aid advocate, to be made public later this month.

These surprise findings are based on the lawmakers' study of the whole federal-aid-to-education picture. The survey was undertaken to determine what changes, if any, should be made in handling existing school aid before launching a new program as advocated by the Administration.

In its findings, the Green committee will reveal that 22,000, or more than half the nation's 40,000 graduate students, are being supported by one or more federal fellowship grants.

By 1970, an estimated 80,000 full-time graduate students will be in American universities, and if the present trend continues, 60,000 of them will be supported by the government.

Lack of coordination among the agencies granting fellowships for graduate studies in physics is cited by the subcommittee as a striking instance of the scrambled administration of educational spending. Four separate government agencies are offering these fellowships, all with different requirements, provisions and payments.

OUT OF HAND — One of the subcommittee's most disturbing findings is that the Office of Education, in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has virtually no control over the granting of this vast aid.

Instead of centralized control, federal grants and loans of $1.5 billion are handled by the Defense Department, the National Science Foundation, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Agriculture Department, National Institutes of Health, Atomic Energy Commission, and a number of smaller ones, an estimated $600 million in research grants alone go to support educational activities in hundreds of colleges and universities.

Of the seven major agencies, the Space Administration and the National Science Foundation have the fastest growing educational programs.

National Science Foundation spending for this purpose has jumped from $20 million to $150 million annually in less than five years. Space Agency grants soared, from nothing to $22 million in three years, with spending to increase to $55 million in 1963.

Other large educational expenditures by the government include $232 million by the Office of Education to subsidize public schools in areas with large military and federal populations; $150 million by the Agriculture Department for extension and experimental programs; $20 million by the Defense Department; $80 million by the Atomic Energy Commission.

In its analysis of the $600 million in educational research grants, the committee warns that 95 percent of these funds are going to only 100 universities and colleges.

"This is a matter which greatly concerns us," the report states. "There is a question in our minds whether the long-range interest of the U.S. will be served by limiting these funds to a small fraction of the nation's educational institutions."

Speaker John McCormack, after studying the report, believes it will play a big role in blocking action on most of the President's new $5.3 billion school aid program.

McCormack is privately of the opinion that only federal aid for dental and medical colleges will be voted, and that the President's request for aid for public elementary and high schools and teacher's pay will get nowhere.

LOOKING FOR SOLUTIONS — Fire cure in a test tube? Government scientists are trying to find out more about what causes fires, in the hope this will slash the $1.5 billion in fire damage sustained in the U.S. last year. The National Bureau of Standards plans to step up research into how fires ignite, what make them spread, and which materials are the best flame-stoppers . . . The government will soon ask private home loan lenders to help make home-owning a habit in undeveloped countries. A plan to set up an International Home Loan Bank to channel financial aid from the U.S. into backward nations is now being drafted for submission to Congress. A senate Housing Subcommittee, headed by Senator John Sparkman, D-Ala., will issue a report supporting the proposal.

The New Breed Rebels of Hope

By WARREN CARROLL
From the New Conservative
Colorado University

"Freedom is not a word we use lightly. It is our moral sanction and our justification. We accept no substitutes for freedom. We recognize no moral obligation not based upon it. We deny any man's right or any government's right to sacrifice any free personality for the sake of society, of welfare, of the under-developed areas, or for any other purpose which does not have 'our own' freedom as part of its essence and consequences."

How is it that a conservative can be a rebel? Our opponents, who have falsely called themselves liberals for so long that the term has stuck to them regardless of both reason and common sense, claim to be the real rebels for freedom. Aren't they striking out against "selfish interests" for "the public interest," to bring more freedom to "all the people"?

Ask them sometime: Just whose freedom are they talking about? And they will answer "Man's" or "the people's."

Have you ever seen "man"? Have you ever seen "the people"? Then it should not surprise you to realize that when freedom is taken away from a real, living person to be given to a paper ghost, freedom vanishes.

It has been vanishing in just this way, time and again, for ten thousand years and more. The doctrine of collectivism, of the innate superiority of the clan and the village, of the city and the nation over the individual, is the oldest and the darkest product of the human mind. It was old when Caesar marched to Gaul. It was old when the pharaohs of Egypt knelt before their hawkshead god. It was old when the first club-wielding chieftain gathered the bright-faced young men and women of his tribe about him to say: "I know better than you what you should do and what you should become. I speak for the wisdom of the witch-doctor and the Spirit of our Race. Follow me — and if you don't, I'll bash your head in." That has always been and still is, the ultimate collectivist argument.

In every age tyranny wears a mask because individual men and women cannot bear to look upon its face. The masks may change, but the face beneath is always the same. It has worn the black mask of the inquisition; the white mask of aristocracy; the purple mask of empire; the brown mask of fascism, the red mask of communism and socialism.

The advocates of more and more government, or university, or society power over the individual today can pick their own style and color; but they cannot change or conceal the reality of their purpose they share in common with every single tyrant that ever lived.

The greatest new idea in the history of mankind is not any one of the innumerable collectivist ideas for enslaving people to the will of others. It is the hope of every man and women to produce, to create, to achieve in the world by his own efforts and his own vision, free of seizure and looting by other persons or by governments.

What Does 'Government' Mean

Some people like to conclude that we view the word "government" as a bad word. Not at all. But the problem here is a large one and relates to the various backgrounds we all have when it comes to understanding what is meant by a given word.

Government is a general term. To some it means one thing; to some, another.

For instance, if we were to come out and say that our government is positively the greatest thing that ever occurred, and continue in this vein with fulsome praise, and it so happened that you had just finished making out your Form 1040, and had been served with papers by the sheriff indicating that you had not made the correct return three years ago and that legal action was pending because your government thought you were a cheat and a crook, and you knew you were not a cheat and a crook and that, also, you could hardly afford to take the time and the money to prove that you were not a cheat and a crook, you would view our paeans of adoration in the most dismal light possible.

On the other hand, if we were to announce that our government was engaged in some pretty shoddy undertakings, was wasting money, was throwing its weight around unnecessarily and was refusing to take a firm stand where firmness seemed to be necessary, and at the same time we made these critical observations you were thinking of Valley Forge, and Old Glory, and your own son who died in service to his country, and of freedom and the Declaration of Independence, and our noble heritage, and so on, you might be willing to denounce us as something less than loyal.

So, what is meant when the word government is used, anyway? Is "government" good or is it bad? It depends on what we mean when we use the word, and on what you think we mean when you hear us or read what we say.

Now, there is one usage for the word "government" about which we are enthusiastic. This is when the word is coupled with self. Self-government. That we like.

We think there are few things quite so fine as the self-determination a man can show in respect to self-control — self-government. So, to say that we oppose the word government because government is bad, is to misunderstand us.

Here's something else. When we say government, many people think we are talking about law and order. And again, if we are critical of government, they construe that we mean to be critical of law and order. The next thing you know they are saying that we favor chaos and anarchy because we are opposed to law and order. Nothing could be further from the truth.

We favor law and order. And by law we do not mean the paltry ambitions of men set down in writing to further their own political fortunes. We are referring to universal and natural law which we may not, any of us, break with impunity. And, when we speak of order, we are speaking of something that is the opposite of chaos. It relates to the way men can and do work together and live together for their own mutual benefit and well being.

The fact is that the laws men write frequently create disorder. And the "order" brought into existence by guns and bayonets creates an almost automatic yearning for enough disorder to break the chains of force and compulsion.

So, we are against those actions of men whereby disorder is created in the name of order, and where laws are broken in the name of law.

Now, if some mean by government the right of some men to manage and control the lives and fortunes of other men by force and violence, such a "right" does not exist so far as we are concerned; and such a government does not create law and order, but lawlessness and disorder. And much of what is called government today is of this latter sort.

We prefer self-government to this. In fact, we prefer self-government to any other kind. Is something wrong with this?

The man who surrenders, permits time to master him. The man who will not surrender will master time in the end.

Commitment to Democracy

Robert Hutchins, president of the "Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions," itself an outgrowth of the Fund for the Republic, which is an outgrowth of the Ford Foundation, has possibly summed up the problem about as well as anyone.

In a recent booklet, "Power of Reason," Hutchins comments: "The Center is committed to the proposition that democracy is the most just form of government."

It is understandable that the Center would be "committed to the proposition" but it is difficult to harmonize this commitment with the "power of reason," which is the thing Mr. Hutchins wishes to stress.

But in a very real sense, this is what the argument is all about.

It seems to us that this willingness, not only on the part of Mr. Hutchins and his organization, but on the part of many other persons who like to consider themselves as thought leaders, to defend democracy against all comers is precisely why we are in the difficulties we are in today.

Now, in favor of democratic forms of government it is incumbent upon us to point out that any form of government which extends a franchise to a large electorate is, at a certain stage of its development, far to be preferred to any other form of government which does not do this.

Entrenched government, wherein the people have no voice, is obviously an invitation to tyranny. And democratic institutions, which permit the ordinary person to object to what has been done to him, or what is about to be done to him, are certainly worthy of some applause at this point.

Thus, at a transitional point from autocracy or from monarchy, or from dictatorship, democracy offers a system of checks upon the unbridled powers and passions of one - man rule. And as such, it serves a splendid function.

But when the people themselves become organized into political parties and pressure groups; and when these people thus organized, besiege the government in order to obtain subsidies, favors, hand-outs, patronage, or largesse of any and all kinds, then the transitional place has been passed. At this point, democracy offers no more safeguard than any other kind of government. For the voice of the people can become a tyrant as firm and powerful as any named monarch who ever wore a crown.

When the voice of the people is raised in anguish against the unbridled taxing power of a Louis XIV or a George III, democracy appears most attractive. But when that same voice is heard crying from the sanctity of some minority group organization seeking privilege or patronage, the merits of the democratic process begin to wane.

Instead of taking the position which Hutchins takes, that the question of the primacy of democracy, per se, is established, we should appeal to the power of reason and open the doors to full and unbiased discussion, even of democracy.

If it can be demonstrated, and surely there is some evidence available, that democracy can lead to a situation in which might makes right, then the subject should not be forbidden. Rather than taking the position that the democratic system is the best available, we should be willing to find all its flaws, the more so since we are dealing with it at the moment.

It could well be that a future in which the market comes into its own will so reduce the apparent requirement for government, that democracy as such will be unthinkable.

Rather than committing ourselves to a belief in democracy as the "best of all possible governments," it would serve as well to consider morality and moral law, rather than democracy and democratic law, as the base of our society. If democracy has certain inherent weaknesses, it is better for us to known them than to discountenance discussion of them.

UNBALANCED VERSE

Why are balanced budgets so great?
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
In spite of pro and con debate,
Each generation should pay its freight
And leave the next a solvent state,
That's why they're great, my Lad.

But politicians lie, you know.
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
Our politicans tell us so,
But Politicians lie, you know.
We may not live to see the woe
Our children suffer, Lad.

If balanced budgets are so nice
Why don't we have them, Dad?
Because we heed unsound advice,
Because we will not pay the price,
Because we are not men but mice.
Please think no more, my Lad.

There is one way the government could cut down expenses without straining itself too much.

It could cut out the budget - formulating department. It must cost quite a few million dollars per year to run the budget department. All that figuring, all that planning, all that paper work, all that paper, all the typewriters and calculating machines that are worn out, the millions of figures and ciphers that could be used to better purpose, they could all be saved without affecting the government one iota. It pays not the slightest attention to the budget after all that figuring. Budget figuring is simply a waste of time, effort, material and money; why not cut it out? Who do they think they're kidding?

Another thing, since the "debt limit" has become a joke, but a mighty expensive one and unfunny, and since we all know there is no limit, why doesn't Congress just say, "The sky's the limit" and let it go at that? This would save Congress the time of arguing and debating over the next raise, and the next, and the next. There would be a saving of time at least that would give Congress more time to pass more harassing, ham-stringing, hurtful laws and we wouldn't know whether they were running up a big deficit or a small one. And if a small one is "good for the economy," why isn't a bigger one better?

One thing the New Frontiersmen have given us, that's bigger and better deficits. If they give us nothing else to be proud of, we can still point with pride to them.

Adam Lyre has figured out a simple way to balance the budget that may be what we've all been waiting for. He says the annual pages and paper is heavy stuff. His idea is to put whoever is president on one side of a balance and the budget on the other side, then keep adding pages or tearing them off, as the case may be until the president's weight exactly balances the weight of the budget.

The only drawback to this scheme I can find is that the president would keep trying to gain weight from one year to the next so he could have a bigger budget. And when he walked down the street with his stomach in front of him people would know he expected a bigger budget next year, but it would be balanced so they wouldn't have to worry.

I learned a thing or two about labor elections a while back. A friend of mine, who belongs to a union, was cussing because the union election didn't go to suit him. "It never does," he said. "We can't ever get a change of officials, no matter how rotten they are."

"But I thought you could vote 'em out," I said.

"The members present voted four to one against them the last time," he said.

"That certainly was a majority, wasn't it?" I said.

"No," he said. "The majority stayed home and didn't vote."

Then he went on to explain that all non - voters are always counted as voting for a certain measure or for those already in office. If 49 per cent of the members come out and vote against something and 51 per cent do not even show up, the vote will be 51 per cent for to 49 per cent against, or vice versa, depending on whichever way the bosses want the election to go. This would be the same as counting all the eligible voters in America who didn't go to the polls, a goodly number, as having voted for the incumbents. Think of it, we'd be saddled with the Kennedys forever. My gosh, I hope they don't hear about this.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question No. 154: "Is it possible under a free and unhampered market to have an excessive or unfair profit?"

Answer: In order to answer that question we would have to define what "excessive" or "unfair" mean. If they mean profits arrived at by the use of force or the threats of same by the government or any other group, it would be possible to have an unfair or excessive profit.

However, to the degree that we have a free market does it become less and less likely to have an excessive or unfair profit. Our trouble comes from the fact that we have never had a completely laissez faire free economy where the government did not intervene. Any monopoly group would be very helpless if it was not supported by the government. Our real trouble comes from the government initiating force to interfere with the free and natural division of labor and with all people being equally free to help establish values. When all people are equally free to help establish values, it will then be impossible to have an excessive or unfair profit.

And if we didn't have an excessive or unfair profit and had a free market where people respected the rights of property belonging to others, we wouldn't be in one war after another, wouldn't have unemployment other than seasonal, and our standard of living would be very, very much higher than it is at present, because then there would be more production. And there would be more production because men will work harder when they believe they are getting all they produce and the more they produce, the more they will get.

The solution for unfair profits is to keep the government from issuing licenses and giving monopolies. The only purpose of the government is to attempt to protect the equal rights of all men to help establish values.

The Gazette Telegraph will attempt to answer all questions, signed or unsigned, on what will improve the welfare of all mankind on the earth. Everyone should be interested in that, so send in your questions.

Irony North of the Border

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

For, unlike his Conservative opponent, John G. Diefenbaker, Pearson thinks the Canadians should accept U. S. nuclear warheads for their rockets. He does not, of course, go so far as to condone U. S. Pearson followed this up a few years later with still another blast at our intrusiveness about something which, to him, seemed to be none of our affair. Thus the beleaguered Diefenbaker, if he were so disposed, might remind the Canadian voters this coming April that the precedents on his side were originally established by no less a person than Mr. Pearson himself.

Mike Pearson drew his first bead on Washington in 1953, when the U.S., in its search for information bearing on Soviet espionage, wanted to question Igor Gouzenko, a talented Russian novelist who had defected from his job as code clerk in the Soviet Embassy in Canada. Gouzenko purportedly had hard evidence of undercover Russian shenanigans which our State Departmant thought might be pertinent to the inquiry then being conducted by the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security. For reasons best known to himself, Mr. Pearson wanted to keep Gouzenko quiet — and he told Washington off in no uncertain terms.

So fast and furious did the charges and counter-charges fly that Canadians in Parliament, backing their foreign minister, called upon President Eisenhower himself to offer apologies for slurs on Pearson's character.

Four years later there was a virtual replay of the same essential drama. In testimony before the U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security a Canadian diplomat, Herbert Egerton Norman, was alleged to have had Communist connections. Whereupon Mr. Norman, who was serving as Canadian ambassador to Egypt at the time, jumped to his death out of a seven-story window in Cairo. Mr. Pearson promptly told the Canadian Parliament that U. S. investigators had, in effect, caused Norman's death by raking up "old charges affecting his loyalty" that had been "disposed of years ago."

PROTESTOR

Anti-Communists in 1953 and 1957 made one deduction from Mr. Pearson's unwillingness to cooperate in the business of ferreting out evidence of subversion. They were not mollified when Pearson, protesting that he was just as much against communism as anyone, said that every free nation should be permitted to handle the Reds in its own way. The charge that Pearson was a "no win" and a "soft on communism" man was made all over again when he received the Nobel Peace Prize for his backstage work in arranging a truce at Suez and in bringing the Korean War to a conclusion in a "peace without victory."

In recent years Pearson's career has more or less paralleled that of Dean Acheson in the United States. Though accused of being too lenient vis-a-vis the Soviets, Pearson has been one of the strongest advocates of a beefed-up NATO. He has also insisted that North America must be defended as a unit.

Well, what are anti-Communists to make of the Pearson political pattern? When I suggested, in a recent column, that Dean Acheson's call for a tough stand on Cuba and on Berlin had earned him "forgiveness" for earlier softness, I was roundly denounced by some people on my own anti-Communist side. One man in Mobile, Ala., invited me to commit suicide. Well, I certainly don't feel like risking a second invitation to self-destruction by asking "forgiveness" for Pearson. Nevertheless I am happy to see that he wants Canada to accept nuclear arms.

EXTREMISTS

To the Editor:

The A. A. U. W. has now joined the merry throng warning us that "rightist extremists" are more dangerous to our freedom than the Communists. Perhaps, then, the clever ladies can answer a question for me. Where do these "rightist extremists" have their missile bases?

FASHION

To the Editor:

Would you kindly print the following answer to the article published in your newspaper on February 19, under the title "German Woman Still Haunted, Parisienne Says" (by Rosette Hargrove)?

Having lived and travelled most of my life in Western Europe, I feel I am qualified to make a statement regarding the above mentioned article.

Not too long ago I returned from a one and a half year stay in Orleans, France. Orleans being the sister city to Paris, fashion capital of the world, and within easy and quick reach by bus, train or automobile, I found very little of the so well publicized French chic. I was fortunate enough to meet the well-to-do and not so well-to-do French women.

Being also a woman I was a keen observer. I am sure the French woman is not haunted by Hitler's rantings against vanity and fleshpots, but also France's ladies now on the threshold of middle age do not seem to be of the slim, trim, and well preserved type. Having been so close to Paris, I spent many days there, and also found among the very elegant, the solid, but drab-looking citizens there as well. Sometimes I wondered whether they had ever heard of underarm deodorant. Many lovely girls, after having had a nice French lunch of assorted cheeses, or maybe some good salami with wine, could not recapture their sex appeal for hours, and all the eau de cologne or perfume did not help this situation much.

On many occasions I observed church goers in France. They did not seem to me any different than anywhere else in Western Europe. Some were charming, some chic, some so-so, some drab, and some non - descriptive. I have purchased several Paris fashions while there, and they are so lovely that I do hope they will not be out of style several seasons from now.

Having been a secretary in this country for some time, I fail to see where especially the American secretary is more outstanding than her sister in Europe. It is indeed a lovely sight to watch the young and not so young career girls in any West German city go to work in the morning, freshly "scrubbed," tastefully made up and dressed. When a woman is in her thirties, she most probably is married, has children, a family to take care of, and in many cases a working girl as well, then sometimes it can happen that a woman does not have enough time or will power to keep after her appearance as well as she should. This I have observed in many countries and cities, not only in Bonn, Germany.

Thank you for your efforts.

SELF-DISCIPLINE

To the Editor:

Good democracy means more rights to every citizen — but also demands more, not less, responsibility and morality from each and every citizen. This, in turn, is a matter of both individual and collective beliefs; also, both individual and collective conscience. The answer to this is self - discipline. This, of course, means proper environment and upbringing. Often the same people who create yesterday's cute rascals — that is, parents, relatives, teachers, friends, non-friends, etc. — look in disbelief at today's uncute monsters. Without explaining — I believe all of us know the type of cute rascal to which I refer. It should be equally obvious that we all share the blame to some degree. Frankenstein was not as much the victime of his monster as the other way around.

SCHOOL TAXES

To the Editor:

In reply to Mattie Miller:

You are wrong about tax-supported schools. I for one think, and not a one-track mind, that if you want children, have them. But don't have people who could not afford to have children pay for their education. No one paid for mine. I say our school taxes on car, mobile homes and land are terrible, while the people that have all these children get out of paying income tax and make people that don't have any children raise theirs. Every time I turn around it is to pay tax on schools!

Maybe some people are not so smart but at least they like a say when it comes to paying so much out all the time, and can't do anything but pay.

Of course you will think I don't like children. Well, I do, but many of us without children think the people that want so many and can't afford to send them to school shouldn't have them. How can they afford to have them if they have no money? Why bring these babies in the world without a thought?

Allen-Scott Report

Federal School Aid

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

Washington —There are several reasons for the marked lack of enthusiasm in Congress for President Kennedy's multi-billion dollar school-aid plan.

Chief of these is the startling discovery by a House Education Subcommittee that the federal government already is spending $1.8 billion yearly to support a number of educational programs.

This little-known but costly hodge-podge system of dispensing funds through at least seven different government agencies has reached the point where it is causing increasing concern among the educational measure's chief congressional supporters.

These and other details of the size and scope of federal educational aid will highlight a report by a committee headed by Representative Edith Green, D-Ore., a top school-aid advocate, to be made public later this month.

These surprise findings are based on the lawmakers' study of the whole federal-aid-to-education picture. The survey was undertaken to determine what changes, if any, should be made in handling existing school aid before launching a new program as advocated by the Administration.

In its findings, the Green committee will reveal that 22,000, or more than half the nation's 40,000 graduate students, are being supported by one or more federal fellowship grants.

By 1970, an estimated 80,000 full-time graduate students will be in American universities, and if the present trend continues, 60,000 of them will be supported by the government.

Lack of coordination among the agencies granting fellowships for graduate studies in physics is cited by the subcommittee as a striking instance of the scrambled administration of educational spending. Four separate government agencies are offering these fellowships, all with different requirements, provisions and payments.

OUT OF HAND — One of the subcommittee's most disturbing findings is that the Office of Education, in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has virtually no control over the granting of this vast aid.

Instead of centralized control, federal grants and loans of $1.5 billion are handled by the Defense Department, the National Science Foundation, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Agriculture Department, National Institutes of Health, Atomic Energy Commission, and a number of smaller ones, an estimated $600 million in research grants alone go to support educational activities in hundreds of colleges and universities.

Of the seven major agencies, the Space Administration and the National Science Foundation have the fastest growing educational programs.

National Science Foundation spending for this purpose has jumped from $20 million to $150 million annually in less than five years. Space Agency grants soared from nothing to $22 million in three years, with spending to increase to $55 million in 1963.

Other large educational expenditures by the government include $232 million by the Office of Education to subsidize public schools in areas with large military and federal populations; $150 million by the Agriculture Department for extension and experimental programs; $20 million by the Defense Department; $80 million by the Atomic Energy Commission.

In its analysis of the $600 million in educational research grants, the committee warns that 95 percent of these funds are going to only 100 universities and colleges.

"This is a matter which greatly concerns us," the report states. "There is a question in our minds whether the long-range interest of the U.S. will be served by limiting these funds to a small fraction of the nation's educational institutions."

Speaker John McCormack, after studying the report, believes it will play a big role in blocking action on most of the President's new $5.3 billion school aid program.

McCormack is privately of the opinion that only federal aid for dental and medical colleges will be voted, and that the President's request for aid for public elementary and high schools and teacher's pay will get nowhere.

LOOKING FOR SOLUTIONS — Fire cure in a test tube? Government scientists are trying to find out more about what causes fires, in the hope this will slash the $1.5 billion in fire damage sustained in the U.S. last year. The National Bureau of Standards plans to step up research into how fires ignite, what make them spread, and which materials are the best flame-stoppers . . . The government will soon ask private home loan lenders to help make home-owning a habit in undeveloped countries. A plan to set up an International Home Loan Bank to channel financial aid from the U.S. into backward nations is now being drafted for submission to Congress. A senate Housing Subcommittee, headed by Senator John Sparkman, D-Ala., will issue a report supporting the proposal.

Nation's Press

The New Breed Rebels of Hope

By WARREN CARROLL
From the New Conservative
Colorado University

"Freedom is not a word we use lightly. It is our moral sanction and our justification. We accept no substitutes for freedom. We recognize no moral obligation not based upon it. We deny any man's right or any government's right to sacrifice any free personality for the sake of society, of welfare, of the under-developed areas, or for any other purpose which does not have 'our own' freedom as part of its essence and consequences."

How is it that a conservative can be a rebel? Our opponents, who have falsely called themselves liberals for so long that the term has stuck to them regardless of both reason and common sense, claim to be the real rebels for freedom. Aren't they striking out against "selfish interests" for "the public interest," to bring more freedom to "all the people"?

Ask them sometime: Just whose freedom are they talking about? And they will answer "Man's" or "the people's."

Have you ever seen "man"? Have you ever seen "the people"? Then it should not surprise you to realize that when freedom is taken away from a real, living person to be given to a paper ghost, freedom vanishes.

It has been vanishing in just this way, time and again, for ten thousand years and more. The doctrine of collectivism, of the innate superiority of the clan and the village, of the city and the nation over the individual, is the oldest and the darkest product of the human mind. It was old when Caesar marched to Gaul. It was old when the pharaohs of Egypt knelt before their hawkshead god. It was old when the first club-wielding chieftain gathered the bright-faced young men and women of his tribe about him to say: "I know better than you what you should do and what you should become. I speak for the wisdom of the witch-doctor and the Spirit of our Race. Follow me — and if you don't, I'll bash your head in." That has always been and still is, the ultimate collectivist argument.

In every age tyranny wears a mask because individual men and women cannot bear to look upon its face. The masks may change, but the face beneath is always the same. It has worn the black mask of the inquisition; the white mask of aristocracy; the purple mask of empire; the brown mask of fascism, the red mask of communism and socialism.

The advocates of more and more government, or university, or society power over the individual today can pick their own style and color; but they cannot change or conceal the reality of their purpose they share in common with every single tyrant that ever lived.

The greatest new idea in the history of mankind is not any one of the innumerable collectivist ideas for enslaving people to the will of others. It is the hope of every man and women to produce, to create, to achieve in the world by his own efforts and his own vision, free of seizure and looting by other persons or by governments.

Stock Market Fails in Struggle To Hold Ground

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market struggled in vain Friday to hold its ground but tumbled into a decline for the third consecutive day.

The decline wasn't as steep as in the two previous sessions but there was little for Wall Street to cheer about.

Some brokers saw the action as confirmation that the list had gone into a period of consolidation and correction after the extended ascent from October to January.

A good flow of dividend raises and stock splits failed to provide much encouragement.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 3.22 at 659.72.

The Associated Press 60-stock avrage declined .8 at 251.1 with industrials off 1.0, rails off .2 and utilities off .5.

Of 1,282 issues traded, 670 fell and 331 rose. There were 13 new 1962-63 highs and 5 new lows.

Volume dipped to 3.95 million shares from 4.11 million Thursday.

Nine of the 15 most active stocks declined and five advanced. Missouri Pacific was unchanged.

Steels, rubbers, utilities, oils and airlines were lower. Motors, aircrafts, chemicals, rails and tobaccos were mixed.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed. Volume was 880,000 shares, compared with 1 million Thursday.

U.S. government bonds advanced and corporates declined.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in grain futures was rather sporadic Friday with prices ranging from firm on old crop wheat to weak on soybeans.

Transactions included all types of activity. It was mostly speculative although there appeared to be a fairly good volume of wheat buying for commercial accounts.

At the close, wheat was 1¼ cents a bushel higher to ⅜ lower, March $2.08⅛-¼; corn ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, March $1.18¾-⅞; oats ¼ higher to ½ lower, March 74¾ cents; rye unchanged to ⅝ higher, March $1.34; soybeans unchanged to ¾ lower, March $2.64⅜-½.

Market's Drop Brings Variety Of Expressions

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's latest swoon brought a variety of expressions from Wall Street pundits, a group seldom in close agreement.

A good deal of opinion added up to the proposition that some backsliding simply was overdue after a sharp climb in prices late last year followed by several weeks of vacillation.

A "long overdue correction" was the way Benson B. Sloan Jr. put it. Sloan is an analyst for Harris, Upham & Co.

Thomas & McKinnon, another brokerage firm, blamed technical weakness in the market resulting from the big advance, plus "confusion over prospects for a tax cut."

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. called it a temporary setback that could be halted almost any time. He, too, mentioned the pronounced upswing that started in late October.

Gilbert observed that the market had lost ground in seven of the last eight trading sessions—as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average—but attached no special significance.

L.O. Hooper of W.E. Hutton & Co discounted the impression held by some that tax relief is headed down the drain.

Agents Looking For Clews in Political Murder

CHICAGO (UPI) — Swarms of undercover investigators Friday hunted enemies of slain Alderman Benjamin F. Lewis in a maze of power politics, intrigue over the "policy" gambling racket and a planned business venture that might have stepped on the toes of suburban gangsters.

Detectives searching for more immediate clues questioned two women who believed they heard the shots that killed the slim, dapper Negro Democratic "comer" and another woman who said she saw a man walking in an alley through which Lewis' assassin apparently fled.

Police Supt. Orlando W. Wilson's "new - look" department faced what shaped up as its biggest test since the former University of California crime school dean came here three years ago to reform a force shaken by a cops-turned-robbers scandal.

Mayor Richard J. Daley, cognizant of the fact that former State's Atty. Benjamin Adamowski already was making an issue of the Lewis killing in their battle for the mayoralty election next month, offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the killer.

Daley made the offer on behalf of the city at a news conference. He said he knew nothing of reports that Lewis had made enemies of the racketeers that prey on Chicago's Negroes with the nickel and dime "policy" game.

The mayor also said he had no information on reports — being checked out by Wilson's detectives —that suburban Cicero underworld leaders had been angered by Lewis' efforts with business colleagues to launch a new savings and loan association.

Lewis' body — three bullets from an automatic pistol fired "Chinese execution" style into the base of the skull — was found Thursday sprawled on the carpeted floor of his new political headquarters in the turbulent 24th Ward.

Coroner Andrew Toman estimated that the alderman died at around 8 a.m. but police said they believed he was killed Wednesday night.

Members of the Police Tactical Undercover Function (TUF guys) posing as West Side residents, joined detectives of the gambling, vice, narcotics and organized crime units in the all-out hunt.

Investigators were rounding up and questioning Negro politicians about Lewis' possible enemies in the rough-and-tumble battle for political power in former "white" wards.

Hoover Says Public Helps Auto Thieves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Friday American automobile owners operate a "red carpet" service for car thieves.

Hoover said an all-time high of 350,000 automobiles valued at $290 million were stolen last year, a 9 per cent increase from 1961. "An alarming percentage of these cars were left with keys in the ignition," the FBI director said.

Writing in the monthly FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Hoover said "careless and lazy drivers who fail to properly secure their automobiles are inviting young people to break the law."

The bulk of all car thefts are committed by young people, he said. Last year, 86 per cent of all auto theft arrests were of persons under 25 years old and about 54 per cent of those charged with the crime were referred to juvenile courts.

"Joyrides and neighborhood jaunts by young people in stolen cars are not prankish capers of restless youth," Hoover said.

Defense Department To Use Florida Field

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Miami Port Authority officials say the Defense Department plans to move into Opa-Locka Airport, once a Marine air base.

Opa-Locka, outside Miami, was a busy temporary facility of the military during the Cuban crisis last fall. About 10,000 troops were quartered there. About 100 are left.

Port Authority attorney James Eckhart said Thursday negotiations are under way for Defense Department use of the field.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON, — The congressional baiters of the Kennedy Administration on the Cuba issue, especially the Republicans, have suddenly begun to wonder if it is going to be politically wise to force all the facts out into the open.

This is because, even at this early stage of congressional prying into the administration's Cuba activities, it is turning out that the Central Intelligence Agency has had a most sorry record. The CIA, therefore, could well turn out to have been the biggest bungler, rather than the White House.

Such a climax to a congressional investigation would make Republicans most distressed and for a simple reason. The big controversial spy agency was headed up for eight years by Republican Allen Dulles, and his successor, John McCone, who took over in October, 1961, also has been a life-long partisan Republican.

Republicans became definitely aware last week of the danger that an attack on President Kennedy's handling of the Cuban problem could ricochet to CIA's McCone and Dulles.

This came when Senate GOP Leader Everett Dirksen revealed that four American fliers had been killed over the Bay of Pigs in April 1961, and the administration mysteriously had kept the fatalities secret.

It now turns out that it was not the White House that was responsible for concealing the information. It was the CIA, and the White House simply bowed to the hush hush demand of the agency.

The CIA, of course, has always been obsessed by the need of secrecy, and this case was typical of the way the intelligence outfit hides its head in the sand.

Of course, the four fliers had been working for the CIA at the time of their death! So what? The CIA trained the Cuban exile invasion army, got the ships for it, and the weapons. The best estimates are that more Americans on the CIA payroll were operating in the training areas and in other hotfoot operations preparatory to the invasion fiasco than the 1,400 Cuban freedom fighters.

So Dirksen, in disclosing the death of the fliers found out he was making far less political hay than he had hopefully expected. His target was Kennedy for keeping the lid on the deaths for almost two years. But his arrow hit the GOP-run CIA, despite Dirksen's good partisan political intentions.

Another congressional development has also had an unexpected twist of the same kind. In both houses of Congress there have been charges suggesting that the administration was most sensitive about a "Cuba picture gap" in September of 1962. It was during this month that the Soviets secretly shipped in offensive missiles and started construction of sites.

This "picture gap" was supposed to have extended from Sept. 5, until Oct. 14, when air reconnaissance first nailed down firmly the offensive weapon threat.

As Defense Secretary McNamara did not show any pictures taken during that period in his nationwide TV briefing last December proper conjecture developed that the administration was concealing pictures that perhaps showed evidence of the missile buildup weeks before the President admitted there was proof.

It later turned out that U-2 spy planes did fly over Cuba in that crucial period but certainly not under urgency instructions. The flights were made on Sept. 5, 17, 26, 29, and on Oct. 5 and 7.

There has been unofficial admission that at that time the reconnaissance flights were in a way desultory. This was because the powers that be in the State Department and the White House apparently had "assumed" that the Russian experts were right — and that Nikita Khrushchev would never be fool enough to emplant offensive missiles and bombers within 90 miles of Key West.

It has now been brought out as a result of GOP congressional pressure that the air reconnaissance by the U-2 spy planes up until Oct. 12 or 13 was wholly a CIA operation. So if there was a failure to spot the missiles or their concrete pads, this was a CIA failure. And what is also now clear is that the CIA must have fallen for the line that Khrushchev would not dare to make Cuba a Soviet manned offensive missile base, otherwise the agency, if it had any decent ground intelligence at all, would have had U-2 planes daily covering the whole Red island.

The excuse that the weather was stormy, cloudy etc., for much of the time, and so the U-2 planes had to be grounded by the CIA has now been fairly well deflated. At a House hearing last week, Helmut E. Landsberg, director of climatology for the U. S. Weather Bureau testified that throughout that "Picture" gap period flights were possible at all times.

The CIA's air reconnaissance job was taken over on Oct. 13, by the Strategic Air Command. The very next day SAC reconnaissance planes produced hard and almost indisputable photographic evidence of what was going on.

This changeover came not because of a jurisdictional squabble between the CIA and Pentagon, but because — to give the CIA some credit — there had been earlier some intangible but perhaps significant information from intelligence agents in Cuba, plus certain air pictures which caused suspicion that the Russians were up to something.

The CIA spy-plane operation was a covert one. It was decided the time had come to switch to outright military combat intelligence — phone operations at any altitude no matter how loud Castro hollered.

These details may not clear up the "picture gap" matter, but certainly if Republicans are determined to clear it up the man responsible was Republican McCone of the CIA, whom Kennedy felt he had a right to rely on in keeping up to date on Russian military moves in Cuba.

Atlas Missile Okay in Test

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — An advanced model Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile soared more than 5,000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean Friday in the first of a series of "space laboratory" flights.

The silvery missile carried an experimental nose cone and a 600-pound pod loaded with scientific experiments on the long, 30-minute hike through the edge of space.

The Air Force said the purpose of the test as far as it was concerned was "to increase effectiveness of a new type of nose cone" — the blunt vehicle on the front of the missile that normally would carry a nuclear warhead in time of war.

Manpower Chief Tells Draft Need

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's manpower chief today labeled the draft one of the most vital elements in our national defense and asked Congress to extend it for four years.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Norman S. Paul said the Army estimates it will need an average of 90,000 men each of those years.

"It is my firm conviction that extension of the induction authority is absolutely essential for maintenance of our military strength," Paul told the House Armed Services committee.

The proposed bill also would extend for four years the present ceilings on active duty forces. If that isn't done, Paul said, the Pentagon will have to cut military strength by more than a half-million men—and "it would be impossible for our armed services to meet their commitments."

Stock Market Fails in Struggle To Hold Ground

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market struggled in vain Friday to hold its ground but tumbled into a decline for the third consecutive day.

The decline wasn't as steep as in the two previous sessions but there was little for Wall Street to cheer about.

Some brokers saw the action as confirmation that the list had gone into a period of consolidation and correction after the extended ascent from October to January.

A good flow of dividend raises and stock splits failed to provide much encouragement.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 3.22 at 659.72.

The Associated Press 60-stock avrage declined .8 at 251.1 with industrials off 1.0, rails off .2 and utilities off .5.

Of 1,282 issues traded, 670 fell and 331 rose. There were 13 new 1962-63 highs and 5 new lows.

Volume dipped to 3.95 million shares from 4.11 million Thursday.

Nine of the 15 most active stocks declined and five advanced. Missouri Pacific was unchanged.

Steels, rubbers, utilities, oils and airlines were lower. Motors, aircrafts, chemicals, rails and tobaccos were mixed.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed. Volume was 880,000 shares, compared with 1 million Thursday.

U.S. government bonds advanced and corporates declined.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in grain futures was rather sporadic Friday with prices ranging from firm on old crop wheat to weak on soybeans.

Transactions included all types of activity. It was mostly speculative although there appeared to be a fairly good volume of wheat buying for commercial accounts.

At the close, wheat was 1¼ cents a bushel higher to ⅝ lower, March $2.08⅛ - ¼; corn ⅛ higher to ¼ lower, March $1.18¾-⅞; oats ¼ ~~higher~~ to ½ lower, March 74¾ cents; rye unchanged to ⅜ higher, March $1.34; soybeans unchanged to ¾ lower, March $2.64¾-½.

Market's Drop Brings Variety Of Expressions

By ROGER LANE

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market's latest swoon brought a variety of expressions from Wall Street pundits, a group seldom in close agreement.

A good deal of opinion added up to the proposition that some backsliding simply was overdue after a sharp climb in prices late last year followed by several weeks of vacillation.

A "long overdue correction" was the way Benson B. Sloan Jr. put it. Sloan is an analyst for Harris, Upham & Co.

Thomas & McKinnon, another brokerage firm, blamed technical weakness in the market resulting from the big advance, plus "confusion over prospects for a tax cut."

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. called it a temporary setback that could be halted almost any time. He, too, mentioned the pronounced upswing that started in late October.

Gilbert observed that the market had lost ground in seven of the last eight trading sessions—as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average—but attached no special significance.

L.O. Hooper of W.E. Hutton & Co discounted the impression held by some that tax relief is headed down the drain.

Agents Looking For Clews in Political Murder

CHICAGO (UPI) — Swarms of undercover investigators Friday hunted enemies of slain Alderman Benjamin F. Lewis in a maze of power politics, intrigue over the "policy" gambling racket and a planned business venture that might have stepped on the toes of suburban gangsters.

Detectives searching for more immediate clues questioned two women who believed they heard the shots that killed the slim, dapper Negro Democratic "comer" and another woman who said she saw a man walking in an alley through which Lewis' assassin apparently fled.

Police Supt. Orlando W. Wilson's "new - look" department faced what shaped up as its biggest test since the former University of California crime school dean came here three years ago to reform a force shaken by a cops-turned-robbers scandal.

Mayor Richard J. Daley, cognizant of the fact that former State's Atty. Benjamin Adamowski already was making an issue of the Lewis killing in their battle for the mayoralty election next month, offered a $10,000 reward for information leading to the apprehension and couviction of the killer.

Daley made the offer on behalf of the city at a news conference. He said he knew nothing of reports that Lewis had made enemies of the racketeers that prey on Chicago's Negroes with the nickel and dime "policy" game.

The mayor also said he had no information on reports — being checked out by Wilson's detectives —that suburban Cicero underworld leaders had been angered by Lewis' efforts with business colleagues to launch a new savings and loan association.

Lewis' body — three bullets from an automatic pistol fired "Chinese execution" style into the base of the skull — was found Thursday sprawled on the carpeted floor of his new political headquarters in the turbulent 24th Ward.

Coroner Andrew Toman estimated that the alderman died at around 8 a.m. but police said they believed he was killed Wednesday night.

Members of the Police Tactical Undercover Function (TUF guys) posing as West Side residents joined detectives of the gambling, vice, narcotics and organized crime units in the all-out hunt.

Investigators were rounding up and questioning Negro politicians about Lewis' possible enemies in the rough-and-tumble battle for political power in former "white" wards.

Hoover Says Public Helps Auto Thieves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Friday American automobile owners operate a "red carpet" service for car thieves.

Hoover said an all-time high of 350,000 automobiles valued at $290 million were stolen last year, a 9 per cent increase from 1961. "An alarming percentage of these cars were left with keys in the ignition," the FBI director said.

Writing in the monthly FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Hoover said "careless and lazy drivers who fail to properly secure their automobiles are inviting young people to break the law."

The bulk of all car thefts are committed by young people, he said. Last year, 86 per cent of all auto theft arrests were of persons under 25 years old and about 54 per cent of those charged with the crime were referred to juvenile courts.

"Joyrides and neighborhood jaunts by young people in stolen cars are not prankish capers of restless youth," Hoover said.

Defense Department To Use Florida Field

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Miami Port Authority officials say the Defense Department plans to move into Opa-Locka Airport, once a Marine air base.

Opa-Locka, outside Miami, was a busy temporary facility of the military during the Cuban crisis last fall. About 10,000 troops were quartered there. About 100 are left.

Port Authority attorney James Eckhart said Thursday negotiations are under way for Defense Department use of the field.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON. — The congressional baiters of the Kennedy Administration on the Cuba issue, especially the Republicans, have suddenly begun to wonder if it is going to be politically wise to force all the facts out into the open.

This is because, even at this early stage of congressional prying into the administration's Cuba activities, it is turning out that the Central Intelligence Agency has had a most sorry record. The CIA, therefore, could well turn out to have been the biggest bungler, rather than the White House.

Such a climax to a congressional investigation would make Republicans most distressed and for a simple reason. The big controversial spy agency was headed up for eight years by Republican Allen Dulles, and his successor, John McCone, who took over in October, 1961, also has been a life-long partisan Republican.

Republicans became definitely aware last week of the danger that an attack on President Kennedy's handling of the Cuban problem could ricochet to CIA's McCone and Dulles.

This came when Senate GOP Leader Everett Dirksen revealed that four American fliers had been killed over the Bay of Pigs in April 1961, and the administration mysteriously had kept the fatalities secret.

It now turns out that it was not the White House that was responsible for concealing the information. It was the CIA, and the White House simply bowed to the hush hush demand of the agency.

The CIA, of course, has always been obsessed by the need of secrecy, and this case was typical of the way the intelligence outfit hides its head in the sand.

Of course, the four fliers had been working for the CIA at the time of their death! So what? The CIA trained the Cuban exile invasion army, got the ships for it, and the weapons. The best estimates are that more Americans on the CIA payroll were operating in the training areas and in other hotfoot operations preparatory to the invasion fiasco than the 1,400 Cuban freedom fighters.

So Dirksen, in disclosing the death of the fliers found out he was making far less political hay than he had hopefully expected. His target was Kennedy for keeping the lid on the deaths for almost two years. But his arrow hit the GOP-run CIA, despite Dirksen's good partisan political intentions.

Another congressional development has also had an unexpected twist of the same kind. In both houses of Congress there have been charges suggesting that the administration was most sensitive about a "Cuba picture gap" in September of 1962. It was during this month that the Soviets secretly shipped in offensive missiles and started construction of sites.

This "picture gap" was supposed to have extended from Sept. 5, until Oct. 14, when air reconnaissance first nailed down firmly the offensive weapon threat.

As Defense Secretary McNamara did not show any pictures taken during that period in his nationwide TV briefing last December proper conjecture developed that the administration was concealing pictures that perhaps showed evidence of the missile buildup weeks before the President admitted there was proof.

It later turned out that U-2 spy planes did fly over Cuba in that crucial period but certainly not under urgency instructions. The flights were made on Sept. 5, 17, 26, 29, and on Oct. 5 and 7.

There has been unofficial admission that at that time the reconnaissance flights were in a way desultory. This was because the powers that be in the State Department and the White House apparently had "assumed" that the Russian experts were right — and that Nikita Khrushchev would never be fool enough to emplant offensive missiles and bombers within 90 miles of Key West.

It has now been brought out as a result of GOP congressional pressure that the air reconnaissance by the U-2 spy planes up until Oct. 12 or 13 was wholly a CIA operation. So if there was a failure to spot the missiles or their concrete pads, this was a CIA failure. And what is also now clear is that the CIA must have fallen for the line that Khrushchev would not dare to make Cuba a Soviet manned offensive missile base, otherwise the agency, if it had any decent ground intelligence at all, would have had U-2 planes daily covering the whole Red island.

The excuse that the weather was stormy, cloudy etc., for much of the time, and so the U-2 planes had to be grounded by the CIA has now been fairly well deflated. At a House hearing last week, Helmut E. Landsberg, director of climatology for the U. S. Weather Bureau testified that throughout that "Picture" gap period flights were possible at all times.

The CIA's air reconnaissance job was taken over on Oct. 13, by the Strategic Air Command. The very next day SAC reconnaissance planes produced hard and almost indisputable photographic evidence of what was going on.

This changeover came not because of a jurisdictional squabble between the CIA and Pentagon, but because — to give the CIA some credit — there had been earlier some intangible but perhaps significant information from intelligence agents in Cuba, plus certain air pictures which caused suspicion that the Russians were up to something.

The CIA spy-plane operation was a covert one. It was decided the time had come to switch to outright military combat intelligence — phone operations at any altitude no matter how loud Castro hollered.

These details may not clear up the "picture gap" matter, but certainly if Republicans are determined to clear it up the man responsible was Republican McCone of the CIA, whom Kennedy felt he had a right to rely on in keeping up to date on Russian military moves in Cuba.

Atlas Missile Okay in Test

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — An advanced model Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile soared more than 5,000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean Friday in the first of a series of "space laboratory" flights.

The silvery missile carried an experimental nose cone and a 600-pound pod loaded with scientific experiments on the long, 30-minute hike through the edge of space.

The Air Force said the purpose of the test as far as it was concerned was "to increase effectiveness of a new type of nose cone" — the blunt vehicle on the front of the missile that normally would carry a nuclear warhead in time of war.

Manpower Chief Tells Draft Need

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's manpower chief today labeled the draft one of the most vital elements in our national defense and asked Congress to extend it for four years.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Norman S. Paul said the Army estimates it will need an average of 90,000 men each of those years.

"It is my firm conviction that extension of the induction authority is absolutely essential for maintenance of our military strength," Paul told the House Armed Services committee.

The proposed bill also would extend for four years the present ceilings on active duty forces. If that isn't done, Paul said, the Pentagon will have to cut military strength by more than a half-million men—and "it would be impossible for our armed services to meet their commitments."

AMA Approves JFK's Mental Health Program

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association, which is firmly opposed to President Kennedy's proposed medical program for the elderly, spoke approvingly Friday of his mental health program.

The spokesman in this instance is Dr. Gerald D. Dorman of New York, an AMA trustee. His forum was the annual conference of State Mental Health Representatives.

Dr. Dorman said the Kennedy mental health program, announced Feb. 5, agrees with basic recommendations made by the AMA last summer.

He said both programs stress comprehensive care of mental patients at the community level rather than in big, distant state institutions.

"Community centers will supply what has been a missing link in the physician's responsibility for patients with emotional disorders," Dr. Dorman said.

Both the Kennedy administration and AMA proposals call for matching grants to the states from the federal government for building community mental health facilities.

Dr. Dorman said President Kennedy also proposes that services at the community centers be financed in the same manner as other medical and hospital costs—individual fees, private insurance, voluntary contributions and state and local aid.

Mark Makes Marks as Guide At Art Museum

By JOHN POWER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mark, a highly cultured canine with a yen for art as well as cats and would-be thieves, is celebrating the first anniversary of his job as a museum-guarding pooch.

Mark, a three-year-old German shepherd who rests during off-duty hours in a 12 by 7 foot kennel adjacent to the Los Angeles County Museum, has taken the past year in stride, reflecting the praise showered on him by museum officials.

For Mark is no run-of-the-mill guard dog.

"Extremely successful" was the term used by Leland T. Pellant, the museum's chief security officer, when describing the progress made by the first four-footed security officer to pound a beat in an American museum.

"We now consider him a full-fledged member of the force and the guards feel safer working with Mark than another security officer," said Pellant.

At present, the sleek black and tan dog is trained to work with four male handlers but shortly will work with Mrs. Dixie Allen, the museum's only female security officer.

Dixie also is another first, according to museum officials.

"Other museums have female guides but we are the only museum staff to have a female security officer," said Pellant.

Why a female guard?

The museum attracts about 1.5 million visitors a year and, according to Pellant, about 60 per cent of them are women and children.

"We want Dixie, who works during visitors' hours, to be able to work with Mark should any emergency arise," said Pellant.

Mark now works at night when the museum is closed.

He makes the rounds with a fellow security officer on a leash.

Pellant credits Mark with two major accomplishments during his first year at the museum.

Although not on public view during daylight hours, the fact that a trained guard dog is in the vicinity has cut down on the petty larceny that exists in any public building. And he has made the museum an unhealthy place for visiting cats which plagued the area before his arrival.

The plan to use a dog as part of the museum's security staff was the result of an increasing number of art thefts in this country and Europe during the past few years.

Officials felt that the museum, which has 203,600 square feet of space for exhibition halls, galleries and public areas as well as 83,000 square feet behind the scenes, could provide a place for a potential thief to hide until the museum closed and then steal or damage.

Museum officials faced the problem of providing the further security measures—and it was then that they had the idea of using a guard dog.

A number of dogs underwent tests at a nearby training school and Mark was picked.

Book on Genealogy Available at Last

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—One day in about 1940, Des Moines attorney Harold Newcomb stepped into the famous Goodspeed Book Store on Boston's Beacon Hill and asked for a genealogical memoir of the Newcomb family.

The store didn't have the book then, but told Newcomb that if he would leave his name and address he would be advised if and when a copy turned up.

More than 20 years later, Newcomb received a letter recently from the store, informing him that the book was available if he still wanted it. He did, and he got it.

AMA Approves JFK's Mental Health Program

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Medical Association, which is firmly opposed to President Kennedy's proposed medical program for the elderly, spoke approvingly Friday of his mental health program.

The spokesman in this instance is Dr. Gerald D. Dorman of New York, an AMA trustee. His forum was the annual conference of State Mental Health Representatives.

Dr. Dorman said the Kennedy mental health program, announced Feb. 5, agrees with basic recommendations made by the AMA last summer.

He said both programs stress comprehensive care of mental patients at the community level rather than in big, distant state institutions.

"Community centers will supply what has been a missing link in the physician's responsibility for patients with emotional disorders," Dr. Dorman said.

Both the Kennedy administration and AMA proposals call for matching grants to the states from the federal government for building community mental health facilities.

Dr. Dorman said President Kennedy also proposes that services at the community centers be financed in the same manner as other medical and hospital costs—individual fees, private insurance, voluntary contributions and state and local aid.

Mark Makes Marks as Guide At Art Museum

By JOHN POWER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mark, a highly cultured canine with a yen for art as well as cats and would-be thieves, is celebrating the first anniversary of his job as a museum-guarding pooch.

Mark, a three-year-old German shepherd who rests during off-duty hours in a 12 by 7 foot kennel adjacent to the Los Angeles County Museum, has taken the past year in stride, reflecting the praise showered on him by museum officials.

For Mark is no run-of-the-mill guard dog.

"Extremely successful" was the term used by Leland T. Pellant, the museum's chief security officer, when describing the progress made by the first four-footed security officer to pound a beat in an American museum.

"We now consider him a full-fledged member of the force and the guards feel safer working with Mark than another security officer," said Pellant.

At present, the sleek black and tan dog is trained to work with four male handlers but shortly will work with Mrs. Dixie Allen, the museum's only female security officer.

Dixie also is another first, according to museum officials.

"Other museums have female guides but we are the only museum staff to have a female security officer," said Pellant.

Why a female guard?

The museum attracts about 1.5 million visitors a year and, according to Pellant, about 60 per cent of them are women and children.

"We want Dixie, who works during visitors' hours, to be able to work with Mark should any emergency arise," said Pellant.

Mark now works at night when the museum is closed.

He makes the rounds with a fellow security officer on a leash.

Pellant credits Mark with two major accomplishments during his first year at the museum.

Although not on public view during daylight hours, the fact that a trained guard dog is in the vicinity has cut down on the petty larceny that exists in any public building. And he has made the museum an unhealthy place for visiting cats which plagued the area before his arrival.

The plan to use a dog as part of the museum's security staff was the result of an increasing number of art thefts in this country and Europe during the past few years.

Officials felt that the museum, which has 203,600 square feet of space for exhibition halls, galleries and public areas as well as 83,000 square feet behind the scenes, could provide a place for a potential thief to hide until the museum closed and then steal or damage.

Museum officials faced the problem of providing the further security measures—and it was then that they had the idea of using a guard dog.

A number of dogs underwent tests at a nearby training school and Mark was picked.

Book on Genealogy Available at Last

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—One day in about 1940, Des Moines attorney Harold Newcomb stepped into the famous Goodspeed Book Store on Boston's Beacon Hill and asked for a genealogical memoir of the Newcomb family.

The store didn't have the book then, but told Newcomb that if he would leave his name and address he would be advised if and when a copy turned up.

More than 20 years later, Newcomb received a letter recently from the store, informing him that the book was available if he still wanted it. He did, and he got it.

Enumerator Listed As Hazardous Job

SEATTLE (AP) — Mrs. Opal Lindsey is ready to list her job —as enumerator for the city directory — as a hazardous occupation.

When she identified herself at one home, the woman of the house grabbed a butcher knife and shouted:

"You're from the police and you're trying to get information. Get out of here, or I'll get you."

Jerry Kelly To Speak Sunday At Local Church

A former resident of the Young Life camp at Malibu, Canada, will be the guest speaker at 7 p.m. Sunday at services in the First Presbyterian Church.

Jerry Kelly, a junior at Whitworth College, Spokane, Wash., will discuss "Working With God In Brazil." The talk will feature color slides of the South American County where Kelly spent six months in volunteer service recently.

While in Brazil, Kelly helped construct a new church building under the direction of Rev. and Mrs. B. Mark Moore.

Kelly, who said he "rebelled and became a hoodlum" following his parents' divorce when he was nine, was befriended by a Young Life Campaign leader and taken to the Canadian camp.

He returned to Colorado Springs and joined the First Presbyterian Church where he became active in its youth program. He will return to Whitworth College in the fall to begin his junior year where he is studying philosphy. He said he hopes to enter the ministry but not necessarily the mission field.

All One Gives to God COMES BACK TO THE GIVER

do unto others as you would

...THE BAR OF JUSTICE IN MY COURT.
"Man must pay for the error he makes, the sin he commits...he must reap what he sows." Surely God tempers justice with mercy in His judgments upon us every day. It is that way too, in this judge's court, because he thinks principally of salvation for the man before him. Too often transgressors, both young and old, resent the kindly-intended judge. He sits in court to serve his country and the will of God.
It would be well to remember that God shall bring every work into judgment.
And that people who go to church more, go to court less.

QUESTION: I find that the girl I married is quite a different person than the girl I courted. I must confess this has been a let-down for me, and I fear that our marriage might break up. What can I do? —F. F. B.

ANSWER: The first year of marriage is sometimes called the Year of Disillusionment. This doesn't mean that deception was practiced during courtship; it simply means that each of you put your 'best foot forward'. You strived hard to win the affection of your mate; as she did with you.

Then you were married! Each began to be his real self, and you began to see each other in a new light, and in some respects there may have been disillusionment.

An important element of love is respect. During courtship, you courted the favor and respect of your wife. You worked at wooing and winning her. Now, marriage is a continuing process. If respect is to be maintained, you must each treat each other with respect. You were neat during courtship; be neat now. You were courteous during courtship; be courteous now. You showed your affection during courtship; show your love now.

The formal saying of the wedding ceremony didn't contain a magic that made continuing love automatic. It is always manual; it must be worked at. And you will find that if you work at it, it works.

However, the Bible teaches that "Love endureth all things"—and that love "covers a multitude of sins".

...THE BAR OF JUSTICE IN MY COURT.

"Man must pay for the error he makes, the sin he commits...he must reap what he sows." Surely God tempers justice with mercy in His judgments upon us every day. It is that way too, in this judge's court, because he thinks principally of salvation for the man before him. Too often transgressors, both young and old, resent the kindly-intended judge. He sits in court to serve his country and the will of God.

It would be well to remember that God shall bring every work into judgment.

And that people who go to church more, go to court less.

CIA Chief Says Cuba Training Underground

this year, he added, "despite the limited facilities for reaching Cuba at present."

McCone said the trainees are organized into national units, "in effect forming a packaged cadre which can be returned to the homeland at the appropriate time to lead a 'liberation army.'" He said Cubans call the trainees "our international brigade."

Kennedy has made reference to these "students" being trained in Cuba and McCone's testimony actually contained little that has not been disclosed piecemeal before by one source or another.

One Democratic subcommittee member, who declined to be identified, said he did not even go to the meeting to hear McCone because he regards such a briefing as an exercise in futility. He added he has practiced such absenteeism for years so he would not be bound to hold in confidence information he might develop from other sources.

McCone's testimony and the reaction to it served to dramatize anew how the focus of congressional concern over Cuba has shifted to the subversion peril and away from talk of a direct military threat to the United States from the presence in Cuba of Soviet military personnel—now officially estimated at around 17,000.

For example, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who often has lambasted the administration for not clearing Soviet military personnel out of Cuba, had this to say of McCone's report:

"I am not too disturbed about the military equipment installed in Cuba. They could load the island down with enough stuff of its kind to sink it without becoming a military threat to us.

"But the training of 1,000 to 1,500 Latin Americans in sabotage and guerrilla tactics presents great danger. We must be in the position where we regard any Communist attack on any hemisphere country as an attack on us."

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., said the activity described by McCone is "highly dangerous for the hemisphere. This only serves to make it clear again that we have got to get rid of the Communist stronghold in Cuba."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., whose Senate Preparedness subcommittee is investigating the Cuban situation, said, "I'm not surprised. It adds to the over-all problem and clearly illustrates what to expect in the future."

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., said McCone's testimony should stimulate efforts to "get the other Latin-American countries to join hands in as tight an economic blockade of Cuba as possible, and to do all they can to prevent their people from going to Cuba. I would think the Organization of American States would be very willing."

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said a report from the OAS itself has made clear that classes in subversion and sabotage are under way. "We've got to tighten down against commerce to Cuba," Lausche said.

McCone said the trainees are given such down-to-earth instruction as how to operate common types of rifles and machine guns they would likely be able to steal or capture from police or security units of their countries. Another phase of the schooling was how to manufacture homemade "Molotov cocktail" bombs.

The only Latin-American country from which the guerrilla trainees may not be coming, McCone said, is Uruguay, and he described a special situation in that strategically located country.

He said all Communist-bloc nations maintain diplomatic missions in the capital, Montevideo, and Red couriers and travelers can fan out from there to Cuba and the Soviet bloc easily. Therefore, McCone said, in order not to antagonize the Uruguayan government, no attempt is made to foment revolutionary activity in Uruguay.

McCone gave specific examples of cases of Communist couriers who were caught with large sums of cash. One, a Nicaraguan exile named Julio Mayorga Portocarrera, was caught carrying $3,600 from Cuba for Nicaraguan rebels in Honduras, McCone said.

"Communist guerrillas have staged numerous bank robberies in Venezuela, Peru and Argentina," he added, to get funds to support subversion. He cited one that netted $100,000.

But McCone said "while Cuban-backed subversive pressure is great in all of Latin America, the Cubans have thus far been having only limited success.

He gave these examples:

—Despite great subversive and sabotage pressure in Venezuela, President Romulo Betancourt seems to be proving he can control it and is likely to become the first democratically elected Venezuelan president in history to complete his term.

—In Brazil "some moderates were elected to congressional and gubernatorial posts last fall."

unreasonably priced or structurally inadequate.

Leasing is authorized when adequate private rental housing is available and when rent being paid by eligible personnel, exclusive of utilities, exceeds their basic allowance for quarters by more than 10 per cent. Both of these conditions are met in the Colorado Springs area.

The statute which authorizes this leasing stipulates that the rent per unit will not exceed $150 per month. The Department of Defense has determined that the total cost for each unit to include rent, utilities and other operating coss will not exceed an average of $170 per month.

Utilities may be part of the lease or may be paid separately according to the agreement reached by the owner and the Omaha District Engineers.

If utilities are not a part of the contract, the Army will pay for heat, water, electricity, gas, sewage disposal and refuse collection, providing these costs plus the rent are not in excess of $170 average per month.

Approximately five per cent of the total houses leased will be one bedroom units, ten per cent two-bedroom units, seventy per cent three-bedroom units and fifteen per cent four bedrooms or more.

Priority will be given to leasing any adequate housing held by the Federal Housing Administration if at least a two-year lease can be obtained.

The appraisal of all houses and the determination of all prices will be made by the Omaha District Engineers.

The rate fixed by the Omaha District Engineers for an individual house will be in accordance with the value of the house on the local market.

For instance, the Army will lease a one bedroom house for less than it will rent a comparably aged and decorated three bedroom house. In no case, however, will the $150 rent limitation or the $170 rent with utilities be disregarded.

The Ft. Carson program will be administered by the director of family housing in conjunction with personnel from the Omaha District Engineer office. Initially these personnel will have joint offices with housing personnel of the Army Air Defense Command located in the Carl Building.

Careful consideration will be given to managing the acquisition of leases in such a way as to obviate inflationary tendencies in the local housing market.

All appraisals will be made and all prices fixed by the Omaha District Engineers and houses will be leased only if they constitute economic values.

While the Army is not seeking bargains, neither will it pay more than the rate determined by the local market. The inventory will be completed over a substantial period of time so that artificial inflationary propensities will not develop in the local economy.

Persons having housing units they wish to lease may contact the downtown office, which will be maintained in the Carl Building, 2220 East Bijou, or call 635-8911, exts. 6461, 6462 or 6433.

For the convenience of military personnel stationed at Ft. Carson, the office of the Director of family housing is located in Bldg. 6650, F Ft. Carson, 633-6644 ext. 8213.

Bids Asked For Carson Air Field Work

that construction will commence shortly after April 1.

The contract specifications call for the construction to be completed in 390 days and thus it is possible the new airfield complex will be operational by early summer of 1964.

It is estimated that from 100 to 150 workers will be employed on the project with the majority of these hired from local labor markets. Nearly all of the building trades will be represented in the construction force.

Included in the first phase of this current contract is a 500-foot two-storied hangar; a pumping station; sewage lagoon; seven-storied control tower; heating plant; ground water storage plant; aircraft washing area; and a hangar apron pavement.

Utilities construction includes four miles of four-inch, high-pressure gas line; one mile of water line; one mile of electrical distribution; one-half mile of sewage line; and one-quarter mile of steam line.

Macy's Says Will Boycott New York Post

Mrs. Schiff's defection, but pledged to stand firm against the striking AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

When the strike was only 10 days old last December, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz warned the deadlock could continue into March. Friday, his foreboding proved correct as the 12th week of the walkout came to a close.

Mrs. Schiff's paper was one of five that closed voluntarily after the ITU printers struck the other four Dec. 8. In announcing Thursday that she would resume publication, she said, "The strike has gone on long enough."

Printers returned to the Post under terms of their old contract. A new contract was to be worked out in individual bargaining between the Post and the union.

Mrs. Schiff resigned from the Publishers Association of New York City, which had been bargaining for all of the nine major dailies.

lations with its other allies, particularly the United States.

The opposition Socialists, who control four of the 10 states, sought to write safeguards to this effect into the body of the treaty. It lost out to Adenauer's Christian Democrats on straight party line votes.

The Socialist mayor of the city-state of Hamburg, Paul Neverman, openly accused Adenauer of trying to make the treaty look harmless by treating it as a mere expression of friendship. He and his party demanded that similar treaties be offered to all other European Common Market nations, plus Britain, to avoid a special Bonn-Paris alliance.

The treaty calls for the leaders of France and West Germany to meet frequently for consultations on common policies in foreign affairs, defense and culture.

The Soviet Union and the Communist bloc have condemned the treaty as the formation of a warlike axis in Europe. Some Western leaders have expressed misgivings over it, especially in the light of De Gaulle's opposition to Britain's membership in the Common Market and U.S. leadership in the defense of Europe.

FORECAST
For Daytime Saturday High Temperatures Expected

WEATHER FORECAST—Scattered light snow or snow flurries are predicted Saturday from the northeastern Plains through the upper Midwest and Great Lakes area into the mid-Atlantic states where rain is expected along the coast. Snow flurries are predicted in the higher elevations of the central and northern Rockies. Clear to partly cloudy skies are expected elsewhere with a continuing warming trend over the Mississippi valley and southern Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Big Storm Hits Midwest, Leaves Icy Coating

in and around Shelbyville, Ind., after more than eight inches of snow accumulated.

Robinson, Ill., had 8.5 inches of snow while communities in surrounding counties reported two inches or less.

Cities along U.S. 50 in Southern Illinois had up to five inches of snow. In some places it blended with freezing rain to create dangerous motoring conditions.

Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, had four inches of snow.

Warnings of heavy snow and hazardous driving weather went out to sections of Indiana and Ohio, Northern Kentucky, Western and Northern Pennsylvania, Upstate New York and most of New England.

March entered like a lamb in much of the country. But it came in like a lion in many areas in the northeastern quarter and in sections of the South.

Heavy rain hit some districts in the lower Mississippi Valley amid scattered lightning and thunder.

Temperatures dropped below zero early in the day in some northern states. Among the readings: Lone Rock, Wis., -16, Caribou, Maine, -14, and Traverse City Mich., -3.

The Weather Bureau issued a corrected 30-day outlook. The outlook, as distributed Thursday, predicted well below normal cold from the Mississippi to the Atlantic.

But the bureau said Friday that March temperatures in the eastern half of the country will average 10 to 15 degrees higher than in February.

"However," it added, "temperatures are expected to average somewhat below seasonal normals over the northeastern quadrant and also in the far Southwest. Above normal temperatures are indicated for the West Coast states and also for the Northern and Central Plains."

Traveling Particle Causes Shower

earth's atmosphere must have come from a much more active galaxy than our own, because of its enormous power.

When it crashed into the earth's air blanket, it struck the nucleus of an atom of the air—and the resulting atomic debris grew by a sort of chain reaction into a shower of high-speed atomic particles.

The cosmic ray shower covered an area of several square miles, bombarding the mesa for only an instant—but long enough to be recorded.

Earth scientists accelerate protons in their huge atom smashing devices. The new Brookhaven National Laboratory synchotron can accelerate protons to 30 billion electron volts over its half-mile track.

But the atomic nucleus from outer space—probably the nucleus of hydrogen atom—had three billion times as much energy as the Brookhaven synchotron could produce.

A man-made synchotron that could produce that powerful a particle would have to be as large as the earth's orbit around the sun.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Back in 1945, the Civil Aeronautics Board predicted there would be 500,000 private aircraft in the United States by 1949. According to Flying magazine, there are only 80,000 today and more than one-third of these were built in the abortive boom of 1946 and '47.

People Make Difference in Looks of City

often boils down to a problem of semantics which can destroy the progressive movement of cities.

"Before anything can be done you must have a common goal. The people must agree there is a thing to do and then must agree that it is worth doing," Blomquist said.

He listed three steps for successful municipal planning and development: 1. Establish a policy or goal; 2. Fabricate the plans; 3. Implement the program.

"And remember people can accomplish things if they band together in a common bond," he said. "It is the citizen who makes the final decision and the citizen who has the wisdom."

He said that a planning organization should never attempt to tell the people what they want and commented, "Our plan in Pueblo is what the people want."

Warner echoed Blomquist in pointing to a half-million downtown improvement project now underway in Grand Junction.

"If you've got a dream of a beautiful city, you've got to sell it and the people will sell it for you," he said.

He illustrated this point during a slide-commentary presenting the problems facing the downtown area of Grand Junction and would be done to solve them.

"We produced this slide presentation for $19 and it sold a half-million dollar project," Warner said.

The slides and the accompanying recorded narration showed the problems facing businessmen in Grand Junction in regards to parking, traffic and pedestrian safety. It also pointed up the need for a more attractive area.

The solution, with the city of Grand Junction paying slightly more than $100,000 for the project, included new drainage systems and a renovation of streets and sidewalks. Future plans call for beautification of the area.

"We showed this program first to the businessmen involved. Later we showed it wherever we could get three people together," Warner said. "More than 50 organizations saw this plan and they sold it."

He explained that by the time the city planners approached the businessmen to see if they would go along with the project, the citizens had already talked to them and pointed out the necessity for the program.

"The planner can come up with beautiful pictures and excellent plans but that's all it will remain unless the people are behind it," Warner said. "We had a citizens committee and they worked 15 months on the plans before we presented it to the public for approval."

Warner represented Joe M. Lacy, city manager of Grand Junction, who was to make the address but was unable to appear.

Mollenkopf Gets 2 Years on Marijuana Charge

had paid all of this fee with the exception of $180.

Mollenkopf made a brief statement to the presiding judge, David W. Enoch, most of which was inaudible, tho he was heard to say he had been "too easily influenced and would like to prove to the judge and those who had spoke on his behalf earlier that he could stay out of trouble."

Before passing sentence Judge Enoch pointed out that the defendant had signed an affidavit stating that he had no assets. "Do you own a 1955 Ford," he asked? Mollenkopf replied he did. He put approximately $500 value on it. The automobile also had what was described as "a special engine." The "special engine" was a Thunderbird engine.

Mollenkopf said that since he had been released on bond he had been making monthly payments of $32 towards the vehicle together with $25 a week to his bondsman.

Judge Enoch said "You took an oath that you could not employ your own attorney." "At that time I could not," the defendant answered. "And yet, continued the judge, "you've been paying off a mortgage and a bondsman while the people pay for your attorney. You can understand why the court is going to order you to pay your attorney's fees."

Turning to Mollenkopf's past record Judge Enoch went on, "Your problem is not as simple as some of your good witnesses would believe. I am not sure that many of them know your past. You know it and the court knows it."

The judge said that in 1960 the defendant received one year suspended out of County Court, that he had been placed on probation out of Pueblo and that when he was arrested for the present offense he was on probation for a previous violation of the law. "You've had at least three second chances," said Judge Enoch.

"The present offense you are charged with is a menace to yourself, to your health and to the community and is worse than any of the others." Mollenkopf was then sentenced to two to four years in the penitentiary and given the $100 suspended fine.

Driver Injured As Car Skids Into Power Pole

A car traveling at a high rate of speed on West Colorado Avenue Friday skidded and slammed into a power pole injuring the driver and causing an estimated $1190 damages.

State Patrolman Lloyd Carothers reported the accident occurred at 33rd Street and West Colorado Avenue, when Patrick M. Dillon, 32, of 2229 Hagerman St., lost control of his Westbound car which skidded some 311 feet before striking the pole.

Dillion was thrown clear out of the car as it went into a spin after striking the pole. He received contusions and abrasions of the head and body, and was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E & E Ambulance.

Patrolman Caothers said that the Dillon car, after striking the pole, caused additional damages to two nearby business establishments before coming to a halt.

These were identified as Western Auto Sales, 3305 W. Colorado Ave., $200 damages, and Foothills Shamrock Service Station, 3313 W. Colorado Ave., $50 damages. Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Colorado Springs Utilities Co. listed power pole and broken cable damages of $300 and $40 respectively. The car involved in the accident was declared a total loss.

Money Taken In Burglary Of Company

An office supply house was broken into, its safe forcibly opened, and an un-estimated sum of money stolen, it was reported to city police Friday.

Police said the burglary occurred at the Democrat Publishing Co., 516 N. Tejon, sometime between 5:30 p.m. Thursday and 8:05 a.m. Friday.

Entry was gained, police said, by prying apart the front doors of the supply house. The company's metal safe was found with its door hinges removed and one side completely rolled back.

Papers were found strewn about the office, but there was no other damage to the business establishment, police said.

Smith Sentencing Delayed Because Lawyer Is Busy

Woodrow Wilson Smith, who pleaded guilty Jan. 26 to indecent liberties charges, Friday appeared in El Paso County District Court for sentencing but the case was continued by Judge David W. Enoch.

Allen Asher, attorney for Smith, also is Colorado Springs municipal judge and was unable to appear at the Friday hearing, so Enoch continued the case.

Smith, 49, of 516 W. Uintah St. is accused of making an indecent attack upon a seven-year old girl, Dec. 27.

Other cases continued included Robert E. Zeidler. Zeidler, 35, of 2119 N. El Paso St. pleaded guilty to no account check. March 29 was set as the date for pre-sentence investigation. He appeared with counsel William Rhodes.

The defendant is alleged to have given a $20 check Dec. 5 to Millers Super Markets Inc.

Four other cases were continued for arraignment. Among them was Gary Gene Daugherty facing a charge of larceny from a motor vehicle.

Daugherty, 18, of 2321 Howbert St. was represented by lawyer Bob Laura. The defendant is alleged to have stolen a quantity of tools worth $500 belonging to Barnett Diamond.

Laura told the judge that he had only been appointed this week and his request for further time to study the case was granted. Daugherty will re-appear March 8 for arraignment.

Georgene Sherrill also known as Georgene Warren will be arraigned also March 8 as her attorney, Jack Agee was not present.

Mrs. Warren, 22, of 14 Waltham Ave. is charged with forgery. Information states she gave a forged $20 check to Empire Super Markets Inc. Jan. 31.

Nancy Lee O'Neil, also represented by Agee, and accused of forgery, had the arraignment continued to March 8 for the same reason.

Miss O'Neil, 22, of 14 Waltham Ave. is alleged to have forged a check for $13.32 and given it to Safeways Stores Inc. Jan. 31.

Priscilla Dorothy Sanchez, 18, of 17 W. Costilla St. charged with simple robbery had the arraignment date continued to March 8 to enable counsel Bill Goodbar to study the case further.

Information states she robbed Harold Wesley Rogers of $63, Feb. 21. Two other persons have been charged separately with the same offense but have not yet appeared for arraignment. They are Obide Williams, 26, of 702 E. Dale St., and Pauline Marie Gallegos also known as Pauline Marie Williams, 20, of 17 W. Costilla St.

Red China Says Nikita's Talks Are 'Drivel'

father of Soviet communism, in a renewed effort to convince the Kremlin that war is inevitable unless communism is established throughout the world.

The blast came in the second instalment of a 100,000-word article in the magazine Red Flag.

The first instalment published Thursday charged the Soviet-bloc leaders were "cowardly as mice" for following a policy of peaceful-coexistence with the United States and its Western allies, who, it said, were mere "paper tigers" deserving nothing but contempt.

Friday's blast, broadcast by Peking Radio and monitored in Tokyo, ostensibly was directed at Italian Communist party chief Palmiro Togliatti. But in fact it was China's strongest condemnation to date of Khrushchev's policies.

The article, quoting statements by Chinese party leader Mao Tse-Tung and Lenin, immediately launched into a defense of China's contention that wars are inevitable as long as capitalism thrives.

It said there can be no peaceful coexistence between the Communist and capitalist worlds, as Khrushchev had contended, and attacked Togliatti for suggesting that the Communist bloc follow a policy of peaceful coexistence with Italy.

Bobby Says He Does Not Seek Presidency

have been bouncing around in Washington recently.

He said it is completely ridiculous and untrue that he might become his brother's secretary of state, with Dean Rusk moving to the United Nations as ambassador and Adlai E. Stevenson moving out in the political cold.

As to whether he is being groomed for a run at the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination, Kennedy's words were: "Absolutely no. I don't even think about being president. I know that may sound funny to some people, but that's the truth."

With respect to his unusual role of presidential adviser, Kennedy had this to say: "It try to do the best job I can running the Department of Justice as attorney general. It's a very important job. Sure, the President gets my advice on maters outside the department, just as he does from lots of others. But he weighs it, just as he does the advice of others, and then makes the decisions himself."

The reaction to all of this among Democrats ranged from head-scratching puzzlement to acceptance of Kennedy's statements at their face value.

Republicans naturally refused to go along with the assumption that President Kennedy would win re-election in 1964, thus clearing the way for a possible run four years later by his brother.

this year, he added, "despite the limited facilities for reaching Cuba at present."

McCone said the trainees are organized into national units, "in effect forming a packaged cadre which can be returned to the homeland at the appropriate time to lead a 'liberation army.'" He said Cubans call the trainees "our international brigade."

Kennedy has made reference to these "students" being trained in Cuba and McCone's testimony actually contained little that has not been disclosed piecemeal before by one source or another.

One Democratic subcommittee member, who declined to be identified, said he did not even go to the meeting to hear McCone because he regards such a briefing as an exercise in futility. He added he has practiced such absenteeism for years so he would not be bound to hold in confidence information he might develop from other sources.

McCone's testimony and the reaction to it served to dramatize anew how the focus of congressional concern over Cuba has shifted to the subversion peril and away from talk of a direct military threat to the United States from the presence in Cuba of Soviet military personnel—now officially estimated at around 17,000.

For example, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who often has lambasted the administration for not clearing Soviet military personnel out of Cuba, had this to say of McCone's report:

"I am not too disturbed about the military equipment installed in Cuba. They could load the island down with enough stuff of its kind to sink it without becoming a military threat to us.

"But the training of 1,000 to 1,500 Latin Americans in sabotage and guerrilla tactics presents great danger. We must be in the position where we regard any Communist attack on any hemisphere country as an attack on us."

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., said the activity described by McCone is "highly dangerous for the hemisphere. This only serves to make it clear again that we have got to get rid of the Communist stronghold in Cuba."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., whose Senate Preparedness subcommittee is investigating the Cuban situation, said, "I'm not surprised. It adds to the over-all problem and clearly illustrates what to expect in the future."

Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., said McCone's testimony should stimulate efforts to "get the other Latin-American countries to join hands in as tight an economic blockade of Cuba as possible, and to do all they can to prevent their people from going to Cuba. I would think the Organization of American States would be very willing."

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, said a report from the OAS itself has made clear that classes in subversion and sabotage are under way. "We've got to tighten down against commerce to Cuba," Lausche said.

McCone said the trainees are given such down-to-earth instruction as how to operate common types of rifles and machine guns they would likely be able to steal or capture from police or security units of their countries. Another phase of the schooling was how to manufacture homemade "Molotov cocktail" bombs.

The only Latin-American country from which the guerrilla trainees may not be coming, McCone said, is Uruguay, and he described a special situation in that strategically located country.

He said all Communist-bloc nations maintain diplomatic missions in the capital, Montevideo, and Red couriers and travelers can fan out from there to Cuba and the Soviet bloc easily. Therefore, McCone said, in order not to antagonize the Uruguayan government, no attempt is made to foment revolutionary activity in Uruguay.

McCone gave specific examples of cases of Communist couriers who were caught with large sums of cash. One, a Nicaraguan exile named Julio Mayorga Portocarrera, was caught carrying $3,600 from Cuba for Nicaraguan rebels in Honduras, McCone said.

"Communist guerrillas have staged numerous bank robberies in Venezuela, Peru and Argentina," he added, to get funds to support subversion. He cited one that netted $100,000.

But McCone said "while Cuban-backed subversive pressure is great in all of Latin America, the Cubans have thus far been having only limited success.

He gave these examples:

—Despite great subversive and sabotage pressure in Venezuela, President Romulo Betancourt seems to be proving he can control it and is likely to become the first democratically elected Venezuelan president in history to complete his term.

—In Brazil "some moderates were elected to congressional and gubernatorial posts last fall."

that construction will commence shortly after April 1.

The contract specifications call for the construction to be completed in 390 days and thus it is possible the new airfield complex will be operational by early summer of 1964.

It is estimated that from 100 to 150 workers will be employed on the project with the majority of these hired from local labor markets. Nearly all of the building trades will be represented in the construction force.

Included in the first phase of this current contract is a 500-foot two-storied hangar; a pumping station; sewage lagoon; seven-storied control tower; heating plant; ground water storage plant; aircraft washing area; and a hangar apron pavement.

Utilities construction includes four miles of four-inch, high-pressure gas line; one mile of water line; one mile of electrical distribution; one-half mile of sewage line; and one-quarter mile of steam line.

Charge of Grand Larceny Filed

A charge of grand larceny was filed in District Court Friday against Lee Latson also known and Leve Latson, 26, of 712 E. Moreno St.

It is alleged the defendant stole a television set, furniture, an electric drill, a double roaster, a corn popper and various other miscellaneous items worth a total of $600 from the Furniture Center Inc., Feb. 6.

Judge G. Russell Miller set bond at $2,500.

Carson Receives Approval to Rent 300 Houses Here

unreasonably priced or structurally inadequate.

Leasing is authorized when adequate private rental housing is available and when rent being paid by eligible personnel, exclusive of utilities, exceeds their basic allowance for quarters by more than 10 per cent. Both of these conditions are met in the Colorado Springs area.

The statute which authorizes this leasing stipulates that the rent per unit will not exceed $150 per month. The Department of Defense has determined that the total cost for each unit to include rent, utilities and other operating coss will not exceed an average of $170 per month.

Utilities may be part of the lease or may be paid separately according to the agreement reached by the owner and the Omaha District Engineers.

If utilities are not a part of the contract, the Army will pay for heat, water, electricity, gas, sewage disposal and refuse collection, providing these costs plus the rent are not in excess of $170 average per month.

Approximately five per cent of the total houses leased will be one bedroom units, ten per cent two-bedroom units, seventy per cent three-bedroom units and fifteen per cent four bedrooms or more.

Priority will be given to leasing any adequate housing held by the Federal Housing Administration if at least a two-year lease can be obtained.

The appraisal of all houses and the determination of all prices will be made by the Omaha District Engineers.

The rate fixed by the Omaha District Engineers for an individual house will be in accordance with the value of the house on the local market.

For instance, the Army will lease a one bedroom house for less than it will rent a comparably aged and decorated three bedroom house. In no case, however, will the $150 rent limitation or the $170 rent with utilities be disregarded.

The Ft. Carson program will be administered by the director of family housing in conjunction with personnel from the Omaha District Engineer office. Initially these personnel will have joint offices with housing personnel of the Army Air Defense Command located in the Carl Building.

Careful consideration will be given to managing the acquisition of leases in such a way as to obviate inflationary tendencies in the local housing market.

All appraisals will be made and all prices fixed by the Omaha District Engineers and houses will be leased only if they constitute economic values.

While the Army is not seeking bargains, neither will it pay more than the rate determined by the local market. The inventory will be completed over a substantial period of time so that artificial inflationary propensities will not develop in the local economy.

Persons having housing units they wish to lease may contact the downtown office, which will be maintained in the Carl Building, 1220 East Bijou, or call 635-8911, exts. 6461, 6462 or 6433.

For the convenience of military personnel stationed at Ft. Carson, the office of the Director of family housing is located in Bldg. 8050, F Ft. Carson, 632-4644 ext. 8215.

Macy's Says Will Boycott New York Post

Mrs. Schiff's defection, but pledged to stand firm against the striking AFL-CIO International Typographical Union.

When the strike was only 10 days old last December, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz warned the deadlock could continue into March. Friday, his foreboding proved correct as the 12th week of the walkout came to a close.

Mrs. Schiff's paper was one of five that closed voluntarily after the ITU printers struck the other four Dec. 8. In announcing Thursday that she would resume publication, she said, "The strike has gone on long enough."

Printers returned to the Post under terms of their old contract. A new contract was to be worked out in individual bargaining between the Post and the union.

Mrs. Schiff resigned from the Publishers Association of New York City, which had been bargaining for all of the nine major dailies.

lations with its other allies, particularly the United States.

The opposition Socialists, who control four of the 10 states, sought to write safeguards to this effect into the body of the treaty. It lost out to Adenauer's Christian Democrats on straight party line votes.

The Socialist mayor of the city-state of Hamburg, Paul Neverman, openly accused Adenauer of trying to make the treaty look harmless by treating it as a mere expression of friendship. He and his party demanded that similar treaties be offered to all other European Common Market nations, plus Britain, to avoid a special Bonn-Paris alliance.

The treaty calls for the leaders of France and West Germany to meet frequently for consultations on common policies in foreign affairs, defense and culture.

The Soviet Union and the Communist bloc have condemned the treaty as the formation of a warlike axis in Europe. Some Western leaders have expressed misgivings over it, especially in the light of De Gaulle's opposition to Britain's membership in the Common Market and U.S. leadership in the defense of Europe.

For Daytime Saturday High Temperatures Expected

WEATHER FORECAST—Scattered light snow or snow flurries are predicted Saturday from the northeastern Plains through the upper Midwest and Great Lakes area into the mid-Atlantic states where rain is expected along the coast. Snow flurries are predicted in the higher elevations of the central and northern Rockies. Clear to partly cloudy skies are expected elsewhere with a continuing warming trend over the Mississippi valley and southern Plains. (AP Wirephoto Map)

in and around Shelbyville, Ind., after more than eight inches of snow accumulated.

Robinson, Ill., had 8.5 inches of snow while communities in surrounding counties reported two inches or less.

Cities along U.S. 50 in Southern Illinois had up to five inches of snow. In some places it blended with freezing rain to create dangerous motoring conditions.

Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, had four inches of snow.

Warnings of heavy snow and hazardous driving weather went out to sections of Indiana and Ohio, Northern Kentucky, Western and Northern Pennsylvania, Upstate New York and most of New England.

March entered like a lamb in much of the country. But it came in like a lion in many areas in the northeastern quarter and in sections of the South.

Heavy rain hit some districts in the lower Mississippi Valley amid scattered lightning and thunder.

Temperatures dropped below zero early in the day in some northern states. Among the readings: Lone Rock, Wis., -16, Caribou, Maine, 14, and Traverse City Mich., -3.

The Weather Bureau issued a corrected 30-day outlook. The outlook, as distributed Thursday, predicted well below normal cold from the Mississippi to the Atlantic.

But the bureau said Friday that March temperatures in the eastern half of the country will average 10 to 15 degrees higher than in February.

"However," it added, "temperatures are expected to average somewhat below seasonal normals over the northeastern quadrant and also in the far Southwest. Above normal temperatures are indicated for the West Coast states and also for the Northern and Central Plains."

Traveling Particle Causes Shower

earth's atmosphere must have come from a much more active galaxy than our own, because of its enormous power.

When it crashed into the earth's air blanket, it struck the nucleus of an atom of the air—and the resulting atomic debris grew by a sort of chain reaction into a shower of high-speed atomic particles.

The cosmic ray shower covered an area of several square miles, bombarding the mesa for only an instant—but long enough to be recorded.

Earth scientists accelerate protons in their huge atom smashing devices. The new Brookhaven National Laboratory synchotron can accelerate protons to 30 billion electron volts over its half-mile track.

But the atomic nucleus from outer space—probably the nucleus of hydrogen atom—had three billion times as much energy as the Brookhaven synchotron could produce.

A man-made synchotron that could produce that powerful a particle would have to be as large as the earth's orbit around the sun.

often boils down to a problem of semantics which can destroy the progressive movement of cities.

"Before anything can be done you must have a common goal. The people must agree there is a thing to do and then must agree that it is worth doing," Blomquist said.

He listed three steps for successful municipal planning and development: 1. Establish a policy or goal; 2. Fabricate the plans; 3. Implement the program.

"And remember people can accomplish things if they band together in a common bond," he said. "It is the citizen who makes the final decision and the citizen who has the wisdom."

He said that a planning organization should never attempt to tell the people what they want and commented, "Our plan in Pueblo is what the people want."

Warner echoed Blomquist in pointing to a half-million downtown improvement project now underway in Grand Junction.

"If you've got a dream of a beautiful city, you've got to sell it and the people will sell it for you," he said.

He illustrated this point during a slide-commentary presenting the problems facing the downtown area of Grand Junction and would be done to solve them.

"We produced this slide presentation for $19 and it sold a half-million dollar project," Warner said.

The slides and the accompanying recorded narration showed the problems facing businessmen in Grand Junction in regards to parking, traffic and pedestrian safety. It also pointed up the need for a more attractive area.

The solution, with the city of Grand Junction paying slightly more than $100,000 for the project, included new drainage systems and a renovation of streets and sidewalks. Future plans call for beautification of the area.

"We showed this program first to the businessmen involved. Later we showed it wherever we could get three people together," Warner said. "More than 50 organizations saw this plan and they sold it."

He explained that by the time the city planners approached the businessmen to see if they would go along with the project, the citizens had already talked to them and pointed out the necessity for the program.

"The planner can come up with beautiful pictures and excellent plans but that's all it will remain unless the people are behind it," Warner said. "We had a citizens committee and they worked 15 months on the plans before we presented it to the public for approval."

Warner represented Joe M. Lacy, city manager of Grand Junction, who was to make the address but was unable to appear.

had paid all of this fee with the exception of $180.

Mollenkopf made a brief statement to the presiding judge, David W. Enoch, most of which was inaudible, tho he was heard to say he had been "too easily influenced and would like to prove to the judge and those who had spoke on his behalf earlier that he could stay out of trouble."

Before passing sentence Judge Enoch pointed out that the defendant had signed an affidavit stating that he had no assets. "Do you own a 1955 Ford," he asked? Mollenkopf replied he did. He put approximately $500 value on it. The automobile also had what was described as "a special engine." The "special engine" was a Thunderbird engine.

Mollenkopf said that since he had been released on bond he had been making monthly payments of $32 towards the vehicle together with $25 a week to his bondsman.

Judge Enoch said "You took an oath that you could not employ your own attorney." "At that time I could not," the defendant answered. "And yet, continued the judge, "you've been paying off a mortgage and a bondsman while the people pay for your attorney. You can understand why the court is going to order you to pay your attorney's fees."

Turning to Mollenkopf's past record Judge Enoch went on, "Your problem is not as simple as some of your good witnesses would believe. I am not sure that many of them know your past. You know it and the court knows it."

The judge said that in 1960 the defendant received one year suspended out of County Court, that he had been placed on probation out of Pueblo and that when he was arrested for the present offense he was on probation for a previous violation of the law. "You've had at least three second chances," said Judge Enoch.

"The present offense you are charged with is a menace to yourself, to your health and to the community and is worse than any of the others." Mollenkopf was then sentenced to two to four years in the penitentiary and given the $100 suspended fine.

Driver Injured As Car Skids Into Power Pole

A car traveling at a high rate of speed on West Colorado Avenue Friday skidded and slammed into a power pole injuring the driver and causing an estimated $1190 damages.

State Patrolman Lloyd Carothers reported the accident occurred at 33rd Street and West Colorado Avenue, when Patrick M. Dillon, 32, of 2229 Hagerman St., lost control of his Westbound car which skidded some 311 feet before striking the pole.

Dillion was thrown clear out of the car as it went into a spin after striking the pole. He received contusions and abrasions of the head and body, and was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E & E Ambulance.

Patrolman Caothers said that the Dillon car, after striking the pole, caused additional damages to two nearby business establishments before coming to a halt.

These were identified as Western Auto Sales, 3305 W. Colorado Ave., $200 damages, and Foothills Shamrock Service Station, 3313 W. Colorado Ave., $50 damages.

Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Colorado Springs Utilities Co. listed power pole and broken cable damages at $300 and $40 respectively.

The car involved in the accident was declared a total loss.

Money Taken In Burglary Of Company

An office supply house was broken into, its safe forcibly opened, and an un-estimated sum of money stolen, it was reported to city police Friday.

Police said the burglary occurred at the Democrat Publishing Co., 516 N. Tejon, sometime between 5:30 p.m. Thursday and 8:05 a.m. Friday.

Entry was gained, police said, by prying apart the front doors of the supply house. The company's metal safe was found with its door hinges removed and one side completely rolled back.

Papers were found strewn about the office, but there was no other damage to the business establishment, police said.

Smith Sentencing Delayed Because Lawyer Is Busy

Woodrow Wilson Smith, who pleaded guilty Jan. 26 to indecent liberties charges, Friday appeared in El Paso County District Court for sentencing but the case was continued by Judge David W. Enoch.

Allen Asher, attorney for Smith, also is Colorado Springs municipal judge and was unable to appear at the Friday hearing, so Enoch continued the case.

Smith, 49, of 516 W. Uintah St. is accused of making an indecent attack upon a seven-year old girl, Dec. 27.

Other cases continued included Robert E. Zeidler. Zeidler, 35, of 2119 N. El Paso St. pleaded guilty to no account check. March 29 was set as the date for pre-sentence investigation. He appeared with counsel William Rhodes.

The defendant is alleged to have given a $20 check Dec. 5 to Millers Super Markets Inc.

Four other cases were continued for arraignment. Among them was Gary Gene Daugherty facing a charge of larceny from a motor vehicle.

Daugherty, 18, of 2321 Howbert St. was represented by lawyer Bob Laura. The defendant is alleged to have stolen a quantity of tools worth $500 belonging to Barnett Diamond.

Laura told the judge that he had only been appointed this week and his request for further time to study the case was granted. Daugherty will re-appear March 8 for arraignment.

Georgene Sherrill also known as Georgene Warren will be arraigned also March 8 as her attorney, Jack Agee was not present.

Mrs. Warren, 22, of 14 Waltham Ave. is charged with forgery. Information states she gave a forged $20 check to Empire Super Markets Inc. Jan. 31.

Nancy Lee O'Neil, also represented by Agee, and accused of forgery, had the arraignment continued to March 8 for the same reason.

Miss O'Neil, 22, of 14 Waltham Ave. is alleged to have forged a check for $13.32 and given it to Safeways Stores Inc. Jan. 31.

Priscilla Dorothy Sanchez, 18, of 17 W. Costilla St. charged with simple robbery had the arraignment date continued to March 8 to enable counsel Bill Goodbar to study the case further.

Information states she robbed Harold Wesley Rogers of $63, Feb. 21. Two other persons have been charged separately with the same offense but have not yet appeared for arraignment. They are Obide Williams, 26, of 702 E. Dale St., and Pauline Marie Gallegos also known as Pauline Marie Williams, 20, of 17 W. Costilla St.

Red China Says Nikita's Talks Are 'Drivel'

father of Soviet communism, in a renewed effort to convince the Kremlin that war is inevitable unless communism is established throughout the world.

The blast came in the second instalment of a 100,000-word article in the magazine Red Flag.

The first instalment published Thursday charged the Soviet-bloc leaders were "cowardly as mice" for following a policy of peaceful-coexistence with the United States and its Western allies, who, it said, were mere "paper tigers" deserving nothing but contempt.

Friday's blast, broadcast by Peking Radio and monitored in Tokyo, ostensibly was directed at Italian Communist party chief Palmiro Togliatti. But in fact it was China's strongest condemnation to date of Khrushchev's policies.

The article, quoting statements by Chinese party leader Mao Tse-Tung and Lenin, immediately launched into a defense of China's contention that wars are inevitable as long as capitalism thrives.

It said there can be no peaceful coexistence between the Communist and capitalist worlds, as Khrushchev had contended, and attacked Togliatti for suggesting that the Communist bloc follow a policy of peaceful coexistence with Italy.

Bobby Says He Does Not Seek Presidency

have been bouncing around in Washington recently.

He said it is completely ridiculous and untrue that he might become his brother's secretary of state, with Dean Rusk moving to the United Nations as ambassador and Adlai E. Stevenson moving out in the political cold.

As to whether he is being groomed for a run at the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination, Kennedy's words were: "Absolutely no. I don't even think about being president. I know that may sound funny to some people, but that's the truth."

With respect to his unusual role of presidential adviser, Kennedy had this to say: "It try to do the best job I can running the Department of Justice as attorney general. It's a very important job. Sure, the President gets my advice on maters outside the department, just as he does from lots of others. But he weighs it, just as he does the advice of others, and then makes the decisions himself."

The reaction to all of this among Democrats ranged from head-scratching puzzlement to acceptance of Kennedy's statements at their face value.

Republicans naturally refused to go along with the assumption that President Kennedy would win re-election in 1964, thus clearing the way for a possible run four years later by his brother.

How to Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

(© 1963: By the Chicago Tribune)

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

DEPRESSION AFTER DELIVERY

Some women become emotionally disturbed following the birth of their first child. The adjustments needed in social and family relationships, along with the unaccustomed demands of infant care, are too much for her. Depression, anxiety, and fatigue are the usual manifestations.

But most women have enough emotional stability, motivation, and confidence to care for the newborn adequately. Sympathetic understanding and reassurance by husband and family also help.

Ultimately, the postpartum blues disappear and the young mother takes over her responsibilities as though nothing had happened. A few are not so fortunate and go on to develop a more serious psychiatric disturbance. This often escapes detection until it has become well established. The condition is suspected when the woman becomes increasingly sleepless, irritable, restless, and depressed.

In time, she becomes more and more confused, suspicious of others, and overly concerned over trivial matters. Nothing she does is right and suggestions usually go unheeded. The last stage is a full-blown psychosis in which she becomes extremely depressed, riddled with fears and suspicions; delusions and hallucinations may ensue. Institutional care may be needed to bring her back to reality.

An inherent weakness is responsible, particularly in young women who have been sheltered throughout life and feel insecure and inadequate after the baby arrives. Others are too aggressive and outgoing to accept the responsibilities of motherhood and subconsciously resent the loss of their independence.

The poorly organized mother is another candidate for post-partum psychosis. She needs advice on the care of the baby, the number of hours she ought to work, and the necessity for outside activities. The husband ought to realize that he also is responsible for the child's care and should share this duty with his wife.

An ounce of prevention goes a long way. The cause of this type of mental illness is not known. But if allowed to grow worse, the mother is likely to be separated from the family for a long time while undergoing treatment.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Pirates Clinch Crown By Defeating Raiders

St. Mary's efficient Pirates brought the local school its first Denver Parochial League basketball title Friday night and Coach Ed Murphy's green-clad Bucs could not have planned the occasion better if they had ordered it.

The unwilling victim in the final title-clinching contest was Denver Regis, a team that has been a Pirate nemesis as long as the Springs' school has been in the DPL. It was the Raiders who knocked St. Mary's out of the conference title a year ago and later defeated the Pirates in the finals of the state tournament. Friday Regis was simply another obsticle which the Bucs carefully removed from their path, 54-48.

St. Mary's now winds up the regular season in a final home appearance against Cathedral Sunday. As far as the DPL standings are concerned, that one is strictly anti-climax. The Pirates own a two game lead and there is no possibility that they can be overhauled.

Following the Sunday job, they move on to Denver next Friday for the start of the three-day State Parochial Tournament. The DPL championship assures the Pirates of top-seeding and the favorite's role in that affair.

Friday, as has often been the case this season, it was the outstanding work of 6-7 post man, John O'Connell, that flattened the Raiders. O'Connell whipped down the key to tally 29 points, also pulled off 17 of St. Mary's 33 rebounds.

Otherwise, no one reached double figures but all the starters had a hand in the fun. Rich Jewett hit eight points while Steve Rome and Jim Gillespie had seven apiece. Gillespie also captured seven rebounds.

The Pirates turned in their usual efficient performance in key area, outrebounding the tall Raiders, 33-24, and shooting a fine 41 per cent from the floor.

St. Mary's grabbed a narrow first quarter lead and nursed a one point 11-10 advantage at the first break. A second qarter, spurt led by the powerful O'Connell, opened the halftime margin to 32-24, however, as the team had a 21 point period, a rare occurance against the stout defenses of Regis.

The Raiders could not cut into the advantage after halftime ant St Mary's left the floor at the end of three quarters with a fairly safe 43-34 lead. Regis trimmed the margin by three points in the final period but it was not enough.

Lantz Leads Spartans by Widefield

Two-time Pikes Peak League kingpins Salida romped over Widefield, 63-42, to snatch their third consecutive title on the Spartans' home court Friday night.

Don Schmidli's Spartans led thruout the contest from the opening minutes of play as tall and talented David Lantz raked in 21 points and 28 rebounds.

The Salida crew took a deep breath after Cheyenne Mountain knocked highly regarded Harrison from the top ranks of the PPL Friday night on the Indians' home court, 56-38. This automatically presented the Salida quintet with the loop laurels without a play-off game for the PPL title against Harrison. Had the Panthers won their contest, the Spartans would be faced with playing the Harrison team for the PPL championship Monday night on a neutral floor.

Mick Rieher proved the most successful Widefield gunner as he pumped home 13 points while the Gladiators' most prolific scorer, Rusty Wasinger, was stifled to nine points.

Altho the Gladiators had better than an equal opportunity to square themselves at the charity lanes, they only connected on eight of 21 attempts while the home team cashed in seven of 11 attempts.

The Spartans' 6-5 forward exploded from the floor as Dave Lantz poured in 10 field goals and picked up one free throw from his 21 point effort. Lynn Bevington was the second highest scorer for the PPL champions with 13 points while teammate Dean Champlin scored 11.

Drew Aspegren and Champlin each collected 17 rebounds as the Salida team controlled the backboards.

Miller Ties League Record In First Big Eight Start

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Nebraska and Missouri turned the 35th Big Eight indoor track meet into a two-team race by dominating the qualifying events Friday night while defending champion Kansas fell by the wayside.

The Cornhuskers, seeking their first crown since 1951, qualified 12 men for Saturday night's finals in eight events. Missouri qualified 10. Both squads lived up to expectations in the prelims, but Nebraska suffered a reversal in the broad jump, the only completed event.

Oklahoma State's Charles Strong, the defending champion, won the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet 6 inches, just three inches off the meet record. Nebraska's Rudy Johnson picked up fifth place and the Huskers' Victor Brooks did not place.

The Cornhuskers figured to score six or seven points in that event. Strong, also defending 440 champ and co-recordholder, had the best qualifying time at 50.4 seconds.

One meet record was tied. Ray Knaub of Nebraska and Jim Miller, Colorado sophomore, had the best time of 6.7 seconds in the low hurdles, a standard held by four men.

Colorado qualified seven men, Oklahoma six, Kansas five, Oklahoma State and Iowa State three each, and Kansas State two.

Nebraska held or shared three best times in the eight events, Missouri was best in three. Missouri's Gregory Pelster, the recordholder in the 600-yard run, qualified in that event and in the 880.

Nebraska qualified Mike Fleming, Big Eight outdoor mile champion, in the 1,000-yard run, but Pat McNeal of Kansas State won the other heat in 2:15.3 and may cut into Huskers' strength here.

McNeal was expected to run only in the mile.

Knaub and Charles Allen of Missouri tied for the best time in the dash at 6.2 seconds, one-tenth second off the meet record.

Kansas hopes suffered as Gale Sayers, all-conference football halfback, was beaten in the semifinals of the dash and low hurdles. Sayers had been unbeaten in both events this season. Bill Chambers of Kansas failed to qualify in the high hurdles.

Kansas was credited with 12 points in the dash and two hurdles events in the pre-meet form chart which showed Nebraska on top, Missouri a close second and Kansas a close third. Instead, the Jayhawks blanked all three events.

Birds Lose Heartbreaker

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Destiny walked out the door of the Palmer Gymnasium Friday night carrying with it Wasson's shattered South Central League title hopes and the long dreamed-of trip to the Class AAA state tournament.

The Thunderbirds, who have courted misfortune thru a bitterly disappointing league campaign, Friday saw another spurt of recklessness and a fantastic last second shot by Trinidad's Jim Toupal dash their hopes, 65-63, and all but hand the blazing Miners a title for which few had dreamed they would seriously contend.

Aside from the T-Birds season-long refusal to protect a lead, it was simply a matter of unbelievable hard luck. Wasson has now suffered four league losses by a total of nine points, one in an overtime and another where the team was beaten by a last-second shot from near midcourt.

None was any more fantastic than Friday's. After a long and bitter struggle thru three quarters, the 'Birds had seemingly cracked open the door to success by streaking to a nine point margin with 5:52 left. They still led by seven with three minutes to go and by five with two minutes. But the determined Miners missed only one shot in the final three minutes of play, effectively stalled away the final 1:30 after the score had been tied, and then prevailed as Toupal literally flung the ball in the goal in a desperation attempt from the southeast corner of the floor.

The loss left Wasson with only one faint hope of gaining the state tournament and completely wiped out any further chance at the league title. For the T-Birds to gain the playoffs, South would have to lose to Palmer tonight and then in turn defeat Central next week while Wasson was defeating Grand Junction. That turn of events would bring about a three-way tie for second in the final standings but at this point it appears fairly inconceivable.

Trinidad's performance Friday was astounding for a team which had previously been noted as a poor competitor on the road. The Miners kept the contest fist-tight during the first half by boasting a commanding edge on the backboards. Thru those two quarters of play the Thunderbirds managed only two offensive rebounds while toothpick-thin Mike Vecchio was hauling down more than the entire Wasson team combined.

The majority of the offensive show was a duel between two of the SCL's outstanding starts, Darrell Greene of Wasson and Toupal. Green, with another brilliant serving of twisting drives and aggresiveness around the goal, dumped in 28 points. Toupal, equally effective in all areas of play, hit 27. Karl Tait, who picked up only two first half field goals, came on in the final two quarters to finish with 16 and and Bob Stanley had his best output of the year with 11.

Trinidad led briefly at 3-2 in the early minutes but Wasson, with the dauntless Greene hitting three straight goals, streaked ahead at 8-3 and led by from four to six points thru the remainder of the period. A fast close by Trinidad on goals by Vecchio and Toupal cut the margin to 17-15 at the first break.

Jim Mangino gave the Miners a tie shortly after the second quarter got underway and Vecchio then boosted the visitors into a 19-17 lead. Tait then hit his first goal and Green followed with a free toss as the Thunderbirds once again moved out. Another goal by Tait and three free throws by Greene advanced the lead to 25-19 with 6:04 left in the period but Trinidad quickly closed and took over once again at 26-25. The lead seesawed from that point with Stanley giving Wasson a 31-30 halftime margin on a jumper from the side with 10 seconds left.

Vecchio picked up his fourth foul early in the third period and retired to the bench, seriously crippling Trinidad's backborad game. But the Miners kept the pace slowed and never fell further than four points back thruout the quarter.

Wasson carried a 51-48 lead into the final period and suddenly appeared on the verge of cracking the contest open. Greene, Vic Shelton, and Tait hit consecutive goals to spread the margin to 57-48. Toupal began to cut into it with two free throws, the first of 11 points he was to score in the final going.

The Thunderbirds toyed with a stall game for a brief 30 second period but scraped that strategy when the first visible avenue to the goal appeared. That decision gave Trinidad its chance. The Miners pulled within three points at 61-58 with 2:15 left but Tait gave Wasson a five point bulge with two free tosses with 2:01 remaining. Mangino then flopped in a shot from 30 feet to bring the Miners within 63-60 with 1:40 to go and when Wasson quickly shot on the return trip downfloor, Trinidad grabbed the rebound and Toupal coverted a three point play to tie the score with 1:34 to go.

The Miners then called time out and afterwards cautiously stalled the ball until Jost went up with a shot from the head of the key with six seconds left. It caromed crazily off the rim to Toupal in the corner and the Trinidad star flipped it goalward as the clock ticked off the final second.

It would have been an ending almost too fantastic to swallow if the Thunderbirds hadn't seen it before.

McPherson Wins Figure Skating Title

CORTINA, Italy (AP) — Young Don McPherson of Canada turned in a brilliant free skating exhibition and won the men's singles title Friday night in the World Figure Skating Championships.

McPherson, 17, was fourth in a field of 19 after the six compulsory school figures, but leaped to the title with his outstanding free skating performance in cold, clear weather at the outdoor Olympic Ice Stadium.

He succeeds countryman Don Jackson, who turned professional after winning the 1962 title in Prague.

McPherson, who was judged second only to Jackson in last year's free skating, turned in a near-perfect performance in his specialty in winning.

The Canadian and North American champion received marks ranging from 5.7 to 5.9 for artistic impression from the nine judges. A score of 6.0 is perfect.

McPherson finished with 2,219.8 points on the complicated point system. European champion Alain Calmat of France was second with 2,214.1.

Manfred Schnelldorfer of West Germany, who led the field after the school figures but fell twice during his free-skating performance, was third with 2,203.9.

Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J., a 14-year-old who is the youngest to represent the U.S. in a world meet, was fifth with 2,168.8 points, trailing Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia who had 2,179.

Monty Hoyt of Denver, the United States' other entrant, finished 11th with 2,044.1 points.

Meanwhile, Skoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands took an early lead in defense of her women's singles crown and a gifted British team forged to the front at the halfway point of the ice dance competition.

Lorraine Hanlon of Boston, the U.S. champion, was seventh in the women's skating after two of the six compulsory figures. Karen Howland of Seattle was eighth and Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, Colo., was 14th.

The final four compulsory figures for the ladies will be run off Saturday before the climactic free skating competition.

In the ice dance, which also will be completed with the free-style routines Saturday, U.S. teams were seventh, eighth and ninth.

Linda Shearman and Michael Phillips of Britain took a slight lead over defending champions Eva and Pavel Roman of Czechoslovakia in the ice dance with 190.1 total points and 13 ordinals to 187.6 points and 18.5 ordinals for the Czechs.

The total points are the aggregate of the scores given by the nine judges but are used only in breaking ties. The standings are determined on the judges' placements, with the lowest ordinals normally but not necessarily the winner.

Paulette Doan and Kenneth Ormsby of Canada are third in the ice dance with 185.7 points and 26.5 ordinals.

Sally Schantz, 19, of Boston and Stan Urban, 17, of Buffalo, N.Y., were seventh with 172.3 and 66.5. Then followed Lorna Dyer, 17, and John Carrell, 16, of Seattle, Wash., with 169 and 77.5 for eighth place and Yvonne Littlefield, 17, and Peter Betts, 26, of Los Angeles, with 167.9 and 80 for ninth.

In the women's singles, Miss Dijkstra had a total of 340 points, well ahead of Regina Heitzer of Austria, 326.4.

Two Canadians—Wendy Grinder and Petra Burka—were in third and fourth place, respectively, with 316.4 and 308.4 points.

Miss Hanlon's score was 302 which gave her eventh place. Miss Howland was close behind at 298.8. Miss Haigler had 288.

CC Icers Out of Playoffs After 6-3 Defeat by Tech

HOUGHTON, MICH.— Colorado College dropped completely out of the running for one of the four slots in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs here Friday night on a 6-3 defeat by host Michigan Tech. The Huskies, via the victory, clinched fourth place in the final standings and now will meet Denver University in the two-game playoffs next weekend at Denver.

Tech exploded for four goals to break loose from a tight game in the third and final period of action. The win gave the Huskies a 10-7-2 league record and CC now stands at 6-9 in the WCHA – without a chance of catching up even should the Tigers spring the upset tonight in the season's finale here.

Colorado College jumped to a 3-2 lead in the first period on goals by sophomore Warren Fordyce, Jeff Sauer and the team's leading scorer, Art Berglund. Al Holm and George Hill each scored for the Huskies.

The teams both went scoreless in the second stanza.

Then Michigan Tech broke the game open on goals authored by John Ivanitz, Fred Dart, Roy Heino and Gene Rebellato in the final frame. The tallies by Heino and Rebellato came only eight seconds apart midway thru the period.

In other action, Denver gained the league title altho the Pioneers finished their WCHA play last week with a split against this same Michigan Tech team. The title was handed to DU when North Dakota could gain only a 2-2 tie with Michigan University, the tail-ender, at Grand Forks, N. D.

The champs, meanwhile, lost a non-league game to the Warroad Lakers, 6-3, in Denver.

Tigers Gain Season's Third Win With 68-65 Thriller Over Greeley

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Don't faint, fans. But Colorado College has won its third game of the year!

It hardly puts the Tigers in position to threaten for national honors or even a contending position in the often zany Rocky Mountain Conference. But after 21 defeats, each mark in the victory column for Coach Red Eastlack's Bengals calls for some sort of celebration.

The 68-65 margin didn't give CC too much breathing room in the end, but should they come thru with another small miracle in tonight's season finale at ancient Cossitt Hall perhaps the sedate school officials could call some sort of holiday — at least for the 200 of so loyals who have suffered along to the finish with the Tigers.

Tonight's contest at 8 will also be the final game for Colorado State College's coach John Bunn, who is reported to be retiring after this season. He had devoted 40 years to coaching at CSC but now comes under the manditory retirement rule of the school at 65 years of age.

It's rather an inglorious finish for the grey CSC mentor as his Bears now own only seven victories in 15 league games and nine wins in 24 contests over the season. Without a doubt, however, the Tigers would like to add one more defeat to that record.

If it's any consolation to the CC following, which was dwindled to but a handful with the dismal record, only one regular from Eastlack's squad will be seeing final action tonight. That's Gregg Smith, a 5-10 guard from Canon City, who paced the attack in Friday night's victory with 22 points.

Colorado College had to ward off a full-court press by the Bears which saw a lead of as much as 10 points melt in the second half for the victory. And in the final minutes the Tigers went completely cold from the free throw line to all but offer CSC the game.

The Bears climbed to within one point, 60-59, with six minutes remaining and then freshman Pete Susmihl gave the Bengals an uneasy cushion of three with his only bucket of the game. But for the next four minutes CC paraded to the charity line 10 times, under the pressure of the defensive press, and they could cash in on only two of these attempts.

But the Tigers finally came out of the cold when they needed it the most and Susemihl hit two more free throws and Bob Heiny and Phil Hart both chipped in with two more.

It made for an exciting finish, with CSC pulling to within two points when Ben Graefe ripped thru a 40-footer with 38 seconds remaining. And then the visiting team from Greeley gained possession again with 15 seconds left. This time Lady Luck smiled on the Tigers, however, and CSC's Roger Arthur was called on a walking violation before they could try another tying shot.

Hart, who was definitely having an off-night, came to the rescue with the final free throw to wrap it up with but five seconds on the clock.

The Tigers, who gained the lead with only six minutes gone in the game to hold it throut, saw their 10-point lead melt before the pressing tactics of the Bears. Hart canned his only two fielders' of the game to pull CC ahead by 57-47 with 10 minutes to go.

Then Bunn turned his Bears loose all over the court and the Tigers had more than their share of troubles crossing mid-court. The visitors climbed steadily to only a six-point deficit with 8:10 to go. And then after Susemihl found the range with a charity toss, big Charlie Williams connected with six straight free throws to bring on the 60-59 squeaker.

Other than Smith's game-leading total, if a hero had to be picked out from among the Tigers it would have to be junior college transfer Bob Heiny. Heiny had 16 points for the game and even more important he pulled down 14 big rebounds. Williams finished right behind Smith in the scoring column, pacing the Greeley five with 21 points. Jim Gilbert was the only other Bear in double figures, getting 14 markers.

Both teams were only mildly successful from the field with CC connecting of 26 of 67 shots for 38.8 per cent, while Colorado State hit 24 of 65 for 36.9 per cent. The Bears, however, were almost uncanny from the line as they missed but two of 19 free throw attempts.

At least at the scorer's table, tucked neatly into a big crack in the cozy Cossitt wall, there remained some doubt at the end whether the final score was correct or not. Some observers had two more points registered for Colorado State at the intermission — which undoubtedly would have made some difference in the strategy at the finish.

Salida Wins PPL Crown

Cheyenne Defeats Harrison

Cheyenne Mountain knocked Harrison from contention of the Pikes Peak League title Friday night, 56-38, and automatically presented Salida with their third straight PPL crown.

The Spartans won their encounter over Widefield, 63-42, to pick up their third successive loop crown in three years of participation in the PPL.

In other league action Friday night Academy High downed Florence, 51-50; and Fountain upset Manitou Springs 52-51. Leadville defeated Monte Vista, 64-56, in a non-league tilt.

Bill Raines, the loop's leading gunner, pumped home 19 points to spearhead the triumph over Harry Horton's Panthers on their home court. Teammates Jack O'Brien and Ronnie Graham added 13 and 11 points respectively to the Indians' winning cause.

Gene Ward's Cheyenne cagers jumped to an early lead in the first period as they bombarded their guests for a 13-8 margin. Altho the Panthers enjoyed a brief rally in the second period via 18 points, they were completed stifled in the latter half as the Indians only allowed them 10 points.

By intermission time both squad were within striking distance as the Cheyenne quintet only had a 29-26 advantage. But the Indians scored 12 points to the Panthers' five in the third period to build up a 10 point lead, 41-31. The Cheyenne squad put the finishing touches to the victory as they dumped in 15 points in the final period while their opponents could only muster five points.

Danny Gieck tallied 11 points for the Harrison crew whild teammate Fred Stephens collected 10.

The Indians enjoyed a successful trip to the charity lanes making good 20 of 32 attempts, but the Panthers had to settle for only six of 18 attempts.

Academy High's flashy John Julius led the Kadet victory as the all-conference guard poured in 21 points. Kadet Hank Arnold snapped a scoring slump and tallied 13 points for the "Big Blue." Herb Woolsey rallied for 19 points while Florence's high scoring artist was contained to eight points.

Mike Dunn poured in 26 points to lead the Fountain crew over Manitou while the Mustangs' Tom Johnston hit for 17 points for a losing cause. Manitou's Jim Rigdon tallied for 15 points while Fountain's hottest scoring ace, Don Cockroft, was stifled to eight points.

Gib Salberg led the Leadville cage team over Monte Vista with his bombardments that tallied for 16 points.

Pirates Clinch Crown By Defeating Raiders

St. Mary's efficient Pirates brought the local school its first Denver Parochial League basketball title Friday night and Coach Ed Murphy's green - clad Bucs could not have planned the occasion better if they had ordered it.

The unwilling victim in the final title - clinching contest was Denver Regis, a team that has been a Pirate nemesis as long as the Springs' school has been in the DPL. It was the Raiders who knocked St. Mary's out of the conference title a year ago and later defeated the Pirates in the finals of the state tournament. Friday Regis was simply another obsticle which the Bucs carefully removed from their path, 54-48.

St. Mary's now winds up the regular season in a final home appearance against Cathedral Sunday. As far as the DPL standings are concerned, that one is strictly anti-climax. The Pirates own a two game lead and there is no possibility that they can be overhauled.

Following the Sunday job, they move on to Denver next Friday for the start of the three-day State Parochial Tournament. The DPL championship assures the Pirates of top-seeding and the favorite's role in that affair.

Friday, as has often been the case this season, it was the outstanding work of 6-7 post man, John O'Connell, that flattened the Raiders. O'Connell whipped down the key to tally 29 points, also pulled off 17 of St. Mary's 33 rebounds.

Otherwise, no one reached double figures but all the starters had a hand in the fun. Rich Jewett hit eight points while Steve Rome and Jim Gillespie had seven apiece. Gillespie also captured seven rebounds.

The Pirates turned in their usual efficient performance in key area, outrebounding the tall Raiders, 33-24, and shooting a fine 41 per cent from the floor.

St. Mary's grabbed a narrow first quarter lead and nursed a one point 11-10 advantage at the first break. A second qarter, spurt led by the powerful O'Connell, opened the halftime margin to 32-24, however, as the team had a 21 point period, a rare occurance against the stout defenses of Regis.

The Raiders could not cut into the advantage after halftime ant St Mary's left the floor at the end of three quarters with a fairly safe 43-34 lead. Regis trimmed the margin by three points in the final period but it was not enough.

Miller Ties League Record In First Big Eight Start

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Nebraska and Missouri turned the 35th Big Eight indoor track meet into a two-team race by dominating the qualifying events Friday night while defending champion Kansas fell by the wayside.

The Cornhuskers, seeking their first crown since 1951, qualified 12 men for Saturday night's finals in eight events. Missouri qualified 10. Both squads lived up to expectations in the prelims, but Nebraska suffered a reversal in the broad jump, the only completed event.

Oklahoma State's Charles Strong, the defending champion, won the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet 6 inches, just three inches off the meet record. Nebraska's Rudy Johnson picked up fifth place and the Huskers' Victor Brooks did not place.

The Cornhuskers figured to score six or seven points in that event. Strong, also defending 440 champ and co-recordholder, had the best qualifying time at 50.4 seconds.

One meet record was tied. Ray Knaub of Nebraska and Jim Miller, Colorado sophomore, had the best time of 6.7 seconds in the low hurdles, a standard held by four men.

Colorado qualified seven men, Oklahoma six, Kansas five, Oklahoma State and Iowa State three each, and Kansas State two.

Nebraska held or shared three best times in the eight events, Missouri was best in three. Missouri's Gregory Pelster, the recordholder in the 600-yard run, qualified in that event and in the 880.

Nebraska qualified Mike Fleming, Big Eight outdoor mile champion, in the 1,000-yard run, but Pat McNeal of Kansas State won the other heat in 2:15.3 and may cut into Huskers' strength here.

McNeal was expected to run only in the mile.

Knaub and Charles Allen of Missouri tied for the best time in the dash at 6.2 seconds, one-tenth second off the meet record.

Kansas hopes suffered as Gale Sayers, all - conference football halfback, was beaten in the semifinals of the dash and low hurdles. Sayers had been unbeaten in both events this season. Bill Chambers of Kansas failed to qualify in the high hurdles.

Kansas was credited with 12 points in the dash and two hurdles events in the pre-meet form chart which showed Nebraska on top, Missouri a close second and Kansas a close third. Instead, the Jayhawks blanked all three events.

Lantz Leads Spartans by Widefield

Two-time Pikes Peak League kingpins Salida romped over Widefield, 63-42, to snatch their third consecutive title on the Spartans' home court Friday night.

Don Schmidli's Spartans led thruout the contest from the opening minutes of play as tall and talented David Lantz raked in 21 points and 28 rebounds.

The Salida crew took a deep breath after Cheyenne Mountain knocked highly regarded Harrison from the top ranks of the PPL Friday night on the Indians' home court, 56-38. This automatically presented the Salida quintet with the loop laurels without a play-off game for the PPL title against Harrison. Had the Panthers won their contest, the Spartans would be faced with playing the Harrison team for the PPL championship Monday night on a neutral floor.

Mick Rieher proved the most successful Widefield gunner as he pumped home 13 points while the Gladiators' most prolific scorer, Rusty Wasinger, was stifled to nine points.

Altho the Gladiators had better than an equal opportunity to square themselves at the charity lanes, they only connected on eight of 21 attempts while the home team cashed in seven of 11 attempts.

The Spartans' 6-5 forward exploded from the floor as Dave Lantz poured in 10 field goals and picked up one free throw from his 21 point effort. Lynn Bevington was the second highest scorer for the PPL champions with 13 points while teammate Dean Champlin scored 11.

Drew Aspegren and Champlin each collected 17 rebounds as the Salida team controlled the backboards.

Birds Lose Heartbreaker

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Destiny walked out the door of the Palmer Gymnasium Friday night carrying with it Wasson's shattered South Central League title hopes and the long dreamed-of trip to the Class AAA state tournament.

The Thunderbirds, who have courted misfortune thru a bitterly disappointing league campaign, Friday saw another spurt of recklessness and a fantastic last second shot by Trinidad's Jim Toupal dash their hopes, 65-63, and all but hand the blazing Miners a title for which few had dreamed they would seriously contend.

Aside from the T-Birds season-long refusal to protect a lead, it was simply a matter of unbelievable hard luck. Wasson has now suffered four league losses by a total of nine points, one in an overtime and another where the team was beaten by a last-second shot from near midcourt.

None was any more fantastic than Friday's. After a long and bitter struggle thru three quarters, the 'Birds had seemingly cracked open the door to success by streaking to a nine point margin with 5:52 left. They still led by seven with three minutes to go and by five with two minutes. But the determined Miners missed only one shot in the final three minutes of play, effectively stalled away the final 1:30 after the score had been tied, and then prevailed as Toupal literally flung the ball in the goal in a desperation attempt from the southeast corner of the floor.

The loss left Wasson with only one faint hope of gaining the state tournament and completely wiped out any further chance at the league title. For the T-Birds to gain the playoffs, South would have to lose to Palmer tonight and then in turn defeat Central next week while Wasson was defeating Grand Junction. That turn of events would bring about a three-way tie for second in the final standings but at this point it appears fairly inconceivable.

Trinidad's performance Friday was astounding for a team which had previously been noted as a poor competitor on the road. The Miners kept the contest fist-tight during the first half by boasting a commanding edge on the backboards. Thru those two quarters of play the Thunderbirds managed only two offensive rebounds while toothpick-thin Mike Vecchio was hauling down more than the entire Wasson team combined.

The majority of the offensive show was a duel between two of the SCL's outstanding starts, Darrell Greene of Wasson and Toupal. Green, with another brilliant serving of twisting drives and aggressiveness around the goal, dumped in 28 points. Toupal, equally effective in all areas of play, hit 27. Karl Tait, who picked up only two first half field goals, came on in the final two quarters to finish with 16 and and Bob Stanley had his best output of the year with 11.

Trinidad led briefly at 3-2 in the early minutes but Wasson, with the dauntless Greene hitting three straight goals, streaked ahead at 8-3 and led by from four to six points thru the remainder of the period. A fast close by Trinidad on goals by Vecchio and Toupal cut the margin to 17-15 at the first break.

Jim Mangino gave the Miners a tie shortly after the second quarter got underway and Vecchio then boosted the visitors into a 19-17 lead. Tait then hit his first goal and Green followed with a free toss as the Thunderbirds once again moved out. Another goal by Tait and three free throws by Greene advanced the lead to 25-19 with 6:04 left in the period but Trinidad quickly closed and took over once again at 26-25. The lead seesawed from that point with Stanley giving Wasson a 31-30 halftime margin on a jumper from the side with 10 seconds left.

Vecchio picked up his fourth foul early in the third period and retired to the bench, seriously crippling Trinidad's backborad game. But the Miners kept the pace slowed and never fell further than four points back thruout the quarter.

Wasson carried a 51-48 lead into the final period and suddenly appeared on the verge of cracking the contest open. Greene, Vic Shelton, and Tait hit consecutive goals to spread the margin to 57-48. Toupal began to cut into it with two free throws, the first of 11 points he was to score in the final going.

The Thunderbirds toyed with a stall game for a brief 30 second period but scraped that strategy when the first visible avenue to the goal appeared. That decision gave Trinidad its chance. The Miners pulled within three points at 61-58 with 2:15 left but Tait gave Wasson a five point bulge with two free tosses with 2:01 remaining. Mangino then flopped in a shot from 30 feet to bring the Miners within 63-60 with 1:40 to go and when Wasson quickly shot on the return trip downfloor, Trinidad grabbed the rebound and Toupal coverted a three point play to tie the score with 1:34 to go.

The Miners then called time out and afterwards cautiously stalled the ball until Jost went up with a shot from the head of the key with six seconds left. It caromed crazily off the rim to Toupal in the corner and the Trinidad star flipped it goalward as the clock ticked off the final second.

It would have been an ending almost too fantastic to swallow if the Thunderbirds hadn't seen it before.

McPherson Wins Figure Skating Title

CORTINA, Italy (AP) — Young Don McPherson of Canada turned in a brilliant free skating exhibition and won the men's singles title Friday night in the World Figure Skating Championships.

McPherson, 17, was fourth in a field of 19 after the six compulsory school figures, but leaped to the title with his outstanding free skating performance in cold, clear weather at the outdoor Olympic Ice Stadium.

He succeeds countryman Don Jackson, who turned professional after winning the 1962 title in Prague.

McPherson, who was judged second only to Jackson in last year's free skating, turned in a near-perfect performance in his specialty in winning.

The Canadian and North American champion received marks ranging from 5.7 to 5.9 for artistic impression from the nine judges. A score of 6.0 is perfect.

McPherson finished with 2,219.8 points on the complicated point system. European champion Alain Calmat of France was second with 2,214.1.

Manfred Schnelldorfer of West Germany, who led the field after the school figures but fell twice during his free-skating performance, was third with 2,203.9.

Scott Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J., a 14-year-old who is the youngest to represent the U.S. in a world meet, was fifth with 2,168.8 points, trailing Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia who had 2,179.

Monty Hoyt of Denver, the United States' other entrant, finished 11th with 2,044.1 points.

Meanwhile, Skoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands took an early lead in defense of her women's singles crown and a gifted British team forged to the front at the halfway point of the ice dance competition.

Lorraine Hanlon of Boston, the U.S. champion, was seventh in the women's skating after two of the six compulsory figures. Karen Howland of Seattle was eighth and Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, Colo., was 14th.

The final four compulsory figures for the ladies will be run off Saturday before the climactic free skating competition.

In the ice dance, which also will be completed with the free-style routines Saturday, U.S. teams were seventh, eighth and ninth.

Linda Shearman and Michael Phillips of Britain took a slight lead over defending champions Eva and Pavel Roman of Czechoslovakia in the ice dance with 190.1 total points and 13 ordinals to 187.6 points and 18.5 ordinals for the Czechs.

The total points are the aggregate of the scores given by the nine judges but are used only in breaking ties. The standings are determined on the judges' placements, with the lowest ordinals normally but not necessarily the winner.

Paulette Doan and Kenneth Ormsby of Canada are third in the ice dance with 185.7 points and 26.5 ordinals.

Sally Schantz, 19, of Boston and Stan Urban, 17, of Buffalo, N.Y., were seventh with 172.3 and 66.5. Then followed Lorna Dyer, 17, and John Carrell, 16, of Seattle, Wash., with 169 and 77.5 for eighth place and Yvonne Littlefield, 17, and Peter Betts, 26, of Los Angeles, with 167.9 and 80 for ninth.

In the women's singles, Miss Dijkstra had a total of 340 points, well ahead of Regina Heitzer of Austria, 326.4.

Two Canadians—Wendy Grinder and Petra Burka—were in third and fourth place, respectively, with 316.4 and 308.4 points.

Miss Hanlon's score was 302 which gave her eventh place. Miss Howland was close behind at 298.8. Miss Haigler had 288.

CC Icers Out of Playoffs After 6-3 Defeat by Tech

HOUGHTON, MICH.— Colorado College dropped completely out of the running for one of the four slots in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs here Friday night on a 6-3 defeat by host Michigan Tech. The Huskies, via the victory, clinched fourth place in the final standings and now will meet Denver University in the two-game playoffs next weekend at Denver.

Tech exploded for four goals to break loose from a tight game in the third and final period of action. The win gave the Huskies a 10-7-2 league record and CC now stands at 6-9 in the WCHA – without a chance of catching up even should the Tigers spring the upset tonight in the season's finale here.

Colorado College jumped to a 3-2 lead in the first period on goals by sophomore Warren Fordyce, Jeff Sauer and the team's leading scorer, Art Berglund. Al Holm and George Hill each scored for the Huskies.

The teams both went scoreless in the second stanza.

Then Michigan Tech broke the game open on goals authored by John Ivanitz, Fred Dart, Roy Heino and Gene Rebellato in the final frame. The tallies by Heino and Rebellato came only eight seconds apart midway thru the period.

In other action, Denver gained the league title altho the Pioneers finished their WCHA play last week with a split against this same Michigan Tech team. The title was handed to DU when North Dakota could gain only a 2-2 tie with Michigan University, the tail-ender, at Grand Forks, N. D.

The champs, meanwhile, lost a non-league game to the Warroad Lakers, 6-3, in Denver.

Tigers Gain Season's Third Win With 68-65 Thriller Over Greeley

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Don't faint, fans. But Colorado College has won its third game of the year!

It hardly puts the Tigers in position to threaten for national honors or even a contending position in the often zany Rocky Mountain Conference. But after 21 defeats, each mark in the victory column for Coach Red Eastlack's Bengals calls for some sort of celebration.

The 68-65 margin didn't give CC too much breathing room in the end, but should they come thru with another small miracle in tonight's season finale at ancient Cossitt Hall perhaps the sedate school officials could call some sort of holiday — at least for the 200 of so loyals who have suffered along to the finish with the Tigers.

Tonight's contest at 8 will also be the final game for Colorado State College's coach John Bunn, who is reported to be retiring after this season. He had devoted 40 years to coaching at CSC but now comes under the manditory retirement rule of the school at 65 years of age.

It's rather an inglorious finish for the grey CSC mentor as his Bears now own only seven victories in 15 league games and nine wins in 24 contests over the season. Without a doubt, however, the Tigers would like to add one more defeat to that record.

If it's any consolation to the CC following, which was dwindled to but a handful with the dismal record, only one regular from Eastlack's squad will be seeing final action tonight. That's Gregg Smith, a 5-10 guard from Canon City, who paced the attack in Friday night's victory with 22 points.

Colorado College had to ward off a full - court press by the Bears which saw a lead of as much as 10 points melt in the second half for the victory. And in the final minutes the Tigers went completely cold from the free throw line to all but offer CSC the game.

The Bears climbed to within one point, 60-59, with six minutes remaining and then freshman Pete Susmihl gave the Bengals an uneasy cushion of three with his only bucket of the game. But for the next four minutes CC paraded to the charity line 10 times, under the pressure of the defensive press, and they could cash in on only two of these attempts.

But the Tigers finally came out of the cold when they needed it the most and Susemihl hit two more free throws and Bob Heiny and Phil Hart both chipped in with two more.

It made for an exciting finish, with CSC pulling to within two points when Ben Graefe ripped thru a 40 - footer with 30 seconds remaining. And then the visiting team from Greeley gained possession again with 15 seconds left. This time Lady Luck smiled on the Tigers, however, and CSC's Roger Arthur was called on a walking violation before they could try another tying shot.

Hart, who was definitely having an off - night, came to the rescue with the final free throw to wrap it up with but five seconds on the clock.

The Tigers, who gained the lead with only six minutes gone in the game to hold it throut, saw their 10 - point lead melt before the pressing tactics of the Bears. Hart canned his only two fielders of the game to pull CC ahead by 57-47 with 10 minutes to go.

Then Bunn turned his Bears loose all over the court and the Tigers had more than their share of troubles crossing mid - court. The visitors climbed steadily to only a six - point deficit with 8:10 to go. And then after Susemihl found the range with a charity toss, big Charlie Williams connected with six straight free throws to bring on the 60-59 squeaker.

Other than Smith's game leading total, if a hero had to be picked out from among the Tigers it would have to be junior college transfer Bob Heiny. Heiny had 16 points for the game and even more important he pulled down 14 big rebounds. Williams finished right behind Smith in the scoring column, pacing the Greeley five with 21 points. Jim Gilbert was the only other Bear in double figures, getting 14 markers.

Both teams were only mildly successful from the field with CC connecting of 26 of 67 shots for 38.8 per cent, while Colorado State hit 24 of 65 for 36.9 per cent. The Bears, however, were almost uncanny from the line as they missed but two of 19 free throw attempts.

At least at the scorer's table, tucked neatly into a big crack in the cozy Cossitt wall, there remained some doubt at the end whether the final score was correct or not. Some observers had two more points registered for Colorado State at the intermission — which undoubtedly would have made some difference in the strategy at the finish.

Devilish Tribe Attempts Win Over Pueblo South

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer's devilish Terrors attempt to continue their late season form - reversal here tonight when they meet hot-shooting Pueblo South in a South Central League contest that could have definite bearing on the eventual outcome of the race.

TERROR REGULAR — Alan Snyder, junior guard of the Palmer Terrors, has been one of the team's steadiest players thruout the current campaign. Snyder played a key role in the Tribe's big 45-44 upset victory over Pueblo Central last Friday and will be trying to help the local team spring another surprise when the Terrors meet South in Pueblo at 8 p.m. tonight. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Even tho the Tribe is far-removed from the hot war that has been waging in the league's upper - division, the team has been playing with increasing effectiveness the past few weeks. Last Friday Palmer became the first of the second division teams to deviate from a season - long script and knock off a title contender, when the Terrors spilled Pueblo Central 45-44 in Colorado Springs, thus depriving the Wildcats of pulling into a first place tie.

Tonight's contest could carry much the same significance for South, depending on the outcome of Friday games. If Trinidad defeated Wasson Friday, South must win tonight to retain a chance to tie for the title. But if the Thunderbirds turned the tables on the Miners, South could pull alongside those teams in a first place tie entering the final week of play.

Palmer has expressed a desire to aid local rival Wasson where possible as the T-Birds battle for a state tournament berth in these closing weeks of the campaign. The Tribe made a big installment on that ambition last Friday by dumping Central and there's no secret that a follow - up victory over South would give the 'Birds another shot in the arm.

But aside from such neighborly interest, the Terrors have considerable personal pride involved in these late season skirmishes. Success was elusive during the early day of the campaign as Palmer lost eight of its first nine games and 10 of its first 12. Now the team has seemingly reversed that trend in winning four of the last five. An upset win over South would move the Terrors into a postition to really finish strong as they close out the season at home against sixth - place East next Friday.

Also of interest to the team is the fact that a win tonight would assure Palmer of no worse than a tie for fifth place in the final standings, a much higher berth than the Tribe appeared headed for in the early going.

Palmer blunted Central's touted offense with steady team defense and a fine blend of that poise that had been missing during the earlier loss streak. Ringleaders offensively were forwards Dave Steward and Walt Hylton. Encouraging to Coach Gerry Schroeder was the fact that the Terrors could defeat a club like Central while 6-4 post man, Bobby Joe Williams, was not having one of his good nights. Williams, troubled by the flue, had one of his poorer offensive games.

The Tribe will need all of the poise it can muster tonight if the hot-footed Colts are to be halted. South is one of the most difficult teams in the state to defense and it will be necessary for the Terrors to slow the pace to some extent if they are to turn an upset. Coach Bill Brown's team is famous for its reckless fast-break tactics and there are few clubs around that can shoot with the Colts if they are allowed free-rein.

There was question late this week as to the availability of South guard, Ron Schwab who fractured an index finger on his left hand in last week's game with East. If Schwab is out, Ron Hedrick will probably be moved out from a forward with Lanny Carlson filling in the gap underneath. Other South starters are veterans Jerry Jackson and Rich Reisner plus guard Rap Gottula.

Palmer's lineup will be the usual one with guards Jim Lindsey and Alan Snyder joining Williams, Hylton, and Steward.

Hot-Putting Bob Rosburg Leads New Orleans Tourney

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Hot-putting Bob Rosburg of Portland, Ore., fired five consecutive birdies Friday and carded a sizzling 67 to grab a one-stroke lead at the end of the first round of the $40,000 Greater New Orleans Invitational golf tournament.

Defending New Orleans champion Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City was second with a 68, followed by Dave Marr of New Rochelle, N.Y., at 69.

First place in the tournament is worth $6,400.

Rosburg started his round on the back nine, and he opened with birdies on the first five holes. That tied a PGA record for the season, and his 67 was the best round ever turned in from the pro tees on the windy Lakewood Country Club course.

Tied at 70 were leading money winner Gary Player of South Africa, Jerry Edwards of Fort Worth, Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Tex. and Bob Charles.

The only other pros to better the par 72 on the course were Paul Bondeson, Don Fairfield, John Langford, Ron Letellir, Claude King and Ed Furgol, all with 71's.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, the second and third leading money winners of the year, both had trouble with the 7,000-yard course and finished with two-over-par 74's.

SHOWBOAT OF THE 'TROTTERS—Bob (Showboat) Hall will lead the merry-makers of basketball, the famed Harlem Globetrotters, in the Colorado Springs City Auditorium this next Wednesday night. The 'Trotters, who have packed 'em in around the world, will meet the San Francisco All-Nations team. Several entertainment acts will also be presented, before the game and at halftime.

Globetrotters Perform Here Wednesday Night

It has been estimated that more than 35 - million people all over the world have seen the Harlem Globetrotter, who will be making their annual trek to the Colorado Springs' City Auditorium next Wednesday night, display their unusual brand of basketball mixed with humorous stunts. This year marks their 36th season of consecutive activity—and the above figure in attendance will be increased by another capacity crowd when these fabulous magicians of the court play the San Francisco All-Nations team.

Even tho many did not even understand the fundamentals of basketball, Abe Saperstein's delightful clowns have made people laugh in a good many countries in the face of the earth (80, at the last count).

The message they carry is a simple one, entertainment combined with ability, a combination that is the most easily recognized in the world. Proof is the Trotters' own story. They have played before people who didn't understand a basket from a hole-in-the-wall. But they could understand talent, and they could understand laughter.

Saperstein hit on the happy combination more than 30 years ago. Always interested in the court sport, Little Abe couldn't make it pay, regardless of the talent he procured.

He came up with the idea of playing top-flight basketball but throwing in a few laughts. And he has never lost his amazement over the quick response from the public. It was exactly what they wanted and he has been giving it to them for years.

The Globetrotters are fundamentally a basketball unit. They get the best Negro players available and pay them according to their skill and talent as major league baseball teams do. Then they blend in this mixture of talent with careful comedy routines designed solely to exploit the exactness of the court game. When it's all put together one has the Globetrotters' version of how to keep people happy and delight even the initiated.

The Trotters are brilliant performers who pass, dribble, shoot and handle the ball as only they have been able to do, even after all these years. Their routines have been copied by many teams but never has any group even approached the expertness of the inventor. They are alone in the basketball world.

Advance tickets for the Globetrotters show are now on sale at both Blick's Sporting Goods Store and Ring Military, downtown. If any ducats remain by Wednesday evening, they will be offered at the box office of the City Auditorium. The game is slated for 8:15 p.m.

Traveling Cadets Meet Texas Western Tonight

EL PASO, Tex. — The traveling Falcons of the Air Force Academy will have the odds stacked against them here tonight as they meet their third straight tournament - bound team. Border Conference champion Texas Western will be a heavy favorite to hand the Falcons their 12th loss of the season here in the shadow of the Mexican border.

This past week Texas Western was ranked 15th in the nation and some observers feel they might be even better than that.

But besides playing away from home, where the AFA has won but once this season in 10 tries, another big factor is working against the Cadets.

They'll be up against one of the finest rebounding teams in the country and this has been the Air Force's season - long failing.

Texas Western ranks second only to Auburn in team rebounding, according to latest statistics from the NCAA, with the great Eric Barnes among the top four individuals in his speciality with an average of 17 rebounds per game.

Meeting nationally - ranked and tournament teams is nothing new to the Falcons, however. Last Saturday the Air Force dropped an 85-51 decision to Colorado State University. At the time CSU was ranked 18th, but since has moved up to 14th in the nation. Texas Western is now listed right behind the Rams in 15th place.

Colorado State is now preparing for entry in the NCAA national championships, as is Texas Western. But Regis College of Denver, which fell to the Falcons in a 59-58 thriller, is entered in the National Catholic Tournament, and the AFA's final opponents, Marquette, is another set for post-season play. Marquette, which comes to the Academy next Friday, is entered in the National Invitational Tourney (NIT).

Should the Falcons lose tonight, as expected, it will cinch the first losing season in the school's history. The best they could finish, even with an upset at home against Marquette, would be a 12-10 mark — which would be the first time under .500 for Coach Bob Spear since he took over at the Air Force seven seasons ago.

Western will undoubtedly prove tough tonight as they boast the finest team in the history of the school. In addition to Barnes, who has been named to the honorable mention list of All - Americans, they have all five starters from last year back again. These include Willie Brown, Bobby Lesley, Bobby Joe Hill, Danny Vaughn and Nolen Richardson.

With that combination the Texans finished second to Arizona State in the Border Conference standings, and went on to compile an outstanding record of 18-5.

Still there is a faint ray of hope shining thru for the Falcons as Western has been a team that likes to play 'em close to the vest. And the AFA always seems to have at least some chance for the upset against a team that's not in the habit of running up high scores.

Air Force is currently ranked eighth in the nation in defense, allowing an average of only 58.1 points. And oddly enough, despite a losing record, the Cadets have scored exactly as many points as the opposition, 1157 each.

If comparitive score indicate anything, the AFA doesn't stand too much chance here tonight. CSU's 34-point margin last week was the worst defeat in history for the Falcons. And yet Colorado State nipped Texas Western here earlier in the season, 64-62.

In addition, Western topped Utah State (another NCAA entry) twice this year while the Falcons had to push in a record 63.8 per cent of their field goals to upset the Utags at the AFA. The Cadets have since erased that record by dropping in a sensational 65 per cent even against Regis in last Wednesday's win.

Spear isn't expected to deviate far from his usual starting lineup. In fact, in the Regis game the AFA coach used only six players. Slated on the starting line will be Roger Head at center, Parke Hinman and Rich Porter at forwards, with Johnny Judd and Jim Diffendorfer or Roger Zoeller at guards.

Carle Named to Committee To Select NCAA Teams

Jerry Carle, Colorado College athletic director, has been named to a three-man selection committee that will select hockey teams from the Western Collegiate Hockey Association to compete in the National Collegiate Athletic championships in Boston.

The committee will select two teams to represent the WCHA during the NCAA Hockey Championship Tournament, March 14, 15 and 16 at Boston College. The tournament will be played at McHugh Forum at Chestnut Hill and will be part of the Boston College centennial celebration.

Besides Carle, the committee is composed of Amo Bessone, chairman, hockey coach at Michigan State University; and John Mariucci, hockey coach at the University of Minnesota.

Each committee member has an alternate in case his team is one of the ice squads contending for an NCAA berth. Alternate for Carle is Murray Armstrong, hockey coach at Denver University. The other two alternates are Allan Renfrew, Michigan University hockey coach, and Ralph Romano, hockey coach at the Duluth Branc of the University of Minnesota.

The committee will select two teams from the WCHA to compete for the national crown. The WCHA champion usually is an automatic choice. However, the runner-up is not automatically selected as one of the representatives from the Western area.

The committee will make their final decision by March 10, following the WCHA playoffs on March 7, 8 and 9.

Kansas Tops Missouri in Ruckus Tilt

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas defeated Missouri 72-68 Friday night in a Big Eight Conference basketball game marred by two fist fights and left the two teams tied for sixth place with 4-9 records.

Nolen Ellison, Kansas Captain, was ejected with 1 minute, 14 seconds left for starting a fight with Ken Doughty of Missouri. Doughty remained in the game. While Ellison and Doughty battled, Al Correll of Kansas and George Flamank of Missouri had a brief scuffle.

Players from both benches quickly restored order. Missouri was given two free throws on a technical foul call against Ellison.

Each team had four men in double figures. George Unseld topped Kansas with 25. Bob Price led Missouri with 17.

Ellison got 12 to make his three-year total 1,034, highest for a backliner in Kansas history. He surpassed Jerry Gardner's figure of 1,030.

Kansas shot 50 per cent from the field in mounting a 44-34 half-time lead.

The Jayhawks moved up to 69-52 with 8 minutes, 30 second to go but Missouri kept whittling away until Kansas had to rely on a delay style to pull out the victory.

CC Tennis Team Set For Slate

The tennis team at Colorado College is ready for spring.

Tennis coach E. R. Peterson said the tennis schedule for this year's net Tigers has been set. The Bengals should have a team that is even better than last year's Rocky Mountain Conference Champions, he said.

The Colorado College team last year was undefeated in conference play. However, the team was defeated by the Air Force Academy, Denver University and Colorado University.

Peterson said a similar — and perhaps tougher — schedule faces the Tigers this year. They will play nine contests plus the Rocky Mountain Conference Tournament which will be held at Colorado College this spring.

The tennis schedule for CC is:

April 6—Denver University

In addition to competing for the Draper Trophy, which will be completed with downhill racing Saturday, the skiers are vying for points towards selection for the 1964 U.S. Olympic ski team.

Behind Barrier in the men's event Friday, wrre Pat Terenzini, Dartmouth Outing Club, 123.8 seconds, and Peter Ruschp, Mt. Mansfield Ski Club, 125.2 seconds.

Montreal Icer Suffers Injury

Pro Ski Racers Make Progress

ASPEN (AP)—Professional ski racers feel they have made big strides this season from the standpoint of competition and crowds.

Ted Dutton of Aspen, president of the International Professional Ski Racers Association, said, "As is natural with a new sport, we've had our problems. But we seem to be over the hump."

Last month 10,000 fans turned out for pro races at the ski area just outside Boston, Dutton said. More than 6,000 watched the events at Devil's Glen, Ont., and more than 5,000 at Pine Knob, Mich.

Dutton said the pro sport got a shot in the arm when an American, Marvin Moriarity, beat the best European pros in competition at Trollhaugen, Wis., Feb. 3.

The pro season closes with races at Stratton Mountain, Vt., today and Boyne Mountain, Mich. March 8-9. The professionals raced at Aspen twice in January.

Top Seeded Duke Triumphs Over N. C. State

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—top-seeded Duke responded to a late North Carolina State challenge by scoring 32 points in the last 13½ minutes Friday night to win its 17th consecutive basketball game 82-65 and move into the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament.

Jeff Mullins, heretofore the junior partner in Duke's point-scoring firm headed by All-America Art Heyman, again led the Blue Devil scoring with 25 points.

Heyman, the college Player of the Year, was troubled by a tenacious N.C. State defense that permitted few scoring liberties, but he managed 19 points, collected nine rebounds and passed off for several other baskets, for the nation's second ranked team.

Buzzy Harrison picked up the Duke scoring slack with 18 points, triple his season's average.

Prior to Duke's devastating steamroller finish, State had cut the Blue Devil lead to 50-48 after trailing by 11 in the early going and 38-31 at the half.

Chet Murphy to Head First Tennis Workshop

Chet Murphy, University of California tennis coach who teaches at The Broadmoor during the summer months, will direct the first Annual Tennis Workshop sponsored by the AAHPER-USLTA Joint Committee for School Tennis Development. The program, for the benefit of tennis teachers and coaches is to be conducted March 8 and 9 at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, Carmel Valley, Calif. Its purpose is to assist in the promotion and development of tennis at all levels in Northern California.

In conjunction with the Tennis Workship, Murphy together with four other tennis professionals (John Gardiner, Tom Stowe, Dick Stevens and Fread Earl) is responsible for laying the ground work for the establishment of a tennis professional association in Northern California. This organization, composed of more than 27 professionals, entitled Professional Tennis, Inc., has initiated a program aimed at getting boys who possess high athletic potential, into instructional tennis programs.

The major part of the program is a series of tennis lessons offered at no cost to a selected group of seventh grade boys in the North California area, who could not otherwise afford to participate. The boys will be selected on the basis of their performance on certain skill tests, indicating to some extend tennis playing potential, as well as taking into account the opinions and suggestions of physical education teachers. One of the requirements for selection in the program is that the boys have no previous tennis intsruction or tournament experience.

Each professional will choose four boys to coach during this period. Murphy has already begun teaching nine boys at Garfield Junior High. He intended to choose only four, "But the best I could do was to reduce the list to nine out of 37," stated Murphy.

CHET MURPHY
Directs Tennis Workshop

The entire program is being offered free to the boys; the professionals are offering their services; Wilson Sporting Goods Co. has donated 50 rackets; Convers Rubber Co. has donated three dozen pair of shoes, and several individuals have contributed money for the purchase of additional equipment and clothing. Each of the boys chosen is to reveive $50 worth of tenins equipment to enable him to participate in the program in an appropriate manner.

The program will reach its climax in April when all the boys and their coaches will meet in Carmel to play in a two - day tournament, the purpose of which is to enable the Executive Committee of PTI (Professional Tennis, Inc.) to evaluate the results of the instructional program. From the results, several boys will be selected to receive additional instruction, with the hope of developing these boys into top-ranking Junior players.

Murphy will be returning to The Broadmoor this summer to coach tennis. He is considered one of the top men in the country on matters pertaining to clinical tennis, and recently was invited by the U. S. State Department to spend three months teaching his methods in Burma.

Devilish Tribe Attempts Win Over Pueblo South

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer's devilish Terrors attempt to continue their late season form - reversal here tonight when they meet hot-shooting Pueblo South in a South Central League contest that could have definite bearing on the eventual outcome of the race.

TERROR REGULAR — Alan Snyder, junior guard of the Palmer Terrors, has been one of the team's steadiest players thruout the current campaign. Snyder played a key role in the Tribe's big 45-44 upset victory over Pueblo Central last Friday and will be trying to help the local team spring another surprise when the Terrors meet South in Pueblo at 8 p.m. tonight.
(Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Even tho the Tribe is far-removed from the hot war that has been waging in the league's upper - division, the team has been playing with increasing effectiveness the past few weeks. Last Friday Palmer became the first of the second division teams to deviate from a season - long script and knock off a title contender, when the Terrors spilled Pueblo Central 45-44 in Colorado Springs, thus depriving the Wildcats of pulling into a first place tie.

Tonight's contest could carry much the same significance for South, depending on the outcome of Friday games. If Trinidad defeated Wasson Friday, South must win tonight to retain a chance to tie for the title. But if the Thunderbirds turned the tables on the Miners, South could pull alongside those teams in a first place tie entering the final week of play.

Palmer has expressed a desire to aid local rival Wasson where possible as the T-Birds battle for a state tournament berth in these closing weeks of the campaign. The Tribe made a big installment on that ambition last Friday by dumping Central and there's no secret that a follow - up victory over South would give the 'Birds another shot in the arm.

But aside from such neighborly interest, the Terrors have considerable personal pride involved in these late season skirmishes. Success was elusive during the early day of the campaign as Palmer lost eight of its first nine games and 10 of its first 12. Now the team has seemingly reversed that trend in winning four of the last five. An upset win over South would move the Terrors into a postition to really finish strong as they close out the season at home against sixth - place East next Friday.

Also of interest to the team is the fact that a win tonight would assure Palmer of no worse than a tie for fifth place in the final standings, a much higher berth than the Tribe appeared headed for in the early going.

Palmer blunted Central's touted offense with steady team defense and a fine blend of that poise that had been missing during the earlier loss streak. Ringleaders offensively were forwards Dave Steward and Walt Hylton. Encouraging to Coach Gerry Schroeder was the fact that the Terrors could defeat a club like Central while 6-4 post man, Bobby Joe Williams, was not having one of his good nights. Williams, troubled by the flue, had one of his poorer offensive games.

The Tribe will need all of the poise it can muster tonight if the hot-footed Colts are to be halted. South is one of the most difficult teams in the state to defense and it will be necessary for the Terrors to slow the pace to some extent if they are to turn an upset. Coach Bill Brown's team is famous for its reckless fast-break tactics and there are few clubs around that can shoot with the Colts if they are allowed free-rein.

There was question late this week as to the availability of South guard, Ron Schwab who fractured an index finger on his left hand in last week's game with East. If Schwab is out, Ron Hedrick will probably be moved out from a forward with Lanny Carlson filling in the gap underneath. Other South starters are veterans Jerry Jackson and Rich Reisner plus guard Rap Gottula.

Palmer's lineup will be the usual one with guards Jim Lindsey and Alan Snyder joining Williams, Hylton, and Steward.

Hot-Putting Bob Rosburg Leads New Orleans Tourney

JUMP BALL—OPPS—WHERE'D IT GO—Referee John McCauley's eye-popping whistle leaves no doubt on his call of a jump ball between Charles Daniel (left) of Charlotte High and John Smith of Woodlawn in the Tennessee state championships. Just after McCauley made the call, the ball squirted loose over his head. Woodlawn won the game, 77-47.

SHOWBOAT OF THE 'TROTTERS—Bob (Showboat) Hall will lead the merry-makers of basketball, the famed Harlem Globetrotters, in the Colorado Springs City Auditorium this next Wednesday night. The 'Trotters, who have packed 'em in around the world, will meet the San Francisco All-Nations team. Several entertainment acts will also be presented, before the game and at halftime.

Globetrotters Perform Here Wednesday Night

It has been estimated that more than 35 - million people all over the world have seen the Harlem Globetrotter, who will be making their annual trek to the Colorado Springs' City Auditorium next Wednesday night, display their unusual brand of basketball mixed with humorous stunts. This year marks their 36th season of consecutive activity—and the above figure in attendance will be increased by another capacity crowd when these fabulous magicians of the court play the San Francisco All-Nations team.

Even tho many did not even understand the fundamentals of basketball, Abe Saperstein's delightful clowns have made people laugh in a good many countries in the face of the earth (80, at the last count).

The message they carry is a simple one, entertainment combined with ability, a combination that is the most easily recognized in the world. Proof is the Trotters' own story. They have played before people who didn't understand a basket from a hole-in-the-wall. But they could understand talent, and they could understand laughter.

Saperstein hit on the happy combination more than 30 years ago. Always interested in the court sport, Little Abe couldn't make it pay, regardless of the talent he procured.

He came up with the idea of playing top-flight basketball but throwing in a few laughs. And he has never lost his amazement over the quick response from the public. It was exactly what they wanted and he has been giving it to them for years.

The Globetrotters are fundamentally a basketball unit. They get the best Negro players available and pay them according to their skill and talent as major league baseball teams do. Then they blend in this mixture of talent with careful comedy routines designed solely to exploit the exactness of the court game. When it's all put together one has the Globetrotters' version of how to keep people happy and delight even the initiated.

The Trotters are brilliant performers who pass, dribble, shoot and handle the ball as only they have been able to do, even after all these years. Their routines have been copied by many teams but never has any group even approached the expertness of the inventor. They are alone in the basketball world.

Advance tickets for the Globetrotters show are now on sale at both Blick's Sporting Goods Store and Ring Military, downtown. If any ducats remain by Wednesday evening, they will be offered at the box office of the City Auditorium. The game is slated for 8:15 p.m.

Traveling Cadets Meet Texas Western Tonight

EL PASO, Tex. — The traveling Falcons of the Air Force Academy will have the odds stacked against them here tonight as they meet their third straight tournament - bound team. Border Conference champion Texas Western will be a heavy favorite to hand the Falcons their 12th loss of the season here in the shadow of the Mexican border.

This past week Texas Western was ranked 15th in the nation and some observers feel they might be even better than that.

But besides playing away from home, where the AFA has won but once this season in 10 tries, another big factor is working against the Cadets.

They'll be up against one of the finest rebounding teams in the country and this has been the Air Force's season - long failing.

Texas Western ranks second only to Auburn in team rebounding, according to latest statistics from the NCAA, with the great Eric Barnes among the top four individuals in his speciality with an average of 17 rebounds per game.

Meeting nationally - ranked and tournament teams is nothing new to the Falcons, however. Last Saturday the Air Force dropped an 85-51 decision to Colorado State University. At the time CSU was ranked 18th, but since has moved up to 14th in the nation. Texas Western is now listed right behind the Rams in 15th place.

Colorado State is now preparing for entry in the NCAA national championships, as is Texas Western. But Regis College of Denver, which fell to the Falcons in a 59-58 thriller, is entered in the National Catholic Tournament, and the AFA's final opponents, Marquette, is another set for post-season play. Marquette, which comes to the Academy next Friday, is entered in the National Invitational Tourney (NIT).

Should the Falcons lose tonight, as expected, it will cinch the first losing season in the school's history. The best they could finish, even with an upset at home against Marquette, would be a 12-10 mark — which would be the first time under .500 for Coach Bob Spear since he took over at the Air Force seven seasons ago.

Western will undoubtedly prove tough tonight as they boast the finest team in the history of the school. In addition to Barnes, who has been named to the honorable mention list of All - Americans, they have all five starters from last year back again. These include Willie Brown, Bobby Lesley, Bobby Joe Hill, Danny Vaughn and Nolen Richardson.

With that combination the Texans finished second to Arizona State in the Border Conference standings, and went on to compile an outstanding record of 18-5.

Still there is a faint ray of hope shining thru for the Falcons as Western has been a team that likes to play 'em close to the vest. And the AFA always seems to have at least some chance for the upset against a team that's not in the habit of running up high scores.

Air Force is currently ranked eighth in the nation in defense, allowing an average of only 58.1 points. And oddly enough, despite a losing record, the Cadets have scored exactly as many points as the opposition, 1157 each.

If comparitive score indicate anything, the AFA doesn't stand too much chance here tonight. CSU's 34-point margin last week was the worst defeat in history for the Falcons. And yet Colorado State nipped Texas Western here earlier in the season, 64-62.

In addition, Western topped Utah State (another NCAA entry) twice this year while the Falcons had to push in a record 63.8 per cent of their field goals to upset the Utags at the AFA. The Cadets have since erased that record by dropping in a sensational 65 per cent even against Regis in last Wednesday's win.

Spear isn't expected to deviate far from his usual starting lineup. In fact, in the Regis game the AFA coach used only six players. Slated on the starting line will be Roger Head at center, Parke Hinman and Rich Porter at forwards, with Johnny Judd and Jim Diffendorfer or Roger Zoeller at guards.

Carle Named to Committee To Select NCAA Teams

Jerry Carle, Colorado College athletic director, has been named to a three-man selection committee that will select hockey teams from the Western Collegiate Hockey Association to compete in the National Collegiate Athletic championships in Boston.

The committee will select two teams to represent the WCHA during the NCAA Hockey Championship Tournament, March 14,15 and 16 at Boston College. The tournament will be played at McHugh Forum at Chestnut Hill and will be part of the Boston College centennial celebration.

Besides Carle, the committee is composed of Amo Bessone, chairman, hockey coach at Michigan State University; and John Mariucci, hockey coach at the University of Minnesota.

Each committee member has an alternate in case his team is one of the ice squads contending for an NCAA berth. Alternate for Carle is Murray Armstrong, hockey coach at Denver University. The other two alternates are Allan Renfrew, Michigan University hockey coach, and Ralph Romano, hockey coach at the Duluth Branc of the University of Minnesota.

The committee will select two teams from the WCHA to compete for the national crown. The WCHA champion usually is an automatic choice. However, the runner-up is not automatically selected as one of the representatives from the Western area.

The committee will make their final decision by March 10, following the WCHA playoffs on March 7, 8 and 9.

Montreal Icer Suffers Injury

Pro Ski Racers Make Progress

ASPEN (AP)—Professional ski racers feel they have made big strides this season from the standpoint of competition and crowds.

Ted Dutton of Aspen, president of the International Professional Ski Racers Association, said, "As is natural with a new sport, we've had our problems. But we seem to be over the hump."

Last month 10,000 fans turned out for pro races at the ski area just outside Boston, Dutton said. More than 6,000 watched the events at Devil's Glen, Ont., and more than 5,000 at Pine Knob, Mich.

Dutton said the pro sport got a shot in the arm when an American, Marvin Moriarity, beat the best European pros in competition at Trollhaugen, Wis., Feb. 3.

The pro season closes with races at Stratton Mountain, Vt., today and Boyne Mountain, Mich. March 8-9. The professionals raced at Aspen twice in January.

Kansas Tops Missouri in Ruckus Tilt

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas defeated Missouri 72-68 Friday night in a Big Eight Conference basketball game marred by two fist fights and left the two teams tied for sixth place with 4-9 records.

Nolen Ellison, Kansas Captain, was ejected with 1 minute, 14 seconds left for starting a fight with Ken Doughty of Missouri. Doughty remained in the game. While Ellison and Doughty battled, Al Correll of Kansas and George Flamank of Missouri had a brief scuffle.

Players from both benches quickly restored order. Missouri was given two free throws on a technical foul call against Ellison.

Each team had four men in double figures. George Unseld topped Kansas with 25. Bob Price led Missouri with 17.

Ellison got 12 to make his three-year total 1,034, highest for a backliner in Kansas history. He surpassed Jerry Gardner's figure of 1,030.

Kansas shot 50 per cent from the field in mounting a 44-34 half-time lead.

The Jayhawks moved up to 69-52 with 8 minutes, 30 second to go but Missouri kept whittling away until Kansas had to rely on a delay style to pull out the victory.

Top Seeded Duke Triumphs Over N. C. State

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—top-seeded Duke responded to a late North Carolina State challenge by scoring 32 points in the last 13½ minutes Friday night to win its 17th consecutive basketball game 82-65 and move into the finals of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament.

Jeff Mullins, heretofore the junior partner in Duke's point-scoring firm headed by All-America Art Heyman, again led the Blue Devil scoring with 25 points.

Heyman, the college Player of the Year, was troubled by a tenacious N.C. State defense that permitted few scoring liberties, but he managed 19 points, collected nine rebounds and passed off for several other baskets, for the nation's second ranked team.

Buzzy Harrison picked up the Duke scoring slack with 18 points, triple his season's average.

Prior to Duke's devastating steamroller finish, State had cut the Blue Devil lead to 50-48 after trailing by 11 in the early going and 38-31 at the half.

Chet Murphy to Head First Tennis Workshop

Chet Murphy, University of California tennis coach who teaches at The Broadmoor during the summer months, will direct the first Annual Tennis Workshop sponsored by the AAHPER-USLTA Joint Committee for School Tennis Development. The program, for the benefit of tennis teachers and coaches is to be conducted March 8 and 9 at John Gardiner's Tennis Ranch, Carmel Valley, Calif. Its purpose is to assist in the promotion and development of tennis at all levels in Northern California.

In conjunction with the Tennis Workship, Murphy together with four other tennis professionals (John Gardiner, Tom Stowe, Dick Stevens and Fread Earl) is responsible for laying the ground work for the establishment of a tennis professional association in Northern California. This organization, composed of more than 27 professionals, entitled Professional Tennis, Inc., has initiated a program aimed at getting boys who possess high athletic potential, into instructional tennis programs.

The major part of the program is a series of tennis lessons offered at no cost to a selected group of seventh grade boys in the North California area, who could not otherwise afford to participate. The boys will be selected on the basis of their performance on certain skill tests, indicating to some extend tennis playing potential, as well as taking into account the opinions and suggestions of physical education teachers. One of the requirements for selection in the program is that the boys have no previous tennis intsruction or tournament experience.

Each professional will choose four boys to coach during this period. Murphy has already begun teaching nine boys at Garfield Junior High. He intended to choose only four, "But the best I could do was to reduce the list to nine out of 37," stated Murphy.

The entire program is being offered free to the boys; the professionals are offering their services; Wilson Sporting Goods Co. has donated 50 rackets; Convers Rubber Co. has donated three dozen pair of shoes, and several individuals have contributed money for the purchase of additional equipment and clothing. Each of the boys chosen is to reveive $50 worth of tenins equipment to enable him to participate in the program in an appropriate manner.

The program will reach its climax in April when all the boys and their coaches will meet in Carmel to play in a two - day tournament, the purpose of which is to enable the Executive Committee of PTI (Professional Tennis, Inc.) to evaluate the results of the instructional program. From the results, several boys will be selected to receive additional instruction, with the hope of developing these boys into top-ranking Junior players.

Murphy will be returning to The Broadmoor this summer to coach tennis. He is considered one of the top men in the country on matters pertaining to clinical tennis, and recently was invited by the U. S. State Department to spend three months teaching his methods in Burma.

Pleasure Boat Licensing Plan Pops Up Again

By JACK WOLISTON

One of pleasure boating's controversial questions — shall boat operators be licensed? — has popped up again in Congress.

This time it is contained in a bill introduced in the House by Congressman Charles E. Chamberlain of Michigan.

His proposal says "no vessel required to be numbered under the Federal Act of 1958 shall be operated or navigated on any of the navigable waters of the United States except in charge of a person duly licensed . . ."

That means a license would be necessary for the operator of any undocumented motorboat, irrespective of length, propelled in whole or in part by machinery of over 10 horsepower.

Chamberlain's bill also provides that persons under 12 years of age could not be licensed. Persons between 12 and 15 years of age could be licensed and operate a boat only when a licensed adult is present.

There have been scores of arguments against licensing pleasure boat operators. One most often heard is that the cost of enforcing such a measure would be enormous.

Several similar bills introduced in the House never were reported out of the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, to which Chamberlain's proposal has been referred.

A less controversial measure affecting boating also has been introduced in the House by Congressman George H. Fallon of Maryland.

Fallon's bill would establish within the Housing and Home Finanace Agency a new program of mortgage insurance to assist in financing the construction, improvement, expansion and rehabilitation of harbor facilities for boating and commercial craft.

The New York Yacht Club has announced that its annual Transatlantic Race will start this year on June 30. It will start from Newport, R.I., and finish off Eddystone Lighthouse, England.

The race is open to any yacht whose owner belongs to a recognized yacht club in good standing, and which possesses a valid rating certificate of the Cruising Club of America Rules of Measurement.

Forty-two yachts already have expressed interest in competing.

Other events on the New York Yacht Club's 1963 racing schedule include: June 8-9, 109th Annual Regatta; June 22, Annapolis to Newport Race; and July 9, Junior Regatta.

The noted yacht design firm of Sparkman and Stephens reports that of 24 custom yachts now being built from its designs 15 are for foreign accounts, pointing to a revival in European yachting.

Of the 15 boats, three are yawls about 73 feet long, another is a 116-foot steel ketch being built in Germany for an Italian yachtsman, and still another is a 114-foot diesel yacht being built in Italy for an American living in Italy.

ARCHITECT'S SKETCHBOOK PLANS AND IDEAS

'Pre-Fab' Playhouse Moves Indoors or Out

By BILL MEYERRIECKS

Nothing gives a little girl more pleasure than pretending she's grown up. If she can do her pretending in a house of her own, her make believe becomes gloriously real and will always endure as treasured memory of childhood.

For anyone willing to put in a modest amount of work, it's easy to provide a delightful setting for youthful flights of fancy.

The playhouse illustrated is made with ½-inch plywood, joined at the corners with 5-4 x 2 reinforcing posts that make it possible to take apart or reassemble the house in minutes. This 'prefab' feature permits year-round use: in the basement or garage during the winter months, outdoors in the summer.

The house is 6 feet wide, 4 feet deep and 6 feet high at the roof peak. Shutters and the door are simple cutouts, trimmed with molding.

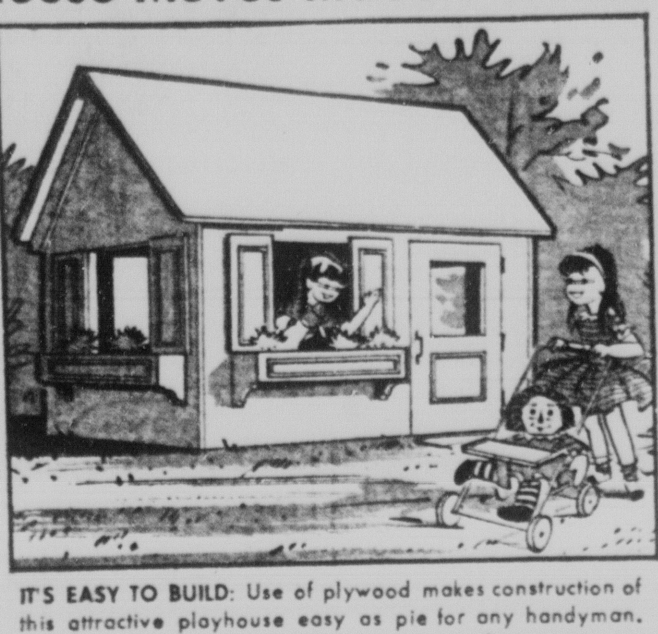
The easy-to-follow Sketchbook plan suggests a foolproof method to eliminate chance of an error in shutter or door hanging. Window boxes are made of left-over plywood.

Directions also are given for making a simple table and stool and a floor-to-ceiling set of shelves for play dishes and other accessories of junior housekeeping.

OTHER PROJECTS

Other 50-cent Sketchbook plans, which may be ordered in the same manner as this one, include:

Play kitchen equipment made of wood (Range, Regrigerator, Sink and Stove): S-73.
Child's Workbench: S-47
Plywood Dinghy: S-60
Modern Danish Table: S-91



IT'S EASY TO BUILD: Use of plywood makes construction of this attractive playhouse easy as pie for any handyman. Machine screws and seated bolts are used at corners so house can be dismantled or reassembled in minutes. Dimensions are 4 by 6 feet by 6 feet high at the peak. To order Playhouse Plan S-99, fill in the blanks below, cut out this coupon and mail with 50 cents to SKETCHBOOK, in care of this newspaper.

PROTECTING FIREWOOD

A healthy woodpile beside your door may be wonderful for your fireplace—but it can be a termite haven if not properly cared for. If you keep firewood over from year to year, it's a good idea to store it in an area where it won't get waterlogged and rot, such as on a tile patio or outside entry floor.

B. H. Baker to Attend Contractors Meeting

B. H. Baker of B. H. Baker Inc. left Friday for New York City to attend the 44th annual convention and exhibit of the Associated General Contractors Monday thru Thursday.

Baker is one of 14 members of the Associated Building Contractors of Colorado Inc. who will attend the convention. The national association expects about 2,500 to attend the four-day meeting.

A number of national AGC executives will speak, and many construction techniques and types of equipment will be displayed at a special three-day exhibit by manufacturers and principal federal contracting agencies.

Steel-Frame Houses Appear on Market

NEW YORK (AP) —Steel-frame houses are reported in "Steel Facts," a publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, as able to be put up faster and maintained cheaper than conventional homes.

One model recently shown has exterior steel wall panels which interlock and a coated steel roof that reflects sunshine for lower air conditioning loads.

In another recent home building project, a composite steel and wood beam uses a piece of light guage steel with regular 2 by 10-inch lumber to double the load-bearing capacity.

MULCHING

Mulching vegetable plants is an excellent, moisture-holding practice, but don't expect to substitute it for irrigation. Mulching is especially beneficial to long-season crops, including tomatoes, peppers, eggplants and okra.

Heating System Know-How Helpful For Real Comfort

The furnace is one of the necessities of life, at least for those of us who live in the north. For those of us who live in the south. It is an almost unknown object. Yet, if we southern folks have a cottage in a cooler clime or even just a hot water tank, the following may contain some interesting hints.

Just because your furnace — if you own one —is working, doesn't mean that it's working efficiently. Like most mechanical things, your furnace will need tuning up now and then. This is also important for your hot water tank. Leave major repairs to those experts who can handle such.

Changing a filter in a forced air heating system is something you can do yourself, however. Check the filter frequently. If you can't see light through it, clean it or change it. But you don't have to wait that long to give it an occasional brushing or vacuuming.

Vacuum registers too. Remove the cover and run the vacuum cleaner attachmens down the pipe.

Failure to keep registers clean means more dirt and dust throughout the house and less heat.

Check the belt on the blower. It should give about an inch when you press on it. Replace a belt that shows signs of wear.

Follow manufacturer's instructions in keeping blower lubricated. Oil regularly, but do not over - oil.

With steam systems make certain that the radiator shutoff valves are completely open.

Keep radiators clean. A radiator cover cuts down the amount of heat that will be given off. If you must paint the radiator, do not use aluminum, bronze or other metallic paints. They will cut down on heat emission. Use flat paint. Paint the radiator to match the wall if you like.

A reflective cover on the wall behind the radiator will increase the heat output.

Pipes should slope from radiator to boiler, and the radiator itself should slant toward the outflow pipe.

Radiators can be slanted correctly by placing small wood blocks underneath.

Radiator vaulves that do not function properly may be corroded inside. While these can be cleaned by soaking in kerosene, it's a good idea to have a spare or two on hand.

With hot water systems, it is again important to keep radiators clean. The baseboard type of radiator should have a removable cover so that you can brush dust off of the convectors (fins) underneath.

The hot water tank's another story. Sediment may accumulate in your tank just as it does in a water heater. Drawing off a pailful or two of water at regular intervals will keep the system sediment free.

Be sure to bring water back to correct level after draining some off.

Thermostats for any system need little maintenance. Take the cover off occasionally and blow away the dust. If cold air is coming up through the wall in which the thermostat is mounted, pack insulation around the thermostat

House Plans You Can Buy

By Hiawatha Estes, AIBD

If you have a flair for the unconventional and think in terms of today and not yesterday, the contemporary lines of this modern, luxurious looking home must certainly meet with your approval.

The exterior of the house is both attractive and sensibly planned for modern living. The long, low lines of the roof help the house look much larger than it actually is. Stone veneer is a pleasing contrast to the vertical siding and painted trim. The wide wooden fascia at the top of the roof is duplicated near the floor level with stone veneer below. An open beam roof extends from the house out to the edge of the driveway and is supported by a series of posts.

To obtain privacy, the entry wac located some distance from the street. Neither the entry or any windows in the home face the street.

From the well lighted entry, there is direct access to the kitchen, bedroom wing or living area.

Four large closets open to the short hall which leads to all bedrooms. All bedrooms have an exceptional amount of wardrobe space and will accommodate twin beds. The elegant design of the master bedroom suite with its private dressing room and bath allows much more wall space for furniture arrangement in the bedroom.

The family bath has a pullman lavatory — as does the private bath — a linen closet and an enclosed tub with shower over. The third bath is conveniently located near the service where it is easily reached from both the kitchen and the outside of the house.

The outstanding feature of this plan is the generous size of the handsome living room with its modern fireplace and long hearth. The dining area is open to the living room but it is of sufficient size to be completely separated from the living room with a wall if a private dining room is preferred. The illusion of size in this room is further enhanced by the wide sliding glass doors which open to the roofed patio.

The kitchen is a model of efficiency with all doors located so as to provide a maximum amount of wall space. Besides a roomy pantry, note the nook area and the sliding doors opening to the patio. There is no doubt that the patio will serve as an outside dining and family room.

A huge storage closet forms the back wall of the carport.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $7.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until June 24, 1963. Please allow two or three weeks for delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Hallmark Homes — $1; Award Homes — $1; Town & Country Homes—$1; Homes for Living — $1; Homes of Distinction — $1; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2. All books — a $7 value — only $5. Send all orders for either plans or books to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404-K, Northridge, Calif.

ALL-BRICK TABLE—Brick has been used for thousands of years for exterior and interior walls, fireplaces and floors, as well as for a wide range of decorative elements. However, Architect Malcolm B. Wells of Haddonfield, N.J., demonstrates the the age-old versatility of clay products has not been exhausted. In his own home, Wells creates an unusual and dramatic effect, as well as providing an impervious, maintenance-free surface, with an all-brick dining room table. Brick flooring in a basket pattern and wood paneling complement the decor.

'Pre-Fab' Playhouse Moves Indoors or Out

By BILL MEYERRIECKS

Nothing gives a little girl more pleasure than pretending she's grown up. If she can do her pretending in a house of her own, her make believe becomes gloriously real and will always endure as treasured memory of childhood.

For anyone willing to put in a modest amount of work, it's easy to provide a delightful setting for youthful flights of fancy.

The playhouse illustrated is made with ½-inch plywood, joined at the corners with 5-4 x 2 reinforcing posts that make it possible to take apart or reassemble the house in minutes. This 'pre-fab' feature permits year-round use: in the basement or garage during the winter months, outdoors in the summer.

The house is 6 feet wide, 4 feet deep and 6 feet high at the roof peak. Shutters and the door are simple cutouts, trimmed with molding.

The easy-to-follow Sketchbook plan suggests a foolproof method to eliminate chance of an error in shutter or door hanging. Window boxes are made of left-over plywood.

Directions also are given for making a simple table and stool and a floor-to-ceiling set of shelves for play dishes and other accessories of junior housekeeping.

By Hiawatha Estes, AIBD

If you have a flair for the unconventional and think in terms of today and not yesterday, the contemporary lines of this modern, luxurious looking home must certainly meet with your approval.

The exterior of the house is both attractive and sensibly planned for modern living. The long, low lines of the roof help the house look much larger than it actually is. Stone veneer is a pleasing contrast to the vertical siding and painted trim. The wide wooden fascia at the top of the roof is duplicated near the floor level with stone veneer below. An open beam roof extends from the house out to the edge of the driveway and is supported by a series of posts.

To obtain privacy, the entry wac located some distance from the street. Neither the entry or any windows in the home face the street.

From the well lighted entry, there is direct access to the kitchen, bedroom wing or living area.

Four large closets open to the short hall which leads to all bedrooms. All bedrooms have an exceptional amount of wardrobe space and will accommodate twin beds. The elegant design of the master bedroom suite with its private dressing room and bath allows much more wall space for furniture arrangement in the bedroom.

The family bath has a pullman lavatory — as does the private bath — a linen closet and an enclosed tub with shower over. The third bath is conveniently located near the service where it is easily reached from both the kitchen and the outside of the house.

The outstanding feature of this plan is the generous size of the handsome living room with its modern fireplace and long hearth. The dining area is open to the living room but it is of sufficient size to be completely separated from the living room with a wall if a private dining room is preferred. The illusion of size in this room is further enhanced by the wide sliding glass doors which open to the roofed patio.

The kitchen is a model of efficiency with all doors located so as to provide a maximum amount of wall space. Besides a roomy pantry, note the nook area and the sliding doors opening to the patio. There is no doubt that the patio will serve as an outside dining and family room.

A huge storage closet forms the back wall of the carport.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $7.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until June 24, 1963. Please allow two or three weeks for delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Hallmark Homes — $1; Award Homes — $1; Town & Country Homes—$1; Homes for Living — $1; Homes of Distinction — $1; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2. All books — a $7 value — only $5. Send all orders for either plans or books to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404-K, Northridge, Calif.

NO POLISH

Now that the fireplace season is here again, you can have yourelf a lot of bra polihing thietaoi self a lot of brass polishing this winter, if you spray the shiny metal with a non - yellowing varnish or lacquer.

ALL-BRICK TABLE—Brick has been used for thousands of years for exterior and interior walls, fireplaces and floors, as well as for a wide range of decorative elements. However, Architect Malcolm B. Wells of Haddonfield, N.J., demonstrates the the age-old versatility of clay products has not been exhausted. In his own home, Wells creates an unusual and dramatic effect, as well as providing an impervious, maintenance-free surface, with an all-brick dining room table. Brick flooring in a basket pattern and wood paneling complement the decor.

RECORDING UNIT —The Department of Public Utilities has added this 5,000 recording unit to the facilities designed to monitor radio activity if and when such activity should occur in Colorado Springs' water supplies. New Sentinel Guards Water Supplies of Springs Area

A monitoring system which maintains an unblinking eye on radiation activity which may or may not invade Colorado Springs water supplies has been installed at the Department of Public Utilities laboratory at the Mesa Filter Plant.

The $5,000 sentinel, on duty 168 hours of every week, is one of the very few of its type in use in the United States. It is a continuous Gross Beta Gamma Radiological Monitor which is recording radio nuclide activity, if any, in filtered water as it enters two, 10 - million gallon covered reservoirs prior to entry into the city's distribution mains.

"If we are ever confronted with a critical radiation condition in our water supplies, this advanced instrument will give us from eight to twenty - four hours grace in which to take steps to keep the affected water from reaching our customers," Utilities Director Ray D. Nixon pointed out.

Figuratively, the monitor is a fire alarm system which not only rouses the firemen but tells them what's causing the fire and how long it's going to last.

The system is a long step forward from the customary recording indicators, such as Geiger counters, which sound a fire alarm, warm the citizenry to get out of the area but provide no clues as to the fire source or its duration.

Incidentally, the new monitor has been undergoing operational tests for three weeks, has indicated nothing in the way of nuclide activity remotely approaching critical conditions.

In general terms, filtered water at the Filter Plant passes through a lead cylinder containing a scintillator detector which is sensitive to radio nuclide activity.

This activity actuates recordings on a continuous chart. If and when the chart indicates unusual radiation activity, Chief Chemist Monte Fryt will know the activity is occurring either in water from Fountain Creek, the slopes of Pikes Peak or from the Blue River system on the Western Slope.

Field surveys would follow immediately, employing survey counters and-or laboratory analysis of the water sources. If a single source is indicated, Fryt points out that water source can be eliminated from water entering the filter plant and not permitted to enter the plant until the radio nuclide activity subsides to non - dangerous proportions.

"If necessary, we could shut off all our water supplies, should they contain dangerous activity," Fryt explains. He adds that the Utilities Department has sufficient covered storage to permit rationing of one gallon of water per family per day for a period of three years.

In addition to the two, 10 - million gallon reservoirs at the Mesa Plant, the Department has 15 million gallons in covered storage at Austin Bluffs.

The chemist adds that the small amount of radio nuclide affected water entering the covered reservoirs between the time of activity detection and correction would be absorbed into the large water mass without danger to consumers.

In addition to its constant watch - dog status, the new monitor provides the chemist with basic knowledge from which he can determine how close the radiation activity is to maximum body burdens and through formula application isolate the specific radio nuclide or nuclides which are involved.

Radio nuclides include, among many others, Iodine 131, which has most harmful effects on the thyroid; Strontium 90, which attacks bone structure; Yttrium 90, a daughter product of Strontium and likewise harmful to bone structure, and Cesium 137, which affects the liver, spleen muscles.

Primarily, the monitor is designed for protection of water customers of the Department of Public Utilities, but information obtained through the new unit and through laboratory analysis by Fryt is available to any organization which may have use for the data.

The monitor is a product of the Victoreen Instrument Company of Cleveland, Ohio, and was installed in the laboratory here by Fryt and Phil Fisher of the Electric Service Division of the Utilities Department.

Calhan Banker Observes 45th Anniversary

A. L. Pieper, president of the Farmers State Bank of Calhan, observed his 45th anniversary in the banking business Friday.

Pieper started his banking career on March 1, 1918 as assistant cashier of the newly organized Farmers State Bank of Peyton.

When the bank and charter was moved to Calhan in 1934, Pieper moved with it and has held all major positions in the business since that time.

Pieper said Friday that his banking career really began in Denver, where he was born and raised, in 1916 when he was an office boy for the American National Bank. However, he does not include those first few years as a part of his "serious" career.

Since Pieper has been associated with the Calhan bank, it has grown from a small country bank to one with over $3 million in deposits. His son, John L. Pieper, is employed as cashier for the bank.

Other officers of the Farmers State Bank of Calhan include H. K. Fosha, vice president and Mrs. Dorothy M. Phillips and Lester Mitchell, both members of the board of directors.

Pieper said there was no special celebration Friday to observe his long banking career but that he wanted everyone to know that he is grateful for the many friendships he had made in the region and that Calhan was the "best place in the world to live".

COST ROSE

When Denmark offered to sell the Virgin Islands, its Caribbean possession, to the United States for $7.5 million in 1867, the U.S. Senate declined the offer; when fear arose in 1916 that Germany might buy the island group to create a base in the western hemisphere, the United States paid Denmark $25 million for it.

Career Soldiers Honored in Retirement Event

Ft. Carson career soldiers whose total military service added up to 635 years were commended for "loyalty, devotion to duty, and constant readiness to defend our national heritage," by Maj. Gen. John A. Heintges, commanding general, Carson and 5th Infantry Division.

He gave the 31 men their final salutes in a climax to retirement ceremonies Tuesday.

Their careers, he pointed out, were served "in what are certainly the most climactic, challenging and perilous times in our country's history.

"Their military stations read like signposts along the path of history, and thirty - nine battle stars speak for their heroism. Numerous Silver Stars, Bronze Stars, and Purple Hearts are dramatic proof of the sacrifices they have made to shield our rights. . .to permit us to stand here today, in peace, and say farewell.

"They will take with them valuable years of experience, professional knowhow, battle - tested leadership and memories of campaigns and comrade in arms. Their departure will be a great loss to us here at Ft. Carson and to the United States Army.

"Their valuable contributions during their many years of faithful service have not been in vain. Back in their units, on other posts, and at foreign duty stations all over the world, including some under the battle range of a shooting enemy, stand their heirs — the men they have trained, counseled, and led.

"In this last hour of your active duty, I want to assure you men who are retiring that we who remain will do our utmost to continue the many missions and to carry out the great responsibilities which you are leaving. We proudly give you our final salute."

Pieper started his banking career on March 1, 1918 as assistant cashier of the newly organized Farmers State Bank of Peyton.

When the bank and charter was moved to Calhan in 1934, Pieper moved with it and has held all major positions in the business since that time.

Pieper said Friday that his banking career really began in Denver, where he was born and raised, in 1916 when he was an office boy for the American National Bank. However, he does not include those first few years as a part of his "serious" career.

Since Pieper has been associated with the Calhan bank, it has grown from a small country bank to one with over $3 million in deposits. His son, John L. Pieper, is employed as cashier for the bank.

Other officers of the Farmers State Bank of Calhan include H. K. Fosha, vice president and Mrs. Dorothy M. Phillips and Lester Mitchell, both members of the board of directors.

Pieper said there was no special celebration Friday to observe his long banking career but that he wanted everyone to know that he is grateful for the many friendships he had made in the region and that Calhan was the "best place in the world to live".

COST ROSE

When Denmark offered to sell the Virgin Islands, its Caribbean possession, to the United States for $7.5 million in 1867, the U.S. Senate declined the offer; when fear arose in 1916 that Germany might buy the island group to create a base in the western hemisphere, the United States paid Denmark $25 million for it.

Career Soldiers Honored in Retirement Event

Ft. Carson career soldiers whose total military service added up to 635 years were commended for "loyalty, devotion to duty, and constant readiness to defend our national heritage," by Maj. Gen. John A. Heintges, commanding general, Carson and 5th Infantry Division.

He gave the 31 men their final salutes in a climax to retirement ceremonies Tuesday.

Their careers, he pointed out, were served "in what are certainly the most climactic, challenging and perilous times in our country's history.

"Their military stations read like signposts along the path of history, and thirty - nine battle stars speak for their heroism. Numerous Silver Stars, Bronze Stars, and Purple Hearts are dramatic proof of the sacrifices they have made to shield our rights. . .to permit us to stand here today, in peace, and say farewell.

"They will take with them valuable years of experience, professional knowhow, battle - tested leadership and memories of campaigns and comrade in arms. Their departure will be a great loss to us here at Ft. Carson and to the United States Army.

"Their valuable contributions during their many years of faithful service have not been in vain. Back in their units, on other posts, and at foreign duty stations all over the world, including some under the battle range of a shooting enemy, stand their heirs — the men they have trained, counseled, and led.

"In this last hour of your active duty, I want to assure you men who are retiring that we who remain will do our utmost to continue the many missions and to carry out the great responsibilities which you are leaving. We proudly give you our final salute."

Joe Brito, 20, 1720 W. Vermijo, pleaded guilty to a drunk charge and was given a 15-day jail sentence which the judge suspended on grounds that the man would make arrangements with the county judge, Charles Simon, to undergo treatment for what Brito termed "a drinking problem."

'Seesaw' Showing At Broadmoor

The cost of making motion pictures is coming down.

Award winning Director Robert Wise, while shooting location sequences in New York City for "Two for the Seesaw," the Robert Mitchum-Shirley MacLaine starring now at the Broadmoor Theatre, reports that he did a scene there in which the supporting players literally worked for peanuts.

It was a scene in which Mitchum, at losse ends in the big city, sat down on a park bench in front of a church and fed the pigeons.

Real peanuts were used at the insistence of realist Wise, and they attracted scores of birds. But, not being members of any Guild or Union, they got nothing for the job ... except of course the peanuts.

"Two For The Seesaw," filmed in Panavision, is based on William Gibson's smash Broadway hit. It was adapted to the screen by top writer Isobel Lennart, and concerns the romance between a Greenwich Village kook and a lonely "square" from Omaha.

Daily showings are at 8 p.m. A matinee showing is scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Arizona Visit Packed With Sun Worshipers

HOLLYWOOD — Flew off to Arizona to peddle some books and found myself in the midst of a group of fabulous sun worshipers —movie stars, writers, tycoons— who flock to Phoenix from all four corners when winter comes. Never do I expect another day like the one Ronnie Reagan's mother-in-law, Mrs. Loyal Davis, gave me. Edith was born in Virginia but she's sure got some Missouri mule blood in there somewhere. She had four adorable children — Victoria Ellis, Robin Roberts, Don and Sally Goldwater — at the plane to greet me with yellow roses in the name of the American Cancer Society. And waiting at her home was Mayor Sam Mardian Jr., with the key to the city.

From there we picked up Colleen Moore Hargrave and hopped to Maine Chance, Elizabeth Arden's mecca for women, to lunch with Mamie Eisenhower and Mrs. Hillson from New York. Mamie's whiling away some happy days while Ike's fishing in Mexico. The food was so good I asked Sybil Ames (Amesie to all the girls) if she fed her patrons that way every day, "O, yes," she said, "but not as much. It's nonfattening."

When I heard Kit Cornell was in residence, I made tracks to the main house, surrounded by the Garden of Arden, and found Kit relaxing in a terry robe, with her face well oiled, her hair slicked back, looking lovely and enjoying every second. She's found nothing she wants to do on stage. "Since Guthrie (McClintic) is gone, I do not seem to have any ambition." Too bad — we all miss her.

Colleen Hargrave showed me Arden's private bedroom, a paradise with lemon yellow canopied bed, treasures from all over the world, and a view from every window. If I could sleep in that bed just once I think I'd die happy.

Edna Ferber had spent two weeks there before moving to the Biltmore. She sums up Maine Chance as "The most perfect relaxation. They wrap you in a cocoon of loving care. At times you feel so feeble - minded you have to fight your way out."

Edna's latest story "A New Kind of Magic," to run in a national magazine in September, can't be adapted for the stage. She says she's had her nose in a typewriter for the last nine years, but walks from two to three miles daily.

Before I settled down in that restful atmosphere, Edith Davis whisked me off to an autographing party at her home. I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw Beverly Bayne, who looks as young as she did when she was starring in pictures with Francis X. Bushman. She lives in Paradise Valley with her son.

I asked Mrs. Phil Wrigley (they own a hilltop house there that's slightly larger than the White House) why she and her husband didn't turn Catalina Island into the Monte Carlo of the Pacific.

"We want it just as it is," she said, "wild and untamed, with all kinds of wild animals —boars, sheep, even a herd of buffalo. We abhor gambling." Then she crossed herself up and bought five of my books.

Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright's daughter, Giavonna, told me the master's work continues. His staff carries on with as many pupils as when Wright was alive.

Barry Goldwater's mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann Johnson told me Barry was in Washington minding the store. Met Mrs. Roy Wayland, whose husband is called "Mr. Arizona" — he's done so much for the state; the Jack Stewarts of the Camelback Inn, wife of playwright, Mrs. Justin Sturm, whose son married Alice Longworth's daughter; Mrs. Fred Maytag — she's giving a zoo to the city in memory of her husband.

'Wine and Roses' Showing at Peak

According to statistics, San Francisco is the hardest-drinking city in the U. S.—but it's only a coincidence that most of "Days of Wine and Roses," the Warner Bros romantic drama nominated for three major Academy Awards best actor, best actress and best song now showing at the Peak Theatre, was filmed there.

"Days of Wine and Roses" is a different and daring love story of a young couple who start out as social drinkers and end up as chronic alcoholics. Presumably it could happen to anyone in any town—but it is a matter of record that San Francisco is particularly appropuiate for the dramatic adventures of Miss Remick and Lemmon.

However, the choice of the city by the Golden Gate was not dictated by its reputation for elbow-bending. It was chosen as the locale simply because a great deal of the picture is shot outdoors, and San Francisco has some of the most beautiful outdoors in the world.

'Escape' Current Tompkins Film

Today, he sits in the fashionable cafes of West Berlin's glittering Kurfuerstendamm. Or you might see him strolling through one of the city's magnificent parks, flanked by the most modern office buildings.

But a year ago, Erwin Becker lived on the other side of the Berlin Wall in Communist East Berlin. The story of how Becker led his family and a group of East Germans to freedom through a tunnel under the Wall in January, 1962, is told in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's taut drama, "Escape from East Berlin" now showing at the Tompkins Theatre.

The Walter Wood production, starring Don Murray and Christian Kaufmann, was directed by Robert Sodmak and filmed entirely in West Berlin.

Arizona Visit Packed With Sun Worshipers

HOLLYWOOD. — Flew off to Arizona to peddle some books and found myself in the midst of a group of fabulous sun worshipers—movie stars, writers, tycoons—who flock to Phoenix from all four corners when winter comes. Never do I expect another day like the one Ronnie Reagan's mother-in-law, Mrs. Loyal Davis, gave me. Edith was born in Virginia but she's sure got some Missouri mule blood in there somewhere. She had four adorable children — Victoria Ellis, Robin Roberts, Don and Sally Goldwater — at the plane to greet me with yellow roses in the name of the American Cancer Society. And waiting at her home was Mayor Sam Mardian Jr., with the key to the city.

From there we picked up Colleen Moore Hargrave and hopped to Maine Chance, Elizabeth Arden's mecca for women, to lunch with Mamie Eisenhower and Mrs. Hillson from New York. Mamie's whiling away some happy days while Ike's fishing in Mexico. The food was so good I asked Sybil Ames (Amesie to all the girls) if she fed her patrons that way every day. "O, yes," she said, "but not as much. It's nonfattening."

When I heard Kit Cornell was in residence, I made tracks to the main house, surrounded by the Garden of Arden, and found Kit relaxing in a terry robe, with her face well oiled, her hair slicked back, looking lovely and enjoying every second. She's found nothing she wants to do on stage. "Since Guthrie (McClintic) is gone, I do not seem to have any ambition." Too bad — we all miss her.

Colleen Hargrave showed me Arden's private bedroom, a paradise with lemon yellow canopied bed, treasures from all over the world, and a view from every window. If I could sleep in that bed just once I think I'd die happy.

Edna Ferber had spent two weeks there before moving to the Biltmore. She sums up Maine Chance as "The most perfect relaxation. They wrap you in a cocoon of loving care. At times you feel so feeble - minded you have to fight your way out."

Edna's latest story "A New Kind of Magic," to run in a national magazine in September, can't be adapted for the stage. She says she's had her nose in a typewriter for the last nine years, but walks from two to three miles daily.

Before I settled down in that restful atmosphere, Edith Davis whisked me off to an autographing party at her home. I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw Beverly Bayne, who looks as young as she did when she was starring in pictures with Francis X. Bushman. She lives in Paradise Valley with her son.

I asked Mrs. Phil Wrigley (they own a hilltop house there that's slightly larger than the White House) why she and her husband didn't turn Catalina Island into the Monte Carlo of the Pacific.

"We want it just as it is," she said, "wild and untamed, with all kinds of wild animals —boars, sheep, even a herd of buffalo. We abhor gambling." Then she crossed herself up and bought five of my books.

Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright's daughter, Giavonna, told me the master's work continues. His staff carries on with as many pupils as when Wright was alive.

Barry Goldwater's mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann Johnson told me Barry was in Washington minding the store. Met Mrs. Roy Wayland, whose husband is called "Mr. Arizona" — he's done so much for the state; the Jack Stewarts of the Camelback Inn, wife of playwright, Mrs. Justin Sturm, whose son married Alice Longworth's daughter; Mrs. Fred Maytag — she's giving a zoo to the city in memory of her husband.

'Wine and Roses' Showing at Peak

According to statistics, San Francisco is the hardest-drinking city in the U. S.—but it's only a coincidence that most of "Days of Wine and Roses," the Warner Bros. romantic drama nominated for three major Academy Awards best actor, best actress and best song now showing at the Peak Theatre, was filmed there.

"Days of Wine and Roses" is a different and daring love story of a young couple who start out as social drinkers and end up as chronic alcoholics. Presumably it could happen to anyone in any town—but it is a matter of record that San Francisco is particularly appropriate for the dramatic adventures of Miss Remick and Lemmon.

However, the choice of the city by the Golden Gate was not dictated by its reputation for elbow-bending. It was chosen as the locale simply because a great deal of the picture is shot outdoors, and San Francisco has some of the most beautiful outdoors in the world.

'Escape' Current Tompkins Film

Today, he sits in the fashionable cafes of West Berlin's glittering Kurfuerstendamm. Or you might see him strolling through one of the city's magnificent parks, flanked by the most modern office buildings.

But a year ago, Erwin Becker lived on the other side of the Berlin Wall in Communist East Berlin. The story of how Becker led his family and a group of East Germans to freedom through a tunnel under the Wall in January, 1962, is told in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's taut drama, "Escape from East Berlin" now showing at the Tompkins Theatre.

The Walter Wood production, starring Don Murray and Christian Kaufmann, was directed by Robert Sodmak and filmed entirely in West Berlin.

Menotti Opera TV Premiere On Sunday

When is surrealism not surrealism? When it's Menotti's opera "Labyrinth."

"I first described the opera as 'surrealistic,' " says composer Gian Carlo Menotti, whose work will have its world premiere performance by the NBC Opera Company Sunday in color on the NBC-TV Network (12-1 p.m., KOAA-TV, Channel 5).

"But it is really symbolic, using some of the tools of surrealism. Surrealism doesn't have logic. My opera does.

"In a sense, you might say it has an atmosphere like the novels of Kafka. It is a complicated puzzle, with several levels of meaning. It can be enjoyed on one or more levels on first viewing, but will yield further explanations on reflection later."

Even tho the libretto is "way out," the music is conservative. Menotti feels it is simpler and more melodic than much of his previous music, explaining, "It is like a ballad. I wanted to give it a ballad feeling. I still feel that the human heart has not changed through the ages. Melody is a primary factor in my opera because it is the strongest weapon of the composer to reach the heart."

"Labyrinth" will run probably about the same time as Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," about 50 minutes or a bit less. Menotti thinks his most successful operas have been his short ones like "Amahl," "The Medium" and "The Old Maid and the Thief" — but he does not write only short works. His new opera, tentatively titled "The Last Savage," will be performed next Springs at the Opera Comique in Paris and next season at the Metropolitan Opera in New York. "But," says the composer, "I feel very much at home in the shorter form. I like the conciseness of the one - act opera."

Menotti also points out that "Labyrinth" is the first opera he has written with a view solely for TV or films. All of his other operas, even those written for radio and TV, have been performed in the theatre, too. "Labyrinth" can be presented only on television or in films because it needs trick photography and man special effects which cannot be duplicated on the stage.

"I'm delighted to do this TV opera on NBC-TV, and I hope someone will ask me to make a film of it later on," says Menotti.

Ziegfeld Theatre Playhouse Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Restoration of the Ziegfeld Theater as a playhouse for stage shows after seven years of use as a television studio cost $250,000.

Owner Billy Rose said the sum was spent on renovating backstage areas, the auditorium and redesign of public lounges. Rose previously warned that the theatre built in 1927, may continue in operation for only about two years. After that the site may be taken over for a skyscraper office building.

'Diamond Head' Next Chief Film

The lush, lovely island of Hawaii has never before been dramatized so spectacularly as in "Diamond Head," next attraction at the Chief Theatre.

"Diamond Head," in color, stars Charlton Heston, Yvette Mimieux, George Chakiris, France Nuyen and James Darren. Aline MacMahon and Elizabeth Allen co-star.

Hawaii itself is a vital ingredient in the entertainment and excitement of "Diamond Head." Its history, its people, its problems loom large in this giant screen story of a ruthless empire-builder who, while disclaiming racial discrimination, challenges his defiant younger sister's romance with a full-blooded Hawaiian boy. Unconscious of his own hypocrisy, he simultaneously carries on a glowing, heart-warming romance with a lovely Chinese girl.

"Diamond Head" essentially is a bitter, revealing struggle between two self-willed people, the dominant Heston and the less-than-pliant Miss Mimieux.

'La Dolce Vita' At Arts Center

"La Dolce Vita," the sensational and controversial Italian film about the modern-day fall of Rome as seen by movie director Federico Fellini, will be shown at the Fine Arts Center at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Tuesday.

One of the most profitable movie produced to date and hailed as the greatest Italian film ever made, the movie has also stirred protest wherever it is shown, especially in its home location of Rome.

That it is shocking and sensational is by now a fairly well-known fact. But it is also a serious attempt by Fellini to present an apocalypse based on the Revelation of St. John the Divine which tells of the seven nights of destruction before the end of the world.

In those seven nights, Fellini guides the hero, a reporter (Marcello Mastroianni), who stands for Everyman, thru successive stages of degradation.

Pierson Likes Entire Staff

Frank Pierson is not only producing and directing the 'Arrow in the Blue" episode of Chrysler Corporation's "Empire" series, he has writen the script as well. Star Richard Egan asked Pierson how he likes directing his own script.

"Well," Pierson confided, "the writer and I have had very few arguments on how a scene should be played — and the producer has not said a word — yet!"

'Divorce' to Be Peak's Next Film

Divorce, honor and "murder" have all come under the camera eye before, but never with the success, creativity and top notch acting exhibited in the hilarious—yet hilarious, for comedy is the highly rewarding medium used—satire, "Divorce-Italian Style."

"Divorce—Italian Style," nominated for two Academy Awards (best actor and best director), will be the next attraction at the Park Theatre, with showings at 1, 2:49, 4:46, 7:03 and 9:10 p.m.

Marcello Mastroianni stars in the presentation, winner of the Cannes Film Festival "Best Comedy" Award and the Italian Silver Ribbon for "Best Screenplay" and "Best Plot."

Here is an unusual film that is a true rarity ...a comedy with a strong, serious message.

'Outsider' Opens Sunday at 8th St.

"The Outsider," the dramatic story of Ira Hayes, Pima Indian war hero who helped raise the American flag at Iwo Jima, is set to open Sunday on the screen of the 8th Street Drive-in Theatre with Tony Curtis starring in the title role.

The picture is definitely not a war movie, it was explained by producer Sy Bartlett, who has no aversion to war themes as he wrote the screen play and produced "12 o'Clock High," and produced "Pork Chop Hill."

"The Outsider," which was directed by Delbert Mann, traces Hayes' tragic life from his enlistment in the Marines in 1942 until his death from alcoholism and exposure on a butte overlooking the Pima Indian reservation in 1955.

The co-feature, "A Raisin in the Sun," stars Sidney Poitier.

Starting Wednesday, Hans Holt and Marie Holst are starred in "The Trapp Family" and the co-feature, "Zarak," stars Victor Mature.

Comedies Set At Tompkins

Two of the funniest comedies of recent years have been combined into a double exciting fun show opening Tuesday at the Tompkins Theatre. The first, "Lover Come Back," stars Rock Hudson, Doris Day and Tony Randall. It is the hilarious battle of two advertising agencies trying to promote a product called "VIP" which doesn't exist. Doris Day and Rock Hudson head the respective ad-agencies with Tony Randall leading the laugh parade as the rich owner.

The second comedy, "Come September," is set in an Italian villa where Rock Hudson flies yearly to meet Gina Lollobrigida, his girl of the month. Several complications arise as a group of girls have the villa booked, Walter Slezak, the vallet, has been making extra money by renting the apartments when Hudson is in America.

'Flubber' Held Over at Chief

"Son of Flubber," a Walt Disney production starring Fred MacMurray, has been held over a second week at the Chief Theatre. Co-starred is Nancy Olson, Kennan Wynn and Tommy Kirk.

"Son of Flubber" comes thru with many new and startling antics for the professor's flying Model-T. The special effects department has produced such things as a rainmaking machine that creates thundershowers indoors, even inside a traveling automobile; a football suit that flies its player thru the air with the greatest of ease and a glass-breaking device that shatters everything from window panes to milk bottles and cocktail glasses.

'Tamiko 'Current Feature at Ute

Hal Wallis, a producer who has won more awards than any other individual in the motion picture industry, scores heavily again with his bold, provocative screen drama. "A Girl Named Tamiko," now showing at the Ute Theatre.

Like all his films, "A Girl Named Tamiko" is characterized by a strong, fast - moving story, top stars and high production quality.

The plot is compelling and rather unusual, concerning the efforts of a cynical and somewhat vicious Eurasian photographer (Laurence Harvey) to obtain a visa for emigration from Japan to America. He loathes Japan and its people and feels that he can become wealthy and famous in America. To attain this goal he uses his attractiveness to coerce women into helping him expedite the red tape.

Harth to Play Concerto With Springs Symphony

SIDNEY HARTH

Sidney Harth, the violinist whom the New York Times has described as one of the finest violinists this country has produced, will appear as guest artist with the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra on Thursday evening at Palmer High School Auditorium. Conductor Walter Eisenberg has announced that Harth's performance with the orchestra will be of Saint-Saens' Third Violin Concerto in B Minor.

Harth, "Laureate" in the famed Wieniawski Competition of 1957, a brilliant past Naumburg winner and a first prize recipient of many other contests, is a front-rank and world-renowned virtuoso artist with the enviable reputation of being the "violinists' violinist" and the complete musician.

His successes have been spectacular in concert tours that have included, in addition to the United States, Yugoslavia, Belgium, Poland, France, Corsica, England, Switzerland, Africa, and Russia.

Interested in all phases of music, Harth, with his seven-league musical boots, covers continents with concert tours, teaches, plays with chamber music groups, conducts, and at the same time is Dean of Music of the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh. A favorite with conductors, he has played with the symphony orchestras of Chicago, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Houston, the Puerto Rico Casals Festival, and many others.

He will be remembered in Colorado Springs for his work here in 1957 and 1958 with the Colorado College Summer Concert Series.

Thursday's program at 8:30 p.m. will also include the Classical Symphony by Prokofiev and Pictures at an Exhibition by Moussorgsky - Ravel.

Individual tickets are available by phoning 633-1602, or at the Chinook Boxoffice, 208½ N. Tejon St. from noon until 5 p.m. daily, starting Monday. Tickets are $4.20, $3.60, $3, and $2.40.

Music Affects Shopping Habits

LONDON (AP) — A music company official says canned music has a marked effect on shoppers.

"For example," explained Michael Bleeck, "if a store is empty or near empty, we have light, soothing music to encourage the housewife to linger.

"But, if the store is crowded and the manager wants the shoppers to start moving, he can switch on a rousing march, or a fast-stepping Dixieland tune."

Bleeck's firm furnishes recorded music to hundreds of stores and supermarkets in Britain.

Kenneth Broderick, a supermarket chief, brushed aside the remarks, saying:

"Her suggestion is nonsense. I don't see how anyone can get sexy over tins of baked beans of pre-packed bacon.

"Yes, we do use music in all our stores, but it's not sexy. It's just light, pleasant background music."

Chevalier Cuts Four Songs

NEW YOR K— Maurice Chevalier has recorded the four songs he performs in Melville Shavelson's "A New Kind og Love," Paramount release starring Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward.

The numbers were recorded in New York, where Chevalier is appearing in his one - man show. Shavelson directed the film from his original screenplay.

Nationwide Theatre TV Network Organized

NEW YORK—Establishment of the nation's first full-scale theatre TV network, based on development of a unique color television projector, was announced at a joint press conference held by National General Corp. and the General Electric Company.

National General, diversified 220 theatre exhibitor and General Electric, developer of the Talaria color TV projection system, revealed an agreement giving exclusive U. S. distribution rights to National General Corp. for the projector in the commercial theatrical entertainment field.

The projector for the first time permits display on full-size theatre screens of high quality color TV pictures with a brightness equal to current movie color films. Talaria (meaning "winged feet of Mercury") paves the way for nationwide viewing - in color - of live Broadway shows, and major sports, entertainment and cultural events.

The joint announcement was made by Eugene V. Klein, president of National General, and R. L. Casselberry, general manager of GE's technical products operation. National General owns and operates 50 theatres in the seven state Intermountain area.

Klein also announced that National General has placed its first multi-million-dollar equipment and service order providing for initial use of the Talaria projectors in its own key city theatres. National General's area supervisor, Ray Davis of Denver, said Denver is almost certain to be one of the first cities to have a Talaria installation. The projectors also will be franchised, leased and sold by National General to other qualified entertainment exhibitors in main cities through the United States.

"A unique programming schedule developed by National General will start televising to theatres, probably in early 1964," Klein said. Live full-color telecasts of top Broadway shows, major sports events, specially produced programs of educational and entertainment value are being planned, he added. Transmission will be by telephone company facilities.

Music Affects Shopping Habits

LONDON (AP) — A music company official says canned music has a marked effect on shoppers.

"For example," explained Michael Bleeck, "if a store is empty or near empty, we have light, soothing music to encourage the housewife to linger.

"But, if the store is crowded and the manager wants the shoppers to start moving, he can switch on a rousing march, or a fast-stepping Dixieland tune."

Bleeck's firm furnishes recorded music to hundreds of stores and supermarkets in Britain.

The music man made his comments after a woman city councillor in Manchester complained sexy songs in supermarkets lull housewives into buying what they really don't want.

Kenneth Broderick, a supermarket chief, brushed aside the remarks, saying:

"Her suggestion is nonsense. I don't see how anyone can get sexy over tins of baked beans of pre-packed bacon.

"Yes, we do use music in all our stores, but it's not sexy. It's just light, pleasant background music."

Kovarsky Paintings on Exhibit At Arts Center Through March

A one - man exhibition of paintings by Yehoshua . Kovarsky, noted Israeli artist, will be on view at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center thru March.

The collection of some 30 works, titled "Homage to the Gods," represents the artist's attempt to find a plastic image for his God; to clad the deity in symbols of super - natural meaning.

A native of Vilna, Lithuania, the "Jerusalem of Lithuania" Kovarsky spent most of his life in Israel. His work is steeped in the mysticism of both these places, and shows an absorption with the legends and tales in which these ancient peoples abounded.

'IN DAYS OF YORE'

Still a citizen of Israel, Kovarsky has lived in the United States off and on for the past decade. He first received national attention in 1956-57 when he showed his paintings in New York, including an exhibition at the Jewish Museum.

James Johnson Sweeney, then Director of the Guggenheim Museum in New York, said that "Yehoshua Kovarsky's painting speaks for itself" and called attention to his "individuality, assurance, compositional integrity and native color sense."

These qualities have developed to a ripe, mature expression in personal statements that are lyrical and intense, elusive yet have commanding presence and impact. His works reveal an inner vision transmitted to the viewer in pure visual, painterly terms.

Time Magazine stated in a 1957 color story about the artist's series depicting creation of the world: "Every Israeli artist faces an age - old dilemma. Scripture forbids the creation of graven images, but the compelling affirmation of Talmud is 'This is my God and I shall adorn him.' The solution of Kovarsky was to move into his own kind of abstract symbolism, while holding to the philosophy that 'an abstraction must have meaning for the viewer.' "

Kovarsky himself says he does not use ready - made symbols, but trys to "reach out and touch someone else's imagination" with his imagination.

"I do not consciously try to create symbols, but simply to tell my own story; a story based not on research of the learned professions nor on archaeology, but on ancient folklore and primeval belief," the artist explains.

Kovarsky had had numerous one - man exhibitions in this country including museums in Pasadena, San Francisco, New York, Akron, and Cincinnati. Also in Tel-Aviv and Haifa, Israel, in Juerusalem, London and Rome.

Also current at the Fine Arts Center is the "Photography in the Fine Arts II" exhibition, featuring 140 photographs selected for their asthetic qualities and for their permanence as works of art.

This is the third exhibition dedicated to furthering the acceptance of photography as a fine art. The exhibit will remain on view through March 13.

The two faculty members are Prof. John Lewis of the geology department as Al, and Prof. Richard Bradley of the physics department as Doc. William Moon, a student at Wasson, will play the part of Giuseppe.

Dress rehearsals will be held in the Fine Arts Center Sunday, Monday and Wednesday nights.

Rodeo Judging Tips Told By Pro Contestant Tureman

The following story on judging rodeo riding events has been written by Sonny Tureman, professional contestant since 1940 and one of the top rodeo judges, to help viewers of "ABC's Wide World of Sports" better understand the scoring during rodeos televised on the series. The series will televise the Scottsdale (Ariz.) Championship Rodeo, today.

I guess the quickest way to lose your friends is to put on one of those striped rodeo judge's vests. In any sport it is hard for the officials to please everyone, and rodeo judging is no different. However, since the rules require all judges to also be active contestants, we are a lot closer to the situation than officials of many other sports.

After reading this explanation of how we score bareback, saddle bronc and bull riding events, viewers who watch the Scottsdale Championship at 3 p.m. today on "ABC's Wide World of Sports"—or any of the other rodors covered by this series- should have a better understanding of how the winners are decided.

First of all, two judges work the the events, each scoring the rides from opposite sides of the animal. We score the animal from 65 to 85 on the basis of our opinion of how hard he bucks. And we score the ride from 1 to 20 on the basis of how much the cowboy spurs the horse. They are added together and that is the score for the ride.

In order to give the horse every advantage, and to put the rider at a slight disadvantage, we have a rule called "marking a horse out." This requires a cowboy to have his feet high on a horse's neck the first jump out of the chute. If a horse runs a few stride before the first jump, the rider must leave his feet there till after the jump, a very difficult maneuver on some horses.

Bear in mind, we are scoring the entire jump. A horse or bull can put in a spectacular jump, and one that's very hard to weather, and then slow up but we can't score him any higher than the horse we feel put in a real effort for the entire ride. So in judging a horse's performance we're looking for the power of his jumps and kicks. Often we will mark a fast, rough horse fairly high and spectators may thing we are overrating him. However, we might notice the horse is landing on one foot and giving the rider an awful snap. Or, he may roll his shoulders which is plenty unsettling for the rider.

As for the rider, we are marking him for his overall control of the situation and how much he spurs the horse on. The tactics of the horse determine how tough it is to ride him. For instance, a horse that has his head down one jump, and the next second way up, is giving the rider a rough time.

In bullriding, the cowboy doesn't have to "mark the bull out." He must stay there in control of the animal thruout the ride and keep from slapping the bull with his free hand. Again, a one jump animal cannot be marked as high as one that is bucking and turning thruout the eight second ride.

If you keep these basic points in mind the next time you watch rodeo, I believe you'll enjoy and understand the riding events better—and you may find you are now seeing things you never realized were there before.

BREED OF THE WEEK

The Alaskan Malamute

The Alaskan Malamute, one of the oldest Arctic sled dogs, was named after the native Innuit tribe called Mahlemuts, who settled along the shores of Kotzebue Sound in the upper western part of Alaska. This Arctic region was discovered by the Russians who called it "Alashak" or "vast country." Native people were already living in this region when the Russians arrived and they returned with stories of "native people using dogs to haul sledes."

The origin of these people and all Arctic dogs has never been known for sure. In all of the early writings of these people the Mahlemut dogs are also mentioned.

A book entitled "Researches of Alaska" includes several references with these Malamute dogs being called the native dogs of Alaska. "Natives recognized in their crude way the importance of the dogs, as they were considered indispensable for transportation in the North."

Another Alaskan traveler, a missionary who journeyed thousands of miles by dog team writes:

"The dogs are powerful looking, have thick, dense double coats (outer coat of thick coarse fur and inner coat of fuzzy down lying close to the skin) called weather coats, erect ears, magnificent bushy tails carried over their backs like waving plumes, tough feet, colors varying but mostly wolf gray or black and white. The dogs have remarkable endurance and fortitude."

The Malamute has always been used as a draft animal. The sport of sled-dog racing became popular in the United States, and interest in developing a pure strain of Alaskan Malamute started in 1926 after a careful study of all types of Northern breeds was made.

The question of the "wolf" ancestry in any of the Arctic breeds is mere speculation. For generations no "wolf blood" has been successfully introduced, even tho some of the Alaskan breeders still maintain this to be so. One dog fancier points out the difference between the Arctic purebred dog and the wolf. "The Arctic breeds stand erect, have a proud appearance and carry their tails up — while the wolf has a slinking movement and carries its tail down."

The word "husky" is sometimes applied to the Malamute which is not correct. This word has been used in the North to describe working dogs of mixed breeds used to pull sleds. No pure-breed of Arctic dog is called a "husky" except the Siberian Husky. The Alaskan Malamute is the native Alaskan Arctic breed, cousin to the Samoyed of Russia, Siberian Husky (Kolma River Region), and the Eskimo dogs of Greenland and Labrador.

In the United States the Malamute is shown on the bench. They are still popular sled dogs for winter recreation. They are very fond of people, especially children.

There is a natural range in size of the breed. The desirable freighting sizes are: Males 25 inches and 85 pounds. Females, 23 inches and 75 pounds. In judging Malamutes their function as a sledge dog for heavy freighting must be given consideration above all else. He should be heavy - boned, powerfully built, compact with sound legs, good feet and powerful shoulders.

The Malamute is an affectionate, friendly dog despite his "wolf-like" appearance.

DO YOU KNOW?—

If your dog goes into a convulsion and he is in a place where he cannot injure himself, you should leave him alone until the seizure is past. If you must hold him down keep your hands away from his mouth. The dog is not vicious but may bite at the thing nearest his mouth. Convulsions may be caused by a virus infection of the brain, especially distemper. Other things may influence this condition such as ear infections, parasite infestations or epilepsy. Never worm a dog that is subject to convulsions.

Questions about dogs or dog shows may be addressed to Mrs. Glenn Urban, Rt. 4, Box 264, Black Forest, Colorado Springs, Colo., or phone 495-2143.

Frank, who recently produced "The Tunnel" documentary on an underground escape from East Berlin, said that the new program was one of the most difficult he has ever produced. He said that, unlike "The Tunnel" with its single location, the wide scope of the Common Market story required filming at more than 40 different places.

Davis was not unknown to some night - club goers when he opened at the Red Carpet last Tuesday night since he did an eight-year stint at Wolhurst's Bokare Room, near Littleton, and has played a number of Denver spots, including the Senate Lounge.

Before he took to the more popular fields of music because the pay was better, Davis was trained as a concert pianist, and he still likes semi - classics best.

He recently returned to the mainland from Hawaii, where he did a stand at the Grog Shop of the Gourmet at Waikiki Beach. This was his second visit to Hawaii, where he played for 12 weeks in 1958.

Davis not only sings in a variety of languages but he plays almost every type of music. He's booked as presenting "intimate comedy at the keyboard."

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetler

Southern Colorado Art Seen in Pueblo Exhibit

PUEBLO ART SHOW — The second annual "Own Your Own Art Show" for southern Colorado artists opens Sunday at Pueblo College, to continue thru March 7. Artists represented are from southern Colorado, up to and including Colorado Springs. The show was juried by the Pueblo College Art Department. At the first show of this kind in Pueblo last year, a total of $1,000 worth of art was sold. The receipts of the show are used for art scholarships at Pueblo College. Sponsors are the Pueblo College and the Service League of Pueblo.

BEN GAHART — Organist Ben Gahart will present a recital at 4 p.m., Sunday, at Grace Episcopal Church, under auspices of the Alice Bemis Taylor Trust. Gahart will be assisted by Soprano Arline Kushnir, who will sing a work relatively unknown in this country, the interesting "Stabat Mater" by the Austrian composer Joseph Messner. The concert is free and open to the general public.

Gahart will play the prelude and fugue in F minor by Bach, followed by Larghetto by Bassani; the Hen by Rameau; Tiento in B-flat Major by Cabanilles. Then Arline Kushnir will sing the Stabat Mater; after which Gahart will present the second portion: Dithyramb by Wyton; Song to the Flowers by Peeters; Roulade by Bingham; and Introduction and Passacaglia by Reger.

JO BOATRIGHT — Well-known pianist Jo Boatright, who recently was a contestant in the Van Cliburn competition in Ft. Worth, will appear in a solo recital, at 4 p.m., March 10, at Perkins Hall, Colorado College, as one of the artists in the college winter concert series. The concert will be open free of charge to the general public.

CATLIN EXHIBIT — An exhibition of 35 oil paintings and 12 color lithographs by George Catlin, 17-96-1872, famous artist and historian of the American Indians, is on view new at Denver Art Museum's Chappell House. The paintings are selected from the extensive collection of Catlin's work preserved in the Division of Ethnology of the Y. S. National Museum, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution. Catlin was the first artist of stature to travel to the Western Plains, to document the primitive tribes. He spent many years among the Indians, living with them, acquiring their languages and making copious notes and many studies for paintings. He recaptures the realistic, detailed portraits, the costumes, and the character of the Indians.

"DEAR SUH" — Writes Gladney Sylvester, the painter, sculptor, and commentator on Zen, "Ah wush they would quit talking so much about the famous Mona Lisa smile; what's so strange about that? There are plenty of art objects which smile — and a lady smiling —. Why, ladies smile all the time inside, every time a lady looks at a man she smiles insde — ah wonder why?

"Wonder why France sent us a picture? Don't us already got a picture, huh?

"If they want a hundred million for hit — don't buy hit. Ah got one of me own which ah will sell for a mere million.

"France better start saying— 'Wont you all come home Bill Bailey, wont you all come home —rainy evening, nothing but a fine tooth comb, come on, back to Paris honey where girls are girls and men are the Grand Charles.' That's the way it goes, gentle reader. Yours truly, Gladney M. Sylvester.

STONE MONUMENTS — The Japanese have resurrected the art of erecting stone monuments, and apparently they like the idea so much that they find plenty of opportunities to commemorate by these monuments, from a poem to a famous person or event.

Some of these stone monuments look like granite boulders, others like rough - hewn, high granite slabs, others, still, are shaped in more sculptural forms, but in most cases these monuments are kept as simple and rough-hewn as possible, impressive because of their ruggedness and simplicity, as well as by their finely wrought balance.

The tradition of erecting stone monuments is of ancient Chinese origin. The Japanese took over this tradition and have built stone monuments with inscriptions of classic Chinese poems, Japanese verse or passages out of famous works by the personalities for whom the monuments are erected.

Imagine a big boulder, with a few verses of Hiawatha inscribed; or a granite stela, with a sonnet by Shakespeare. Come to think of it, the idea is not at all bad.

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetler

Hong Kong Still Remains Far East's Big Thriller

HONG KONG — By Gene Gleason —John Day Co.—$5.95— How come Hong Kong? That is a natural question, in view of the fact that Red China has not gobbled it up as yet. Is it true that the British navy can defend Hong Kong from Red China?

Certainly, Hong Kong today is one of the most fascinating, spy-thriller places in the political world. Gleason is a veteran newspaperman, who has come up with a thorough and competent job in this 310-page volume, telling how the divergent cultures and political opinions manage to keep existing in Hong Kong.

The population is growing. Hong Kong "hasn't enough land to stand on, can't raise enough food or store enough water, is incessantly harried by rising tariffs and shipping costs, and has no idea what its gigantic neighbor to the north will do next, but it would appear that Hong Kong does not have a worry in the world."

That's appearances, of course. Gleason covers everything, from history to the shopping, and dining, opportunities — and pitfalls — in the British crown colony. Which may be just what the traveling public needs, since a trip to the Far East today is regarded as wasted unless a stop is made at Hong Kong.

And yet, the book is not heavy reading. It has more substance than the average guidebook, but it never loses itself in mazes of statistics. The suspense is created in the book by emphasizing the story of survival: How hundreds of thousands of refugees and residents manage to survive fire, pestilence, starvation and government harassment (on both sides of the bamboo curtain): how piracy has managed to thrive thru the centuries despite the most extensive efforts to stamp it out.

It also tells how Hong Kong businessmen manage to prosper despite wars, blockades, union troubles, inefficiency and bureaucracy, and how British colonial rulers have managed to overcome all the above handicaps, and more than that, have managed to hang on to the Crown Colony, literally in the jaws of the Red Chinese dragon.

The secret might be of course, that the Chinese Dragon needs Hong Kong as much as th British do, to attract the tidbits, in the form of foreign exchange.

AMERICA AND RUSSIA — The concern of America and Russia with each other is not only a product of the cold war. It goes back many years. Simon and Schuster has put out this volume at $5, which is a collection of articles from American Heritage magazine outlining the course of the United States relations with Russia from the days of the new American republic to the present Cold War.

It tells of the walks which John Quincy Adams used to take with Czar Alexander I; of a flourishing Russian colony in California that farmed and traded for more than 30 years in the early 1800's; of the mysterious visit of the Russian navy to New York during the Civil War, and of the deal that ended Russia's foothold on the North American continent and gave Alaska to the United States.

The book also includes an interesting section dealing with American history as Soviet readers get it.

FACE OF NORTH AMERICA—by Peter Farb — Harper — $6.50 — This is a book for anyone interested in a comprehensive package of information about the North American continent, covering its physical nature, its trees and flowers, its birds and beasts, its changes through the year, with a subtitle "The Natural History of a Continent." It includes geology, oceanography, mineralogy and many branches of biology.

It tells of specific places where the effect of glacial action can be seen. It describes the ever changing shore line, with curiosities of marine life, and specific locations where these can be studied.

The book tells how mountains and deserts are formed, plots the flyways of migrating birds, explains the differences between old rivers and young ones, mature forests and renewed forests, and gets into ecology, the balance of nature in a changing environment.

Cape Cod is discussed and what its ultimate fate will be. There is a section on corals and mangrove trees, a description of the different forest levels at which various birds live in the Great Smokies, an explanation of the different plumbing arrangements of geysers and volcanoes, why the timber line varies in the mountains, and how marine life clings to the rocks in defiance of smashing waves.

Many photographs illustrate the story, and there is an appendix of outstanding natural areas.

In other words, the author has packed into his text a mountain of facts, enlivened with illustrations which makes it colorful and interesting for young and old alike.

Texas College Stockpiles Works by Hemingway

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Author Ernest Hemingway once said he did not believe his books would stand as a literary monument.

"I am not always happy about what I write," the bearded writer said shortly before his death in 1961. "I am a writer by determination rather than natural talent."

Whether Hemingway really meant what he said may be subject for 21st Century classroom debate.

One scholar, Dr. F. Warren Roberts of the University of Texas, thinks that 50 years from now students of literature will probe Hemingway's works and the period in which he wrote just as the works of Byron, Shelley and Keats have been inspected.

"For that reason," says Roberts, "we're trying to build up a research collection for the study of the writing of American authors in the 20th Century."

As director of the university's humanities research center, Roberts guides a program designed to collect important authors' works before they become scattered and possibly lost.

Some of Hemingway's manuscripts, books inscribed by him galley proofs corrected in his own handwriting and letters to and from the late author make up an important part of that collection. A recent addition, valued at approximately $50,000, brought the university's efforts to the public eye.

It came from Lee Samuels of New York, a book dealer and former fishing companion of Hemingway. It consists primarily of books and magazines with autographed marginal notes and some of Hemingway's letter to Samuels. Also included were galley proofs corrected in the author's own hand of "The Old Man and the Sea," a book Hemingway himself said he wished to be the "crowning work of my life."

"We can get things like this practically free now," Roberts said. "The real service, however, will come 50 to 75 years from now."

Acquiring collections, said Roberts, is far less expensive than buying items individually.

"Many of our acquisitions, including those of Hemingway's works, are part gift and part purchase," he said.

He considers the "big prizes" to be handwritten or typed manuscripts by important authors. Falling in this category are the manuscript of "Death in the Afternoon," a story of bullfighting, and one of Hemingway's best known short stories, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," both now the property of the university.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetler

Southern Colorado Art Seen in Pueblo Exhibit

PUEBLO ART SHOW — The second annual "Own Your Own Art Show" for southern Colorado artists opens Sunday at Pueblo College, to continue thru March 7. Artists represented are from southern Colorado, up to and including Colorado Springs. The show was juried by the Pueblo College Art Department. At the first show of this kind in Pueblo last year, a total of $1,000 worth of art was sold. The receipts of the show are used for art scholarships at Pueblo College. Sponsors are the Pueblo College and the Service League of Pueblo.

BEN GAHART — Organist Ben Gahart will present a recital at 4 p.m., Sunday, at Grace Episcopal Church, under auspices of the Alice Bemis Taylor Trust. Gahart will be assisted by Soprano Arline Kushnir, who will sing a work relatively unknown in this country, the interesting "Stabat Mater" by the Austrian composer Joseph Messner. The concert is free and open to the general public.

Gahart will play the prelude and fugue in F minor by Bach, followed by Larghetto by Bassani; the Hen by Rameau; Tiento in B-flat Major by Cabanilles. Then Arline Kushnir will sing the Stabat Mater; after which Gahart will present the second portion: Dithyramb by Wyton; Song to the Flowers by Peeters; Roulade by Bingham; and Introduction and Passacaglia by Reger.

JO BOATRIGHT — Well-known pianist Jo Boatright, who recently was a contestant in the Van Cliburn competition in Ft. Worth, will appear in a solo recital, at 4 p.m., March 10, at Perkins Hall, Colorado College, as one of the artists in the college winter concert series. The concert will be open free of charge to the general public.

CATLIN EXHIBIT — An exhibition of 35 oil paintings and 12 color lithographs by George Catlin, 17-96-1872, famous artist and historian of the American Indians, is on view now at Denver Art Museum's Chappell House. The paintings are selected from the extensive collection of Catlin's work preserved in the Division of Ethnology of the Y. S. National Museum, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution. Catlin was the first artist of stature to travel to the Western Plains, to document the primitive tribes. He spent many years among the Indians, living with them, acquiring their languages and making copious notes and many studies for paintings. He recaptures the realistic, detailed portraits, the costumes, and the character of the Indians.

"DEAR SUH" — Writes Gladney Sylvester, the painter, sculptor, and commentator on Zen, "Ah wush they would quit talking so much about the famous Mona Lisa smile; what's so strange about that? There are plenty of art objects which smile — and a lady smiling — Why, ladies smile all the time inside, every time a lady looks at a man she smiles insde — ah wonder why?

"Wonder why France sent us a picture? Don't us already got a picture, huh?

"If they want a hundred million for hit — don't buy hit. Ah got one of me own which ah will sell for a mere million.

"France better start saying—'Wont you all come home Bill Bailey, wont you all come home —rainy evening, nothing but a fine tooth comb, come on, back to Paris honey where girls are girls and men are the Grand Charles.' That's the way it goes, gentle reader. Yours truly, Gladney M. Sylvester.

STONE MONUMENTS — The Japanese have resurrected the art of erecting stone monuments, and apparently they like the idea so much that they find plenty of opportunities to commemorate by these monuments, from a poem to a famous person or event.

Some of these stone monuments look like granite boulders, others like rough - hewn, high granite slabs, others, still, are shaped in more sculptural forms, but in most cases these monuments are kept as simple and rough-hewn as possible, impressive because of their ruggedness and simplicity, as well as by their finely wrought balance.

The tradition of erecting stone monuments is of ancient Chinese origin. The Japanese took over this tradition and have built stone monuments with inscriptions of classic Chinese poems, Japanese verse or passages out of famous works by the personalities for whom the monuments are erected.

Imagine a big boulder, with a few verses of Hiawatha inscribed; or a granite stela, with a sonnet by Shakespeare. Come to think of it, the idea is not at all bad.

American Family Owns 'Vernon Mona Lisa'

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK, (AP — Leonardo de Vinci's famous "Monda Lisa," on loan from the Louvre, has left the Naitonal Gallery in Washington for a visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

So this is an appropriate time to recall another "Mona Lisa" that has been in the hands of an American family for a century and a half. The story of how it came here is almost as exciting as the experience of seeing such a painting.

As many followers of art know, several versions of the "Mona Lisa" have turned up over the years in France, England and other European countries, and even in this country. Art experts say that some of them quite obviously are copies, some of later date.

But some of them, by laboratory tests, can be shown to have the right age. They lack the thorough documentation of the unquestioned example from the Louvre, but their owners feel Leonardo himself painted them. After all, he did two versions of "The Madonna of the Rocks," and it's possible he did more than one version of the "Mona Lisa."

One painting is known as the "Vernon Mona Lisa" from the name of the family which has owned it. At present it is in a storage vault not many miles from the Metropolitan Museum.

In 1778 William Henry Vernon of Newport, R. I., who had been graduated recently from Princeton University at the age of 18, went to Paris. His family had a good friend — Benjamin Franklin — who introduced him at the court of Louis XVI. Young Vernon liked court life so much that he stayed nearly two decades, right through the turmoil of the French Revolution.

Although he was imprisoned for a time during the Reign of Terror, he managed to get back to America in 1797, bringing his court costume of peach brocade, an embroidered taffeta dress whose owner he never identified — and 55 Old Master paintings.

Vernon certainly wasn't afflicted by poverty. On the other hand, his father had not supplied him with the sort of funds that would enable him to collect that many Old Masters. (After his death in 1833 most of them were sold at auction in Newport.)

The implication is that, with the help of his American citizenship, he was able during the French Revolution to smuggle out to safety many members of the French nobility, who paid him off in works of art. There even was an old record of his passage to America, showing he was accompanied by a valet and a "pupil." One theory is that the pupil might have been the young French Dauphin.

If Vernon ever left an account of his adventures — and this seems unlikely — it has disappeared. The Newport home in later years became a museum, and descendants of the family have retained the "Mona Lisa" he brought with him. Many of the historical details were pieced together a dozen or more years ago by a friend of the family, Erlo Van Waveren.

The Vernon painting has one characteristic that differentiates it in one glance from the Louvre painting. On each side there is an edge of an architectural column. A less obvious difference is that some of the landscape in the background is a little different.

The image of La Gioconda is much the same, although the lady in the Vernon painting may not be quite as mature as in the Louvre painting. The colors are described as being definitely brighter, or perhaps less faded. The famous enigmatic smile is the same.

Grandma Raises Pedigreed Cats

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Jeanne Kunkel, a grandmother and part-time cashier, raises pedigreed cats in a loft.

She has 30 cats being groomed as pets or as show animals. What began as an impulse now takes up a good part of her every day.

On her first visit to a cat exhibition, she fell for a blue persian and bought him for $40 for a pet. A few years later she bought a female blue persian.

Mrs. Kunkel now enters several cats in competition herself. Her current pride is a champion silver persian officially dubbed Weequahic Silver Sonata, although he answers to Fatso around the house.

Shopping Bag Fishing Popular

NEW YORK (UPI) — The country is "going fishing"—with a shopping bag.

Pet industry sources report that in 1962 Americans bought a record number of live fish for home quariums. Because of the hundreds of fish suppliers, it is impossible to estimate the millions sold. However, the F. W. Woolworth Co., largest of the pet fish retailers, reports its stores alone sold more than six and a half million fish last year.

Hawaii Will Hold Series Of Festivals

Nobody takes to a festival more than the fun-loving Islanders of Hawaii.

And nobody gets a better chance to join in the fun, island-style, than vacationers in Aloha Land.

The Hawaii Visitors Bureau's calendar of festivals and special events includes the following, all on Oahu, site of Waikiki beach:

Cherry Blossom Festival March 2 thru April 14. Celebration provides Japanese classic theater and movies with English subtitles, kimono and lantern parades in Waikiki, tea ceremonies, exhibits of flowers, plants and Japanese crafts, and a gala coronation ball open to the public.

Kuhio Kalanianaole Festival March 23 thru 26, including a public luau, Hawaiian pageantry at the Waikiki shell in tribute to Prince Kuhio, fraternal rites in the Royal Mausoleum.

Opera Festival in Honolulu March 15, 17 and 19 with Cosi Fan Tutti directed by George Barati.

Wahiawa Pineapple County Fair March 15, 16 and 17, featuring research, planting methods, harvest machines and pineapple hybrids.

Victor Borge gives his big show at the Waikiki shell April 5 and 6. A salute to the memory of Hawaii's beloved singer, Alfred Apaka, goes on there April 28.

The Opera Festival continues March 29, 31 and April 2 with La Boheme.

Another colorful April event is the Hanamatsuri or Spring Flower Festival staged by Buddhists at a Waikiki beach park. The costumed religious dances and sweet tea rites are always of interest to visitors.

Easter Sunday, April 14, brings sunrise services in an extinct volcano crater at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific.

Lei Day, May 1, provides a state-wide exhibition of fresh flower, berry and foliage leis and hatbands at a Waikiki beach park, plus Polynesian pageantry and a queen of the leis.

Kamehameha Day, June 11, is the time of the Hawaiian parade in Honolulu, with flower-trimmed floats, as well as hula-dancing, pageantry and a luau.

Fiesta Filipina goes on June 9 through 19, with songs, dances and music of the Philippines.

The 50th State Fair takes place on Waikiki beach June 28 through July 7, with big name entertainers, hula shows and exhibits of Hawaiian arts, crafts, flowers and produce.

Other summer events are the Starlight Concert Series starting Julu 20 at the Waiiki shell and the Hula Festival August 4 and 11.

Dates have now been set for the Festival of the Pacific in Honolulu Nov. 16 thru 23. It gives visitors a chance to see a combination of events and festivals given throughout the year. The entertainment is typical of many different Pacific areas, including Japan, China, Korea and the Phillippines, as well as Polynesia.

This festival promises to become as popular as Aloha Week, October 20 through 26 on Oahu island. Dates for Neighbor Island Aloha Week festivities have not yet been set.

TONI SAILER DEMONSTRATES SWING

* * * * * *

'Wagging Tail' Is End-- Absolute Finale--in Skiing

By TONI SAILER

The Parallel Swing is everything you know about swinging crammed into a nutshell.

It's done faster than the Stem Swing. Your skis are in parallel position almost throughout the maneuver. Stemming is down to a mere hint.

Actually, the Parallel Swing begins after the first quarter of the Stem Swing, i.e. you stem only very briefly. The skis go into parallel position at the vertex of the turn.

While stem turns and swings are done in meander fashion, the Parallel Swing becomes a drawn-out serpentine.

As the turns move closer to the vertical line with decreasing radius, shoulder work becomes more and more a perfunctory move. At the same time your hips take over to swing your body around and exert steering pressure on the ski ends.

On a steep slope, where you check your speed to keep it under control, you can do the "Tip Dance." On each turn, lift the rear ends of your skis and move them around in a smooth turn harmonized with your hip movement while the ski tips remain on the ground. It's very elegant and it produces short turns, especially in deep snow.

From here it's only one short step to "Wedeln" (wagging the tail).

Wedeln is the absolute final product of skiing. There is no other maneuver left to be invented.

Wedeln is best described as an extremely short parallel swing with little shoulder work and plenty of hip work. Your target line goes straight down while your body produces the turns from hips down.

Stamps in the News

Birds of Israel are featured on the fourth airmail series from that small nation, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America. The lowest denomination depicts the Hubara Bustard, a large game bird which lives on the dry open plains. The Scops Owl, which exists in the hollows of trees, is shown on the next value. The Purple Heron, a longlegged bird which also is abundant in Florida, is illustrated on the highest value. Miriam Karoly of Haifa was the designer for the three new multi-colored stamps.

Speaking of birds, the bald eagle, the symbol of American freedom illustrated on the new 6 cent precanceled airmail postal card, is declining in population. This has been the cause of great concern not only to the National Audubon Society, but also to the U.S. government itself. That is why the bird appears on the airmail postcard—as part of a campaign to publicize the dwindling of the famed eagle. Today, federal law provides a maximum penalty of $500 or six months imprisonment for killing or molesting bald eagles. Florida and Alaska are the only states in which the bald eagle now survives in sizable numbers.

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetler

Hong Kong Still Remains Far East's Big Thriller

HONG KONG — By Gene Gleason —John Day Co.—$5.95— How come Hong Kong? That is a natural question, in view of the fact that Red China has not gobbled it up as yet. Is it true that the British navy can defend Hong Kong from Red China?

Certainly, Hong Kong today is one of the most fascinating, spy-thriller places in the political world. Gleason is a veteran newspaperman, who has come up with a thorough and competent job in this 310-page volume, telling how the divergent cultures and political opinions manage to keep existing in Hong Kong.

The population is growing. Hong Kong "hasn't enough land to stand on, can't raise enough food or store enough water, is incessantly harried by rising tariffs and shipping costs, and has no idea what its gigantic neighbor to the north will do next, but it would appear that Hong Kong does not have a worry in the world."

That's appearances, of course. Gleason covers everything, from history to the shopping, and dining, opportunities — and pitfalls — in the British crown colony. Which may be just what the traveling public needs, since a trip to the Far East today is regarded as wasted unless a stop is made at Hong Kong.

And yet, the book is not heavy reading. It has more substance than the average guidebook, but it never loses itself in mazes of statistics. The suspense is created in the book by emphasizing the story of survival: How hundreds of thousands of refugees and residents manage to survive fire, pestilence, starvation and government harassment (on both sides of the bamboo curtain): how piracy has managed to thrive thru the centuries despite the most extensive efforts to stamp it out.

It also tells how Hong Kong businessmen manage to prosper despite wars, blockades, union troubles, inefficiency and bureaucracy, and how British colonial rulers have managed to overcome all the above handicaps, and more than that, have managed to hang on to the Crown Colony, literally in the jaws of the Red Chinese dragon.

The secret might be of course, that the Chinese Dragon needs Hong Kong as much as th British do, to attract the tidbits, in the form of foreign exchange.

AMERICA AND RUSSIA — The concern of America and Russia with each other is not only a product of the cold war. It goes back many years. Simon and Schuster has put out this volume at $5, which is a collection of articles from American Heritage magazine outlining the course of the United States relations with Russia from the days of the new American republic to the present Cold War.

It tells of the walks which John Quincy Adams used to take with Czar Alexander I; of a flourishing Russian colony in California that farmed and traded for more than 30 years in the early 1800's; of the mysterious visit of the Russian navy to New York during the Civil War, and of the deal that ended Russia's foothold on the North American continent and gave Alaska to the United States.

The book also includes an interesting section dealing with American history as Soviet readers get it.

FACE OF NORTH AMERICA—by Peter Farb — Harper — $6.50 — This is a book for anyone interested in a comprehensive package of information about the North American continent, covering its physical nature, its trees and flowers, its birds and beasts, its changes through the year, with a subtitle "The Natural History of a Continent." It includes geology, oceanography, mineralogy and many branches of biology.

It tells of specific places where the effect of glacial action can be seen. It describes the ever changing shore line, with curiosities of marine life, and specific locations where these can be studied.

The book tells how mountains and deserts are formed, plots the flyways of migrating birds, explains the differences between old rivers and young ones, mature forests and renewed forests, and gets into ecology, the balance of nature in a changing environment.

Cape Cod is discussed and what its ultimate fate will be. There is a section on corals and mangrove trees, a description of the different forest levels at which various birds live in the Great Smokies, an explanation of the different plumbing arrangements of geysers and volcanoes, why the timber line varies in the mountains, and how marine life clings to the rocks in defiance of smashing waves.

Many photographs illustrate the story, and there is an appendix of outstanding natural areas.

In other words, the author has packed into his text a mountain of facts, enlivened with illustrations which makes it colorful and interesting for young and old alike.

Texas College Stockpiles Works by Hemingway

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Author Ernest Hemingway once said he did not believe his books would stand as a literary monument.

"I am not always happy about what I write," the bearded writer said shortly before his death in 1961. "I am a writer by determination rather than natural talent."

Whether Hemingway really meant what he said may be subject for 21st Century classroom debate.

One scholar, Dr. F. Warren Roberts of the University of Texas, thinks that 50 years from now students of literature will probe Hemingway's works and the period in which he wrote just as the works of Byron, Shelley and Keats have been inspected.

"For that reason," says Roberts, "we're trying to build up a research collection for the study of the writing of American authors in the 20th Century."

As director of the university's humanities research center, Roberts guides a program designed to collect important authors' works before they become scattered and possibly lost.

Some of Hemingway's manuscripts, books inscribed by him galley proofs corrected in his own handwriting and letters to and from the late author make up an important part of that collection. A recent addition, valued at approximately $50,000, brought the university's efforts to the public eye.

It came from Lee Samuels of New York, a book dealer and former fishing companion of Hemingway. It consists primarily of books and magazines with autographed marginal notes and some of Hemingway's letter to Samuels. Also included were galley proofs corrected in the author's own hand of "The Old Man and the Sea," a book Hemingway himself said he wished to be the "crowning work of my life."

"We can get things like this practically free now," Roberts said. "The real service, however, will come 50 to 75 years from now."

Acquiring collections, said Roberts, is far less expensive than buying items individually.

"Many of our acquisitions, including those of Hemingway's works, are part gift and part purchase," he said.

He considers the "big prizes" to be handwritten or typed manuscripts by important authors. Falling in this category are the manuscript of "Death in the Afternoon," a story of bullfighting, and one of Hemingway's best known short stories, "The Snows of Kilimanjaro," both now the property of the university.

American Family Owns 'Vernon Mona Lisa'

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK, (AP — Leonardo de Vinci's famous"Monda Lisa," on loan from the Louvre, has left the Naitonal Gallery in Washington for a visit to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

So this is an appropriate time to recall another "Mona Lisa" that has been in the hands of an American family for a century and a half. The story of how it came here is almost as exciting as the experience of seeing such a painting.

As many followers of art know, several versions of the "Mona Lisa" have turned up over the years in France, England and other European countries, and even in this country. Art experts say that some of them quite obviously are copies, some of later date.

But some of them, by laboratory tests, can be shown to have the right age. They lack the thorough documentation of the unquestioned example from the Louvre, but their owners feel Leonardo himself painted them. After all, he did two versions of "The Madonna of the Rocks," and it's possible he did more than one version of the "Mona Lisa."

One painting is known as the "Vernon Mona Lisa" from the name of the family which has owned it. At present it is in a storage vault not many miles from the Metropolitan Museum.

In 1778 William Henry Vernon of Newport, R. I., who had been graduated recently from Princeton University at the age of 18, went to Paris. His family had a good friend — Benjamin Franklin — who introduced him at the court of Louis XVI. Young Vernon liked court life so much that he stayed nearly two decades, right through the turmoil of the French Revolution.

Although he was imprisoned for a time during the Reign of Terror, he managed to get back to America in 1797, bringing his court costume of peach brocade, an embroidered taffeta dress whose owner he never identified — and 55 Old Master paintings.

Vernon certainly wasn't afflicted by poverty. On the other hand, his father had not supplied him with the sort of funds that would enable him to collect that many Old Masters. (After his death in 1833 most of them were sold at auction in Newport.)

The implication is that with the help of his American citizenship, he was able during the French Revolution to smuggle out to safety many members of the French nobility, who paid him off in works of art. There even was an old record of his passage to America, showing he was accompanied by a valet and a "pupil." One theory is that the pupil might have been the young French Dauphin.

If Vernon ever left an account of his adventures — and this seems unlikely — it has disappeared. The Newport home in later years became a museum, and descendants of the family have retained the Mona Lisa" he brought with him. Many of the historical details were pieced together a dozen or more years ago by a friend of the family, Erlo Van Waveren.

The Vernon painting has one characteristic that differentiates it in one glance from the Louvre painting. On each side there is an edge of an architectural column. A less obvious difference is that some of the landscape in the background is a little different.

The image of La Gioconda is much the same, although the lady in the Vernon painting may not be quite as mature as in the Louvre painting. The colors are described as being definitely brighter, or perhaps less faded. The famous enigmatic smile is the same.

Grandma Raises Pedigreed Cats

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. Jeanne Kunkel, a grandmother and part-time cashier, raises pedigreed cats in a loft.

She has 30 cats being groomed as pets or as show animals. What began as an impulse now takes up a good part of her every day.

On her first visit to a cat exhibition, she fell for a blue persian and bought him for $40 for a pet. A few years later she bought a female blue persian.

Mrs. Kunkel now enters several cats in competition herself. Her current pride is a champion silver persian officially dubbed Weequahic Silver Sonata, although he answers to Fatso around the house.

Shopping Bag Fishing Popular

NEW YORK (UPI) — The country is "going fishing"—with a shopping bag.

Pet industry sources report that in 1962 Americans bought a record number of live fish for home quariums. Because of the hundreds of fish suppliers, it is impossible to estimate the millions sold. However, the F. W. Woolworth Co., largest of the pet fish retailers, reports its stores alone sold more than six and a half million fish last year.

Hawaii Will Hold Series Of Festivals

Nobody takes to a festival more than the fun-loving Islanders of Hawaii.

And nobody gets a better chance to join in the fun, island style, than vacationers in Aloha Land.

The Hawaii Visitors Bureau's calendar of festivals and special events includes the following, all on Oahu, site of Waikiki beach:

Cherry Blossom Festival March 2 thru April 14. Celebration provides Japanese classic theater and movies with English subtitles, kimono and lantern parades in Waikiki, tea ceremonies, exhibits of flowers, plants and Japanese crafts, and a gala coronation ball open to the public.

Kuhio Kalanianaole Festival March 23 thru 26, including a public luau, Hawaiian pageantry at the Waikiki shell in tribute to Prince Kuhio, fraternal rites in the Royal Mausoleum.

Opera Festival in Honolulu March 15, 17 and 19 with Cosi Fan Tutti directed by George Barati.

Wahiawa Pineapple County Fair March 15, 16 and 17, featuring research, planting methods, harvest machines and pineapple hybrids.

Victor Borge gives his big show at the Waikiki shell April 5 and 6. A salute to the memory of Hawaii's beloved singer, Alfred Apaka, goes on there April 28.

The Opera Festival continues March 29, 31 and April 2 with La Boheme.

Another colorful April event is the Hanamatsuri or Spring Flower Festival staged by Buddhists at a Waikiki beach park. The costumed religious dances and sweet tea rites are always of interest to visitors.

Easter Sunday, April 14, brings sunrise services in an extinct volcano crater at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific.

Lei Day, May 1, provides a state-wide exhibition of fresh flower, berry and foliage leis and hatbands at a Waikiki beach park, plus Polynesian pageantry and a queen of the leis.

Kamehameha Day, June 11, is the time of the Hawaiian parade in Honolulu, with flower-trimmed floats, as well as hula-dancing, pageantry and a luau.

Fiesta Filipina goes on June 9 through 19, with songs, dances and music of the Philippines.

The 50th State Fair takes place on Waikiki beach June 28 through July 7, with big name entertainers, hula shows and exhibits of Hawaiian arts, crafts, flowers and produce.

Other summer events are the Starlight Concert Series starting Julu 20 at the Waiiki shell and the Hula Festival August 4 and 11.

Dates have now been set for the Festival of the Pacific in Honolulu Nov. 16 thru 23. It gives visitors a chance to see a combination of events and festivals given throughout the year. The entertainment is typical of many different Pacific areas, including Japan, China, Korea and the Philippines, as well as Polynesia.

This festival promises to become as popular as Aloha Week, October 20 through 26 on Oahu island. Dates for Neighbor Island Aloha Week festivities have not yet been set.

'Wagging Tail' Is End--Absolute Finale--in Skiing

By TONI SAILER

The Parallel Swing is everything you know about swinging crammed into a nutshell.

It's done faster than the Stem Swing. Your skis are in parallel position almost throughout the maneuver. Stemming is down to a mere hint.

Actually, the Parallel Swing begins after the first quarter of the Stem Swing, i.e. you stem only very briefly. The skis go into parallel position at the vertex of the turn.

While stem turns and swings are done in meander fashion, the Parallel Swing becomes a drawn-out serpentine.

As the turns move closer to the vertical line with decreasing radius, shoulder work becomes more and more a perfunctory move. At the same time your hips take over to swing your body around and exert steering pressure on the ski ends.

On a steep slope, where you check your speed to keep it under control, you can do the "Tip Dance." On each turn, lift the rear ends of your skis and move them around in a smooth turn harmonized with your hip movement while the ski tips remain on the ground. It's very elegant and it produces short turns, especially in deep snow.

From here it's only one short step to "Wedeln" (wagging the tail).

Wedeln is the absolute final product of skiing. There is no other maneuver left to be invented.

Wedeln is best described as an extremely short parallel swing with little shoulder work and plenty of hip work. Your target line goes straight down while your body produces the turns from hips down.

Stamps in the News

Birds of Israel are featured on the fourth airmail series from that small nation, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America. The lowest denomination depicts the Hubara Bustard, a large game bird which lives on the dry open plains. The Scops Owl, which exists in the hollows of trees, is shown on the next value. The Purple Heron, a longlegged bird which also is abundant in Florida, is illustrated on the highest value. Miriam Karoly of Haifa was the designer for the three new multi-colored stamps.

Speaking of birds, the bald eagle, the symbol of American freedom illustrated on the new 6 cent precanceled airmail postal card, is declining in population. This has been the cause of great concern not only to the National Audubon Society, but also to the U.S. government itself. That is why the bird appears on the air-mail postcard—as part of a campaign to publicize the dwindling of the famed eagle. Today, federal law provides a maximum penalty of $500 or six months imprisonment for killing or molesting bald eagles. Florida and Alaska are the only states in which the bald eagle now survives in sizable numbers.

Here's What Happens When Girl Leaves Farm

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Shirley Knight is probably as typically American as a girl can be. She's a contry girl who's hit it big in the city. She's the American dream come true.

Miss Knight is a lovely, intelligent and talented blonde from Lyons, Kan., which is farm Country near Colorado. Her father was an Okie, and the Knights had been what Shirley calls "stick farmers." Her grandfather was kicked to death by a mule when Shirley was 3.

Today, she's a sophisticated charmer, with a college degree (her father is prouder of that than of her career; she's the first in her family to go to college) and a growing circle of admirers. In Hollywood, she was working steadily and probably would still be working.

But she has chosen New York, even though there's little gainful employment here except for Broadway and an occasional television part. She's had the latter; she was memorable as a girl who became a ghost on a recent U.S. Steel Hour. And she's anxious for the former.

Why did she move East? Three reasons, one of which is her desire to go on the Broadway stage.

The second reason is that she's married to a young theatrical producer, Gene Persson (pronounced "pair-shun").

"And the only time we ever quarrel," Shirley says, "is when we're in California. Here everything is fine. We get out there and I'm so bored—it's so dull there—that we're at each other's throats."

The third reason is that she's become typed in Hollywood "as the sweet young thing."

"I told my agent," she says, "that I wouldn't take any more television roles of that sort. If he could get me a part as a psychopath or a mean woman, OK. Otherwise, I'll stay here. I think I could play any kind of a part, except a fat woman because I can't feel fat."

What does she do to keep busy here? Plenty. In the first place, she writes—"a nice lady from Doubleday says she'll print my short stories"—and she hopes to write a play soon. Then she takes courses—acting, ballet, singing. She's decorating her apartment.

"And I have a list of places I want to see in New York," she says. "One day each week, I go to see one of the places."

And that helps to make New York look beautiful.

Robert Preston is yet another West Coast veteran who has moved back East.

"I like to live here," Preston says. "The last time I did a picture in Hollywood, Jack Warner came up to me after we finished our last shot and said, 'Well, I suppose you're going back to Rye tomorrow.' I said, 'No, not tomorrow—tonight.'

"Warner said, 'Well, suppose we have to shoot some retakes?' And I told him, 'Nowadays, it's quicker for me to get here from Rye than to come in from Glenwood on the freeway.' "

Preston still maintains a home in California, where his parents live.

"It gives me a place to sleep when I work there," he says.

Preston's future is busy. He's got his upcoming CBS special with Carol Burnett first. ("It's a live show—I won't do anything else. If I want to work on film, I might as well do a movie.") Next is a 12-week engagement with an all-star cast on Broadway, in a revival of Shaw's "Too True to Be Good." Then there may be a movie or two. Next fall—this is still in the "possible" stage—there is a musical about Benjamin Franklin's life in France that he's exploring.

Obviously, he keeps occupied. And that's what he wants.

"I love my work," he says. "I'd even act if I didn't get paid for it."
